say about the exploitation of nature's scarce resources. This book, which is a much expanded version of an earlier publication Economics of Natural Resources and the Environment, aims mostly at final year undergraduates reading subjects such as economics, business studies, environmental science, forestry, marine biology, agriculture and development studies. There is also a good deal of material, especially in the chapters on fisheries, forestry valuation and discounting, that post graduate students may find useful as stepping stones. The material presented stems from my lectures to final year students at the University of Ulster during the last 12 years and some of my ongoing research work. When I moved to Northern Ireland in 1982 I was given a course called Economics of Exhaustible Resources to teach. This has changed its title and focus a number of times along with the structure of the University. My early reading lists included a number of journal articles and books written on the subject.
