lab A step by step guide to designing building and using a digital forensics lab A comprehensive guide for all roles in a digital forensics laboratory Based on international standards and certifications Content Production for Digital Media Jay Daniel Thompson, John Weldon, 2022-02-11 This book provides an introduction to digital media content production in the twenty first century It explores the kinds of content production that are undertaken in professions that include journalism public relations and marketing The book provides an insight into content moderation and addresses the legal and ethical issues that content producers face as well as how these issues can be effectively managed Chapters also contain interviews with media professionals and quizzes that allow readers to consolidate the knowledge they have gathered through their reading of that chapter

The BBC's management of digital media initiative Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: Committee of Public Accounts, 2011-04-07 This report examines the management of the contract with Siemens and the BBC s in house development of the Digital Media Initiative Programme The Programme is designed to transform the way in which BBC staff create use and share video and audio material It involves the development of new technology to allow staff to manage content efficiently on their desktops in order to give greater accessibility of digital content for audiences on TV online and radio The BBC has made good progress in delivering the programme in house since it terminated its contract with Siemens It is now on course to deliver the complete technology by summer 2011 With hindsight the BBC should not have let the contract for its Digital Media Initiative to Siemens without testing the contractor against other suppliers especially as there was a high degree of innovation involved The Programme is no longer expected to deliver the overall net financial benefit of 17.9 million originally anticipated The BBC approved the Programme on the basis that it would cost 81.7 million and deliver benefits of 99.6 million but now forecasts costs of 133.6 million and benefits of 95.4 million a net cost of 38.2 million The Committee welcomes the Trust s assurance that it would now take a more challenging approach when considering procurements but are concerned with the ease with which the BBC found over 50 million in savings to make up for the losses it suffered through late delivery of the project and its own increased delivery costs This suggests the need for a more vigilant approach to value for money

Digital Media, Social Media, Immersive Media Mr. Rohit Manglik, 2023-11-23

Exploration of evolving digital media tools and their immersive capabilities The construction of public opinion in a digital age Catherine Happer, 2024-12-10 This book presents a new conceptual model for understanding the role of the media in the construction of public knowledge belief and opinion in the context of a radically changed communications infrastructure Drawing on a series of empirical studies conducted over nearly a decade Happer deploys evidence of a disconnect between neoliberal media and the public which is rooted in a disaffection with a mainstream political culture which has failed to deliver the societal outcomes promised As people are pushed towards alternative digital sources new communities of opinion are produced in ways which polarise publics and ultimately limit the potential for social change Offering an innovative and urgently needed new sociological analysis this book is required reading for an inter disciplinary field of media journalism and politics IR which has largely abandoned questions of media power and public opinion management as well as policymakers science communicators and journalists Key points of the book 1 public opinion formation and why people may come to different positions through the development of a new model 2 the societal outcomes produced when a widespread disconnect between journalism and public opinion emerges 3 the atomisation of opinion and its relations to newly constructed opinion communities with consideration of the role of class 4 the turn to digitally available alternatives which enable new less visible power agents to exert control and researchers have expressed deep concerns about the stigmatizing and sensational tone of news stories about HIV criminalization. Digital News and HIV Criminalization investigates the everyday work of journalists and uncovers how newswriting routines are hooked into other institutions including the criminal legal system, police, and public health that regulate the daily lives of people living with HIV. This lively institutional ethnography offers key insights into how the digital news media ecosystem is socially organized. It reveals that the fast-paced conditions of digital news media in the age of convergence journalism require the constant rapid production of sensational news stories that will be consumed widely by online audiences, often resulting in news writing that perpetuates social harms connected to stigmatizing racist and anti-immigrant views. The book illustrates how biased reporting on HIV criminalization reflects broader trends in online news and presents opportunities for HIV activists to form coalitions with other groups negatively affected by the current landscape of convergence journalism. Tracing how work that produces and circulates a standard genre of news story about HIV criminalization is coordinated across time and space, Digital News and HIV Criminalization offers a groundwork for political action aimed at disrupting the production of stigmatizing news stories.

Digital News and HIV Criminalization Colin Hastings, 2024-12-16 For years HIV activists

Digital Media and Democratic Futures Michael X. Delli Carpini, 2019-04-12 The revolution in digital communications has altered the relationship between citizens and political elites with important implications for democracy As new information ecosystems have evolved as unforeseen examples of their positive and negative consequences have emerged and as theorizing data and research methods have expanded and improved the central question has shifted from if the digital information environment is good or bad for democratic politics to how and in what contexts particular attributes of this environment are having an influence. It is only through the careful analysis of specific cases that we can begin to build a more comprehensive and nuanced understanding of the role of digital media in democratic theory and practice. The essays in Digital Media and Democratic Futures focus on a variety of information and communication technologies politically relevant actors substantive issues and digital political practices doing so from distinct theoretical perspectives and methodological approaches. Individually each of these case studies provides deep insights into the complex and context dependent relationship between media and democracy. Collectively they show that there is no single outcome for democracy in the digital age only a range of possible futures. Contributors: Rena Bivens, Michael X. Delli Carpini, Jennifer Earl, Thomas Elliott, Deen Freelon, Kelly Gates, Philip N. Howard, Daniel Kreiss, Ting Luo, Helen Nissenbaum, Beth Simone Noveck, Jennifer Pan, Lisa Poggiali, Daniela Stockmann.

Cultivating Ecologies for Digital Media Work Catherine C. Braun, 2013-12-25. The onslaught of the digital age has rapidly redefined the parameters of virtually every aspect of daily life and the world of academic scholarship is no exception. In English departments across American institutions of higher education faculty members face an uphill battle in the struggle for professional recognition of their digital works. In Cultivating Ecologies for Digital Media Work author Catherine C. Braun calls for a shift in thinking about the professional methods and digital goals of the English studies discipline and its central texts. Braun's in-depth study documents English professors and the challenges they face in both career and classroom as they attempt to gain appropriate value for digital teaching and creation within their field departments and institutions. Braun proposes that to move English studies into the future three main questions must be addressed: First, what counts as a text? How should we approach the reading of texts? Finally, how should we approach the production of texts? In addition to reconsidering the nature of texts in English studies she calls for crucial changes in higher education institutional procedures themselves including new methods of evaluating digital scholarship on an even playing field with other forms of work during the processes for promotion and tenure. With insightful expertise Braun analyzes how the new age of digital scholarship not only complements the traditional values of the English studies discipline but also offers constructive challenges to old ideas about texts, methods and knowledge production. Cultivating Ecologies for Digital Media Work is the first volume to offer specific examination of the digital shift's impact on English studies and provides the scaffold upon which productive conversations about the future of the field and digital pedagogy can be built.
