CHAPTER VII AMMUNITION FOR PISTOLS AND REVOLVERS Nearly all the modern American pistols and revolvers are made to shoot metallic cartridges There are a few fine muzzle loading duelling and target pistols in use at the present time but the great amount of time necessary to load them in comparison with the modern breech loading arms makes them unpopular with most of the pistolshots and out of the question for revolvers for military use where rapidity of firing and reloading is required The difference between a muzzle and breech loading single shot pistol is apparently the same as the difference between the two systems of rifles If loaded a certain way there is no advantage in one over another Probably a muzzle loading pistol loaded the usual way of duelling pistols would show finer work than a breech loading pistol of the same weight length of barrel and bore loaded with a factory metallic cartridge But if two pistols exactly alike with the exception of one being a muzzle loader and the other a breech loader were loaded with the same charge one being loaded at the muzzle the other at the breech but instead of using a factory metallic cartridge the bullet was seated in the rifling and the shell loaded flush to its top and placed in the chamber after the manner of loading the modern breech loading target rifle it is believed that one pistol would shoot as well as the other Many of the foreign target and duelling pistols of recent manufacture are made breechloading and loaded in the manner described The expert pistol shot is well aware that he can secure a great advantage by preparing ammunition for certain purposes in a manner different from the way the manufacturer makes it for the trade but this point will      The Modern American Pistol and Revolver Gould A C,2016-06-23 Unlike some other reproductions of classic texts 1 We have not used OCR Optical Character Recognition as this leads to bad quality books with introduced typos 2 In books where there are images such as portraits maps sketches etc We have endeavoured to keep the quality of these images so they represent accurately the original artefact Although occasionally there may be certain imperfections with these old texts we feel they deserve to be made available for future generations to enjoy      The Modern American Pistol and Revolver A.
