Education and Training of the Mentally Retarded, 1984 Education and Training in Mental Retardation, 1993 Handbook of Behavior Modification with the Mentally Retarded Johnny L. Matson, 2013-11-22 The development of behavior modification principles and procedures and the ensuing research have had a dramatic impact on services for mentally retarded persons This book is the second edition of a volume that is designed to update readers on some of these many developments Although many of the chapter titles and authors from the first edition remain unchanged we have added additional chapters to reflect new areas of research The book is thus a critical review of this literature and as such provides essential and important notions about what we know and what can be done to expand our current knowledge The authors of the chapters are all recognized experts who have been active in publishing in the research areas they critique As a result they have a good understanding of what are the major issues in the field And because they are also active in service provision to persons with identified handicaps their material will be especially useful to practitioners and it is hoped to those_ professionals who are working in the field in establishing data based treatments One important change in the field has concerned the terminology used to We are aware that persons with mental retard describe handicapped persons dation are no longer referred to as the mentally retarded and although no disrespect is intended for the sake of continuity the original title has been retained on the advice of the publisher

Morin,Christophe Maïano,Danielle Tracey,Rhonda G. Craven,2017-03-01 Increasing numbers of children and adolescents internationally are being diagnosed with secondary health problems e g overweight obesity diabetes asthma anxiety etc due in part or at least related to a lack of physical activity Children and adolescents with various forms of special needs for example children and adolescents with physical or intellectual disabilities children and adolescents from disadvantaged social backgrounds and children and adolescents with chronic illnesses seem to be particularly at risk for secondary health problems which in the end limit their social participation and inclusion as well as their ability to achieve their full potential and to lead happy and fulfilling lives For these children and adolescents involvement in regular physical activities including fitness activities and sports may have far reaching benefits For instance organized physical activities are known to represent an effective vehicle for interventions for children and adolescents with special needs who do not seem to benefit as much as others from more traditional verbal oriented approaches Organized physical activities in or out of school further provide these children and adolescents with opportunities to interact in a positive manner with prosocial peers and adults who may serve as positive role models for them There is currently a paucity of research about physical activities that effectively include children and adolescents with a range of special needs or research that identifies evidence based strategies that seed success in maximizing the involvement in and the positive biopsychosocial outcomes associated with the practice of physical activity This dearth of research is impeding progress in addressing the biopsychosocial disadvantage that these children and adolescents encounter the development of new solutions for enabling full potential and ensuring that children and adolescents with special needs not only succeed but also flourish in life This volume includes examples of theory research policy and practice that will advance our understanding of how best to encourage these children and adolescents to participate regularly in physical activity how to maximize the biopsychosocial benefits of involvement in physical activities and how to ensure that these physical activities are inclusive for children and adolescents with special needs The focus will be placed on research derived physical activity practices that seed success for children and adolescents with special needs and new directions in theory research and practice that have implications for enhancing physical activity practices with at risk children and adolescents The themes covered in this volume include Strategies to maximise participation of children and adolescents with special needs in physical activity as a global priority Strategies to maximise the social inclusion of children and adolescents with special needs in general physical activities Effective physical education strategies to enhance biopsychosocial outcomes for children and adolescents with special needs Advancing the practice of educators and coaches to cultivate the social inclusion and participation in physical activity of children and adolescents with special needs and Challenging the meaning and implementation of inclusive practices in physical education globally Planning for Creative Change in Mental Health Services: Information sources and how to use them National Institute of Mental Health (U.S.),1972
