Dogopolis Chris Pearson,2024-05-31 Dogopolis presents a surprising source for urban innovation in the history of three major cities: human-canine relationships. Stroll through any American or European city today, and you probably won't get far before seeing a dog being taken for a walk. It's expected that these domesticated animals can easily navigate sidewalks, streets, and other foundational elements of our built environment.

But what if our cities were actually shaped in response to dogs more than we ever realized Chris Pearson's Dogopolis boldly and convincingly asserts that human canine relations were a crucial factor in the formation of modern urban living Focusing on New York London and Paris from the early nineteenth century into the 1930s Pearson shows that human reactions to dogs significantly remolded them and other contemporary western cities It's an unalterable fact that dogs often filthy bellicose and sometimes off putting run away spread rabies defecate and breed wherever they like so as dogs became a more and more common in nineteenth century middle class life cities had to respond to people's fear of them and revulsion at their least desirable traits The gradual integration of dogs into city life centered on disgust at dirt fear of crime and vagrancy and the promotion of humanitarian sentiments On the other hand dogs are some people's most beloved animal companions and human compassion and affection for pets and strays were equally powerful forces in shaping urban modernity Dogopolis details the complex interrelations among emotions sentiment and the ways we manifest our feelings toward what we love showing that together they can actually reshape society

Affairs Committee,2009-06-29 The policing of the G20 Protests in April 2009 was a remarkably successful operation more than 35 000 protesters demonstrated in the centre of London with a police presence of several thousand yet there was a minimum of disruption Aside from a few high profile incidents the policing of the G20 Protests passed without drama However these incidents and the tactics that led to them caused considerable adverse comment and have the potential to damage the public s faith in the police The use of containment detaining people in a confined area for a sustained period of time and distraction tactics the controlled use of force against those who appear hostile while legitimate according to the police rule book shocked the public Whether they should continue to be used must form the basis of a wide ranging discussion on the future policing of public protests Police communications with the media and the protesters must also improve This would require the police media and protesters to engage better with one another both before and during the protest There are no circumstances in which it is acceptable for officers not to wear identification numbers and urgent action must be taken to ensure that officers have the resources to display identification at all times those officers found to be consciously removing their identification numbers must face the strongest possible disciplinary measures While the vast majority of officers on duty performed very well the Committee is concerned that untrained and inexperienced officers were placed in such a highly combustible atmosphere It cannot condone the use of untrained inexperienced officers on the front line of a public protest and feel that an element of luck must be attributed to the success of the operation
