Evolution of Brain and Behavior in Vertebrates R.B. Masterton, M.E. Bitterman, C.B.G. Campbell, Nicholas Hotton, 2018-02-19. Originally published in 1976, the object of this volume was to present a relatively up-to-date overview of what was known, what was suspected and what remained to be discovered concerning the general question of the evolution of the vertebrate brain and behaviour and to present a list of references for those who wanted to delve deeper into one or another aspect of the problem. Accordingly, it contains chapters by palaeontologists, sensory morphologists and physiologists, comparative neurologists and comparative psychologists. The chapters are arranged in a sequence loosely approximating the order in which the various animal brain structures or behaviour first appeared. Therefore, the chapters fall naturally into sections, each section directed to a group of vertebrates, beginning with those which have very remote common ancestry and progressing to those with more recent common ancestry with mankind.

Crocodiles are not a reptile. Crocodile such as birds and mammals are a separate class, which have been derived from reptiles. Ramin Amirmardfar, 2019-09. I have found this matter for the first time that crocodiles are not a reptile. Crocodile such as birds and mammals are a separate class which have been derived from reptiles. Mammalian four-chambered heart from a reptile-like three-chambered heart is an extension of the septum; the wall dividing the chambers lost of the right systemic arch and the left systemic arch persists. In birds, lost of the left systemic arch and the right systemic arch persist. The lineage leading to crocodiles evolved a four-chambered heart along a different pathway, keeping both systemic arches. Zoologists putting the land vertebrates in 4 classes: amphibians, reptiles, birds and mammals. But I came to the conclusion that their crocodile are a separate class. As birds and mammals with obtaining four-chambered heart have been derived from the class of reptiles and create a separate class. Crocodile also have made four-chambered hearts and create a new class and has been derived from the reptile class.

Amphibian and Reptile Road Ecology Cheryl S. Brehme, Robert Nathan Fisher, Silviu O. Petrovan, Viorel Dan Popescu, Thomas Edward S. Langton, Kimberly M. Andrews, 2024-05-21. Roads may threaten the persistence of wildlife populations by acting as barriers to movement and/or sources of increased mortality across the landscape. Amphibians and reptiles have been identified as being particularly susceptible to negative road impacts. Many species migrate annually among habitats to support basic life history requirements such as breeding, development.

foraging and overwintering For these species individuals may need to successfully cross roads multiple times each year for the population to persist Many are slow moving and freeze in the presence of danger making it almost impossible for them to avoid oncoming vehicles Although there are a plethora of road mortality location and count data the effects of road mortality on the long term viability of amphibian and reptile populations and metapopulations are mostly unknown due to a lack of information on their abundance vital rates behavior and spatial and temporal dynamics Blackwell's Five-Minute
