Race, Racism, and Science John P. Jackson, Nadine M. Weidman, 2006 Since the eighteenth century when natural historians created the idea of distinct racial categories scientific findings on race have been a double edged sword For some antiracists science holds the promise of one day providing indisputable evidence to help eradicate racism On the other hand science has been enlisted to promote racist beliefs ranging from a justification of slavery in the eighteenth century to the infamous twentieth century book The Bell Curve whose authors argued that racial differences in intelligence resulted in lower test scores for African Americans This well organized readable textbook takes the reader through a chronological account of how and why racial categories were created and how the study of race evolved in multiple academic disciplines including genetics psychology sociology and anthropology In a bibliographic essay at the conclusion of each of the book s seven sections the authors recommend primary texts that will further the reader s understanding of each topic Heavily illustrated and enlivened with sidebar biographies this text is ideal for classroom use

Housing and Race in Industrial Society David H. McKay, 2020-07-26 This is a comparative study of the relationship between civil rights law housing and urban policy in Britain and the United States It focuses on the ways in which governments have attempted to remove racial discrimination and disadvantage in private and public sector housing The study first published in 1977 does not simply consist of an account of administrative and judicial attempts to remove discrimination A major concern is to place civil rights laws in their total political economic and social environments The book explains and compares the nature of racial residential change in both countries and assesses the impact of civil rights law on existing patterns of discrimination and disadvantage Other public policies in particular housing and urban policies are examined and their relationship to anti discrimination measures is analysed In explaining differences between the two countries emphasis is placed on the role of government in urban society the political economies of urban areas and the social and political differences between minority groups Finally the study identifies the limits to effective civil rights law enforcement and provides some indication as to the policy alternatives open to decision makers in the two countries
