Repair Or Revenge Victims And Restorative Justice:

Repair Or Revenge Heather Strang, Director Centre for Restorative Justice Research School of Social Sciences Heather Strang, (Re, 2002) This book addresses the role of victims in our criminal justice system and the shortcomings they perceive in the way they are treated. It examines whether restorative justice can offer them more justice than they receive from the formal court based system. Research into the shortcomings of the court based system has identified a number of issues that victims want to address. In brief they want a less formal process where their views count more information about both the processing and the outcome of their case a greater opportunity for participation in the way their case is dealt with fairer and more respectful treatment and emotional as well as material restoration as an outcome. Over the past three decades the victim movement worldwide has agitated for an enhanced role for victims in criminal justice. Despite some successes it appears that structural as well as political factors may mean that victims have won as much as they are likely to gain from formal justice. A series of randomized controlled trials in Canberra known as the Reintegrative Shaming Experiments RISE has provided an opportunity to compare rigorously the impact on victims of court based justice with a restorative justice program known as conferencing. In these experiments middle range property and violent offences committed by young offenders were assigned either to court as they would normally have been treated or to a conference. Empirical evidence from RISE examined in this book suggests that the restorative alternative of conferencing more often than court has the capacity to give victims what they say they want in achieving meaningful victim participation and restoration especially emotional restoration.

Restorative Justice Marian Liebmann, 2007-04-15 Drawing on many years experience of working in victim support probation mediation and restorative practices Marian Liebmann uses pertinent case examples to illustrate how restorative justice can be used effectively to work with crime and its effects. Liebmann also examines how restorative justice is practised around the world.

Handbook of Victims and Victimology Sandra Walklate, 2017-07-14 This second edition of the Handbook of Victims and Victimology presents a comprehensively revised and updated set of essays bringing together internationally recognised scholars and practitioners to offer substantial research informed overviews within their specialist fields of investigation. This handbook is divided into five parts with each part addressing a different theme within victimology. Part I offers a scene setting exploration of new developments in the field enduring issues that remain relatively unchanged and the gaps and traps within the contemporary victimological agenda. Part II examines the complex dimensions to victim experiences as structured by gender age ethnicity sexuality and intersectionality. Part III reflects on the problems and possibilities of formulating policy responses in the light of the changing appreciation of the nature and extent of victimhood. Part IV focused on the value of a comparative lens and the problems and possibilities of victim policies when seen through this lens explored along three geographical axes Europe Australia and Asia. Part V considers other ways of thinking about who counts as a victim and what counts as victimhood and extends the boundaries of the victimological imagination outward.

Building on the success of the previous edition this book provides an international focus on cutting edge issues in the field of victimology Including brand new chapters on intersectionality child victims sexuality hate crime and crimes of the powerful this handbook is essential reading for students and academics studying victims and victimology and an essential reference tool for those working within the victim support environment      Pharmaceuticals, Corporate Crime and Public Health Graham Dukes, John Braithwaite, J P Moloney, 2014-06-27 The pharmaceutical industry exists to serve the community but over the years it has engaged massively in corporate crime with the public footing the bill This readable study by experts in medicine law criminology and public health documents the pr      Transforming Justice Responses to Non-Recent Institutional Abuses Anne-Marie McAlinden, Marie Keenan, James Gallen, 2025-03-20 Over the last few decades the issue of historical non recent institutional abuses has resonated in a range of Western states and churches Despite the recent proliferation of justice responses to such abuses including prosecutions and civil litigation inquiries redress and apologies it is a subject which is insufficiently understood in the literature Set against the complexities of the legal historical cultural and political realities of addressing non recent institutional abuses Transforming Justice Responses to Non Recent Institutional Abuses critically examines these justice responses across Northern Ireland and the Republic of Ireland Bringing together the voices of victim survivors of non recent institutional abuses with legal actors academics media professionals and church and state actors on their experiences of justice processes this book reframes discourses on accountability and responsibility and considers how to improve justice processes at the level of praxis and increase engagement between victim survivors and institutional actors Drawing on interdisciplinary literature related to restorative transitional and transformative justice and analysis of primary research the book advances analysis of the role of innovative justice in this space and a new approach to justice which bridges the accountability gap between seeking and achieving justice for non recent institutional abuses while improving outcomes for victims and survivors This is an open access title available under the terms of a CC BY NC ND 4 0 International licence It is free to read on Oxford Scholarship Online and offered as a free PDF download from OUP and selected open access locations      Forensic Psychology David A. Assisting Victims of Terrorism Rianne Letschert, Ines Staiger, Antony Pemberton, 2009-12-04 The fight against terrorism is receiving increased awareness due to recent wor wide large scale terrorist acts and only since then has some attention been directed specifically to victims of terrorism Existing legal instruments of international b ies like the European Union the Council of Europe and the United Nations c erning victims of terrorism are relatively abstract or include victims of terrorism under the broader heading of victims of crime in general In addition policies and legislation relating to victims of crime or victims of terrorism vary widely on the domestic level Against this background the European Union commissioned a project that should aim to develop more extensive standards for the aid and ass tance of victims of terrorism at the European level This study provides the basis from which more extensive standards could be derived The study focuses parti larly on developing standards in the field of continuing assistance access to justice administration of justice and compensation to victims of terrorism A novel feature of the approach is that also the possible utility of restorative justice approaches is examined An important question to address was whether there is a real need to adopt s cific standards for victims of terrorism thereby implying that their needs might differ from victims of ordinary crime

Just Interests Robyn Holder, 2018 Just Interests Victims Citizens and the Potential for Justice contributes to extended conversations about the idea of justice who has it who doesn t and what it means in the everyday setting of criminal justice It challenges the usual representation of people victimized by violence only as victims and re positions them as members of a political community Departing from conventional approaches that see victims as a problem for law to contain Robyn Holder draws on democratic principles of inclusion and deliberation to argue for the unique opportunity of criminal justice to enlist the capacity of citizens to rise to the demands of justice in their ordinary lives

Restoring Respect for Justice Martin Wright, 2008 This book records a symposium where imaginary presenters consisting of a politician judge psychologist probation officer victim assistance worker philosopher and mediator discuss crime and punishment This is the springboard for a review of developments in the field of restorative justice challenging many sacred cows of crime and punishment and focusing on the people who suffer directly the victims A key theme is that if society as a whole does not encourage respect then it ought to be no surprise that offenders have scant regard for the property physical integrity or rights of other people The system itself can serve to weaken rather than improve safety and security The book points to the dangers of a punitive mind set and reflects on the arguments and data in favour of an effective inclusionary community based response to crime      Critical Issues in Crime and Justice Dan Okada, Mary Maguire, Alexa Sardina, 2018-09-10 Critical Issues in Crime and Justice Thought Policy and Practice provides an incisive overview of issues and perspectives in criminal justice and criminology designed to expand upon key areas of study With contributed essays from leading scholars in the field the Third Edition illustrates the breadth of research policy and practice implications in areas such as crime theory law enforcement jurisprudence corrections and criminal justice organization and management New to this edition are chapters on wrongful convictions human trafficking and mental illness and criminal justice three critical issues facing contemporary policing courts and corrections The coverage of concepts insights voices and perspectives will challenge criminal justice and criminology students to synthesize what they have learned question standard interpretations and begin to create new directions and visions for their future careers as professionals in the field

Victims and Restorative Justice Inge Vanfraechem,Daniela Bolívar Fernández,Ivo Aertsen,2015-05-15 Restorative justice aims to address the consequences of crime by encouraging victims and offenders to communicate and discuss the harm caused by the crime that has been committed In the majority of cases restorative justice is facilitated by direct and indirect dialogue between victims and offenders but it also includes support networks and sometimes involves professionals such as police lawyers social workers or prosecutors and judges In theory the victim is a core participant in restorative justice and the restoration of the harm is a first concern. In practice questions arise as to whether the victim is actively involved in the process what restoration may entail whether there is a risk of secondary victimisation and whether the victim is truly at the heart of the restorative response or whether the offender remains the focal point of attention. Using a combination of victimological literature and empirical data from a European research project this book considers the role and the position of the victim in restorative justice practices focusing on legislative organisational and institutional frameworks of victim offender mediation and conferencing programmes at a national and local level as well as the victims personal needs and experiences. The findings are essential reading for academics and students engaged in the study of justice victimology and law. The publication will also be valuable to policymakers and professionals such as social workers lawyers and mediators.

Reparation for Victims of Crimes against Humanity Jo-Anne Wemmers, 2014-05-30 Each year countless people fall victim to crimes against humanity. These include widespread occurrences of systematic murder torture rape disappearances forced deportation and political persecution. Crimes against humanity constitute an attack on human dignity and as such they violate the human rights of the victim as well as the laws of humanity. In recent years following the creation of the International Criminal Court there has been a growing interest in the prosecution of offenders and in particular in reparation following crimes against humanity. While such measures are meant to provide justice for victims victims are often forgotten or lost in legal debates about what constitutes reparation and who is eligible to receive it. This book reaches beyond the boundaries of law and psychology and takes a multidisciplinary approach to the question of reparation for victims of crimes against humanity. Law does not take place in a vacuum and it is important to consider the impact of the law on the psychology of the victim as well as the legal principles themselves. Herein lies the originality of this book which bridges the gaps between psychology victimology criminology and law and will be of key interest to academics and students engaged in the study of these areas      The Ethic of Traditional Communities and the Spirit of Healing Justice Jarem Sawatsky,2009-01-01 In this groundbreaking international comparative study on healing justice the author examines a number of traditional communities Sawatsky identifies the common patterns themes and imagination which these communities share These commonalities among those that practice healing justice are then examined for their implications for wider society
