Handbook of Race-Ethnicity and Gender in Psychology Marie L. Miville, Angela D. Ferguson, 2014-02-06 Multicultural aspects of psychology have received some attention in the literature in the last decade A number of texts currently address these significant concerns for example Counseling the Culturally Different Sue Handbook of Multicultural Counseling Poterotto et al 2009 and Handbook of Multicultural Counseling Competencies Pope Davis Coleman 2005 In their most recent editions several of these books address more nuanced complexities of diversity for example the intersections of gender or social class with race ethnicity Meanwhile other texts have addressed gender issues in psychology Handbook of Counseling Women Counseling Men with some attention paid to racial ethnic and other diversity concerns Clearly the progression of scholarship in this field reflects the importance of incorporating multiple aspects of diversity within psychology However no book currently exists that fully addresses the complexities of race ethnicity and gender together Better understanding of the dual impact of race ethnicity and gender on psychological functioning may lead to more effective conceptualizations of a number of mental health issues such as domestic violence addictions health related behaviors and achievement Exploring the impact of race ethnicity and gender also may provide a broader understanding of self in community as this affects individuals families and other social groups and work and career development Topics of interest may include identity development worldviews and belief systems parenting styles interventions for promoting resilience and persistence and strategies for enhancing more accurate diagnostic and treatment modalities Today's world is comprised of multiple and intersecting communities that remain in need of psychological models and interventions that support and promote both individual and collective mental health We believe that utilizing unidimensional conceptual models e.g. focusing solely on race ethnicity or gender no longer adequately addresses psychological concerns that are dynamic complex and multi faceted The proposed Handbook will focus on timely topics which historically have been under addressed for a number of diverse populations

Women and the Criminal Justice System Katherine Stuart van Wormer, Clemens Bartollas, 2021-12-30 This book presents an up to date analysis of women as victims of crime as individuals under justice system supervision and as professionals in the field The text features an empowerment approach that is unified by underlying themes of the intersection of gender race and class and evidence based research Personal narratives supplement research and statistics to help students connect the text material with real life situations This new edition is informed by consideration of major ongoing social movements such as MeToo Black Lives Matter and the fight to reduce mass incarceration The text stresses contemporary topics such as recognition of lesbian bisexual and transgender issues in juvenile and adult facilities the introduction of trauma informed care in detention centers and prisons the criminalization of Black girls and women the effects of an increasingly militarized police culture and the contributions of Ruth Bader Ginsburg and other influential women With its emphasis on critical thinking this text is ideal for undergraduate courses concerning women in the justice system

Class, Race, Gender, and Crime Gregg Barak, Jeanne Flavin, Paul Leighton, 2001-02-23 Class Race Gender and Crime Social Realities of Justice in America examines the dynamics of class race and gender as they intersect with the social realities of crime and justice in the U S today Criminologists Barak Flavin and Leighton reveal how class race and gender operate both separately and in combination to influence individual experience in and of the criminal justice system and larger society To this end the authors provide a detailed and nuanced portrait of the multi layered social reality of crime incorporating useful historical and contemporary examples as they analyze the twin problems of crime production and crime control The book examines how these social realities affect the meanings and intentions of justice law policing judicial processing punishment victimization and media representations of crime and crime control In light of these social realities the authors then look at similarities and dissimilarities between systems of equal justice restorative justice and social justice In conclusion they set forth a summary of reforms and policies for crime control and criminal reduction currently under consideration

Class, Race, Gender, and Crime Gregg Barak, Paul Leighton, Allison Cotton, 2018-03-15 Class Race Gender and Crime is a popular and provocative introduction to crime and the criminal justice system through the lens of class race gender and their intersections The book systematically explores how the main sites of power and privilege in the United States consciously or unconsciously shape our understanding of crime and justice in society today The fifth edition maintains the overall structure of the fourth edition including consistent headings in chapters for class race gender and intersections with updated examples current data and recent theoretical developments throughout This new edition includes expanded discussions of police violence and the Black Lives Matter movement immigration and queer criminology This book is accompanied by instructor ancillaries See the Resources tab for more information Instructor s Manual For each chapter in the text this valuable resource provides a chapter outline chapter summary and suggestions for additional projects and activities related to the chapter Test Bank The Test Bank includes multiple choice true false fill in the blank short answer and essay questions for each chapter The Test Bank is available as a Word document PDF or through the test management system Respondus

Criminal Justice

2000: Policies, processes, and decisions of the criminal justice system, 2000 Gender and Crime Sandra L. Browning, Leah C. Butler, Cheryl Lero Jonson, 2024-05-23 This volume takes stock of contemporary perspectives on gender and crime In 1975 Freda Adler published her pathbreaking book Sisters in Crime: The Rise of the New Female Criminal She made the bold claim that changes in American society including changing attitudes and opportunities would allow for greater participation of women in criminal enterprises Beyond her substantive thesis which turned out to be partially accurate Adler opened up a vibrant new area within criminology the study of gender and crime Now nearly a half century later the field of criminology is replete with women scholars who are making plentiful and important contributions As a result this volume explores cutting edge issues Part I starts by laying out a theoretical foundation focusing on the origins of theories of female criminality and then providing an overview of more contemporary perspectives Part II explores the role of race in shaping women's criminality drawing on the novel approaches of Black Criminology and the study of intersectionality Part III gives attention to issues that heretofore were male centric illuminating female desistance from crime the effects of peer groups and gender differences in attitudes toward criminal justice policies Finally Part IV considers the explanation of three important realms of criminality risky lifestyles white collar crime and terrorism This volume will be of interest to a wide range of criminologists and is an ideal choice for use in graduate seminars and upper level undergraduate courses The Oxford Handbook of Gender, Sex, and Crime Rosemary Gartner, Bill McCarthy, 2014-05-14 Research on gender sex and crime today remains focused on topics that have been a mainstay of the field for several decades but it has also recently expanded to include studies from a variety of disciplines a growing number of countries and on a wider range of crimes The Oxford Handbook of Gender Sex and Crime reflects this growing diversity and provides authoritative overviews of current research and theory on how gender and sex shape crime and criminal justice responses to it The editors Rosemary Gartner and Bill McCarthy have assembled a diverse cast of criminologists historians legal scholars psychologists and sociologists from a number of countries to discuss key concepts and debates central to the field The Handbook includes examinations of the historical and contemporary patterns of women's and men's involvement in crime as well as biological psychological and social science perspectives on gender sex and criminal activity Several essays discuss the ways in which sex and gender influence legal and popular reactions to crime An important theme throughout The Handbook is the intersection of sex and gender with ethnicity class age peer groups and community as influences on crime and justice Individual chapters investigate both conventional topics such as domestic abuse and sexual violence and topics that have only recently drawn the attention of scholars such as human trafficking honor killing gender violence during war state rape and genocide The Oxford Handbook of Gender Sex and Crime offers an unparalleled and comprehensive view of the connections among gender sex and crime in the United States and in many other countries Its insights illuminate both traditional areas of study in the field and pathways for developing cutting edge research questions Intersectionality and Criminology Hillary Potter, 2015-05-15 The use of intersectionality theory in the social sciences has proliferated in the past several years putting forward the argument that the interconnected identities of individuals and the way these identities are perceived and responded to by others must be a necessary part of any analysis. Fundamentally, intersectionality claims that not only are people's lived experiences affected by their racial identity and by their gender identity but that these identities and others continually operate together and affect each other. With official statistical data that indicate people of Color have higher offending and victimization rates than White people and with the overrepresentation of men and people of Color in the criminal legal system, new theories are required that address these phenomena and that are devoid of stereotypical or debasing underpinnings. Intersectionality and Criminology provides a comprehensive review of the need for and use of intersectionality in the study of crime, criminality, and the criminal legal system. This is essential reading for academics and students researching and studying in the fields of crime, criminal justice, theoretical criminology, and gender, race, and socioeconomic class.

Race, Gender, Class, and Criminal Justice Danielle McDonald (Law teacher), 2017. In the United States, those who become involved or interact with the criminal justice system often experience the system differently based on their race, class, and/or gender. To better understand this problem, the textbook examines race, class, and gender from a historical perspective to help the reader make the connection between the terms' historical connotations and how they are used today. The remainder of the text focuses on how one's race, class, and/or gender can impact interactions with the police, courts, corrections, and reentry after prison. To provide more in-depth information on issues that are relevant to the topics being discussed, each chapter includes In Focus text boxes as well as a Global Spotlight text box that discusses the topic from a global perspective. Each chapter also ends with a series of discussion questions to encourage further engagement and reflection with the topic. Teaching materials include PowerPoint lectures, test questions, and ideas for further classroom engagement. The fourteen chapters cover the following topics: DEFINING RACE AND ETHNICITY, DEFINING SEX AND GENDER, SOCIOECONOMIC STATUS, THE AMERICAN DREAM AND COLONIALISM, THE EVER-EVOLVING DEFINITION OF CRIME, RACIAL PROFILING AND THE POLICE, MILITARIZATION OF LAW ENFORCEMENT AND COMMUNITY-ORIENTED POLICING, JUDGES, PROSECUTORS, AND INDIGENT DEFENSE, PROBLEM-SOLVING COURTS, THE DEATH PENALTY, OVERUSE OF INCARCERATION, AND POSSIBLE ALTERNATIVES, REENTRY, DOMESTIC VIOLENCE, HUMAN TRAFFICKING, WHERE DO WE GO FROM HERE.

Girls, Women, and Crime Meda Chesney-Lind, Lisa Pasko, 2013. A compilation of journal articles on the female offender written by leading researchers in the field of criminology and women's studies. Reveals the complex worlds females in the criminal justice system must often negotiate.

Routledge Library Editions: Women and Crime Various Authors, 2022-07-30. This set reissues five books on the subject of women and crime. The titles, which were originally published between 1930 and 1996, include a book of case studies of female criminals, a comprehensive annotated bibliography on the social conflict and change of women in crime, and essays which examine the construction of women in criminology. This set will be of particular interest to students of both criminology and women's studies

Girls, Aggression, and Intersectionality Krista McQueeney, Alicia Girgenti-Malone, 2018-01-19 From media images of mean girls to the disproportionate punishment of Black Latina and/or queer girls in schools and the justice system, female aggression has become a public concern. Scholars, educators, policymakers, and parents are scrambling to respond to the perceived upsurge in girls' bullying, peer pressure, and aggression/violence. Girls, Aggression, and Intersectionality examines how intersecting social identities such as race, ethnicity, class, sexuality, age, and others shape media representations of and criminal justice reactions to female aggression. The book focuses on three overarching questions: How do race, class, and/or sexuality influence media images of female aggression? How do aggressive girls' intersecting identities affect law enforcement and criminal justice responses to their aggression? How are diverse groups of girls trying to resist their labelling and criminalization? Using intersectionality as a conceptual framework, this insightful volume deconstructs a unitary analysis of female aggression and transforms the mainstream discourse that paints girls as inherently mean. Girls, Aggression, and Intersectionality will appeal to undergraduate and postgraduate students as well as postdoctoral researchers interested in fields including Gender Studies, Women's Studies, Youth Studies, Criminology, and Media and Culture.

Race, Gender, Class, and Criminal Justice Danielle McDonald, Cherie Dawson-Edwards, 2022-11-30 In the United States, those who become involved or interact with the criminal justice system often experience the system differently based on their race, class, and/or gender. To better understand this problem, this textbook examines race, class, and gender from a historical perspective to help the reader make the connection between the terms' historical connotations and how they are used today. The remainder of the text focuses on how one's race, class, and/or gender can impact interactions with the police, courts, corrections, and reentry after prison. The second edition of this textbook embraces an intentional focus to include more diverse perspectives on the topics covered in the book. This includes the addition of a co-author as well as more references to the writings and research of those from diverse and often underrepresented backgrounds. A more in-depth examination of race and ethnicity also is included with a chapter now dedicated to each topic, their historical connotations, and how these terms are used today. A new chapter examining juveniles explores how childhood is constructed and how intersectionality impacts the experiences of youth in the juvenile justice system. Additional changes include updates to the militarization chapter, which adds historical and contemporary perspectives of protest policing in light of the 2020 social unrest following the deaths of Breonna Taylor and George Floyd. To provide more in-depth information on issues that are relevant to the topics being discussed, each chapter includes In Focus text boxes as well as a Global Spotlight text box that discusses the topic from a global perspective. Each chapter also ends with a series of discussion questions to encourage further engagement and reflection with the topic. Teaching materials include PowerPoint lectures, test questions, and ideas for further classroom engagement. The fifteen chapters cover the following topics: DEFINING RACE, DEFINING ETHNICITY, DEFINING SEX AND GENDER, DEFINING SOCIOECONOMIC STATUS, THE
