Research In Family Interaction Readings And Commentary:

Research in Family Interaction Antonio J. Ferreira, William D. Winter, 1971 Marital Interaction John Mordechai Gottman, 2013-10-22 Marital Interaction Experimental Investigations deals with experimental studies on marital interaction. Emphasis is on the importance of the role of description in the study of social interaction. Methods for the analysis of pattern and sequence including cross spectral time series analysis are also presented. Comprised of 15 chapters, this book begins with a historical review of several research traditions that have concerned themselves with families and marriages: the sociological tradition, the family therapy or systems tradition, the social learning tradition, and the developmental tradition. Research that points to the potential importance of the observation of consensual decision making processes is also reviewed. A model of marital interaction called the Structural Model, which can be used to predict changes in marital satisfaction, is described. Subsequent chapters focus on the Couples Interaction Scoring System, an observational system for categorizing marital interaction; modern concepts of the assessment of reliability, particularly the stringent assessment that is necessary for sequential analysis; differences between well functioning and poorly functioning marriages; couples' interactional styles in terms of communication skill deficits and the concept of an individual's social competence. This monograph will be of interest to psychologists engaged in research on marriage as well as sociologists and clinical researchers. Current Topics in Clinical and Community Psychology Charles D. Spielberger, 2013-10-22 Current Topics in Clinical and Community Psychology Volume 3 covers new approaches to the treatment of emotional disorders. The book discusses the use of imagery, fantasy, and daydream techniques in psychotherapy; the psychosocial behavioral model for therapeutic intervention; and theory and research on family therapy. The text describes the use of information feedback as a method of clinical intervention and consultation; the need for psychologists who work with minority groups, i.e., black community as well as the epidemiology and prognosis of psychiatric disorders in the naval service. Community psychologists, clinical psychologists, psychiatrists, and students taking related courses will find the book useful. Sourcebook of Family Theories and Methods Pauline Boss, William J. Doherty, Ralph LaRossa, Walter R. Schumm, Suzanne K. Steinmetz, 2008-11-19 Origins We call this book on theoretical orientations and methodological strategies in family studies a sourcebook because it details the social and personal roots, i.e., sources from which these orientations and strategies flow. Thus an appropriate way to preface this book is to talk first of its roots, its beginnings. In the mid 1980s there emerged in some quarters the sense that it was time for family studies to take stock of itself. A goal was thus set to write a book that like Janus would face both backward and forward: a book that would give readers both a perspective on the past and a map for the future. There were precedents for such a project. The Handbook of Marriage and the Family, edited by Harold Christensen and published in 1964; the two Contemporary Theories about the Family volumes edited by Wesley Burr, Reuben Hill, F. Ivan Nye, and Ira Reiss, published in 1979; and the Handbook of Marriage and the Family, edited by Marvin Sussman and Suzanne Steinmetz, then in production.

Handbook of Reading Research, Volume III Michael L. Kamil, Peter B. Mosenthal, P. David Pearson, Rebecca Barr, 2016-11-18 In Volume III as in Volumes I and II the classic topics of reading are included from vocabulary and comprehension to reading instruction in the classroom and in addition each contributor was asked to include a brief history that chronicles the legacies within each of the volume s many topics However on the whole Volume III is not about tradition Rather it explores the verges of reading research between the time Volume II was published in 1991 and the research conducted after this date The editors identified two broad themes as representing the myriad of verges that have emerged since Volumes I and II were published 1 broadening the definition of reading and 2 broadening the reading research program The particulars of these new themes and topics are addressed Catalog of the Research Library of the Reiss-Davis Child Study Center, Los Angeles, California: A-K Reiss-Davis Child Study Center. Miller, 1986-04 Marketing research students starting with this book or one written on the same model would be better able to master the more detailed and comprehensive material in the basic marketing research text Journal of Marketing Research A long history of research on the family has led to ever more sophisticated methods for studying this unique social institution. Yet few family researchers have attempted to synthesize the methodological techniques used for students of family science. Brent Miller's concise book Family Research Methods does just that. Miller describes the entire research process from research design through data collection, sampling, and data analysis to explain to graduates and undergraduates alike just how family research is done. While many of the methods are shared with the other social sciences, Miller's work highlights specific family techniques and demonstrates family-related applications. This brief volume can be used to introduce students in family fields to the research process or to supplement more traditional methods textbooks by providing a family focus National Library of Medicine Current Catalog National Library of Medicine (U.S.), 1965 Handbook of Reading Disability Research Anne McGill-Franzen, Richard Allington, 2010-09-17 Bringing together a wide range of research on reading disabilities, this comprehensive Handbook extends current discussion and thinking beyond a narrowly defined psychometric perspective. Emphasizing that learning to read proficiently is a long-term developmental process involving many interventions of various kinds, all keyed to individual developmental needs, it addresses traditional questions: What is the nature or causes of reading disabilities? How are reading disabilities assessed? How should reading disabilities be remediated? To what extent is remediation possible, but from multiple or alternative perspectives? Taking incursions into the broader research literature represented by linguistic and anthropological paradigms as well as psychological and educational research, the volume is on the front line in exploring the relation of reading disability to learning and language, to poverty and prejudice, and to instruction and schooling. The editors and authors are distinguished scholars with extensive research experience and publication records and numerous honors and awards from professional organizations representing the range of disciplines in the field of reading disabilities. Throughout, their contributions are contextualized within the framework of educators struggling to develop concrete instructional
