CONFLUENCES Intercultural Journeying in Research and Teaching David Geoffrey Smith, 2020-03-01 In this book Canadian scholar David Geoffrey Smith reflects on over thirty years of research and teaching in the human sciences including education Written between 1986 and 2018 the essays are organized around four themes Hermeneutics and the Human Sciences The Poststructuralist Turn Globalization and Its Discontents East West Encounters and the Search for Wisdom As a historical guide through the defining discourses in the human sciences this volume could well serve as an introductory text for graduate students in education and other cognate disciplines like nursing recreation and cultural studies The writing can be described as a form of meditative praxis while the emphasis on interculturality addresses issues in literacy pedagogy politics critical thinking teacher education and cultural healing from a geopolitical perspective drawing on insights from both Western and Eastern traditions and the author s personal experience of being born in China and raised in Central Africa Northern Rhodesia Zambia Praise for CONFLUENCES Careful study of the essays in this collection has been an inspiration primarily because of Professor David Geoffrey Smith s deep commitments to the organic interpretability of life and living in the interests of generativity hope and good faith In curricular and pedagogical terms these commitments arise from sustained study of the various inheritances philosophical and otherwise that circulate around deliberations concerning children education and knowledge deemed of most value As an Indigenous scholar and someone committed to uncovering the unnamed colonial logics that continue to govern and structure formal education I find especially helpful Professor Smith s untangling of the roots of the Euro American power nexus and its ongoing difficulties in creatively engaging traditions outside of its own self determinations As Professor Smith teaches through this work it is in the careful hermeneutic practice of tracing out the lineages of the past and revealing their potential for openness in the present that the possibility of saying something hopeful about the future emerges Dwayne Donald Ph D Associate Professor Curriculum Studies and Indigenous Wisdom Traditions Department of Secondary Education University of Alberta Canada Now and then a clear and authentic voice emerges from the surrounding cacophony as the machinery of the education establishment relentlessly grinds away a voice of conscience and wisdom rising above the babble of technocratic bureaucratic ideological and market driven survivalism that permeates educational discourse today I recognize such a voice in this newest book by Canadian educator Professor David Geoffrey Smith Smith s reading the world to use Paulo Freire s expression is particularly helpful to us in today s world teeter tottering between denial and panic I firmly believe that any hope for sanity in our time rests in our collectively and individually investigating how we have gotten ourselves into this current material and existential predicament Smith s investigation shows an incredible intellectual depth of understanding gained through plumbing Western and Eastern philosophical traditions in an intercultural life journey on three continents through forty years of teaching and research I delight in hearing his voice of wisdom that insists for instance that the nature of reality cannot be reduced to any human construct scientific or otherwise and that we must die into a new human freedom found in the joy of a new shared reality Ultimately his is a voice of unwavering hopefulness and a gaze that courageously faces a challenging world I value his work more than any others in the contemporary curriculum theory field Heesoon Bai Professor Philosophy of Education Simon Fraser University Canada

Perspectives on Methodology in Consumer Research David Brinberg, Richard J. Lutz, 2012-12-06 Methodological advances in consumer behavior are increasing rapidly We can characterize these advances by work in two logically separate but functionally related areas a the philosophical underpinnings of our methods and b the analytic strategies for examining the phenomena of interest in the field An important aspect in communicating these advances is the demonstration of their use on focal problems in consumer behavior Current research strategies and analytic techniques in the field of consumer research reflect the dominant logical empiricist epistemology The development of new epistemologies e.g. scientific relativism hypothetical realism however is likely to modify the dominant logical empiricist approach and is also likely to influence the analytic strategies used to conduct research For instance with the increased awareness of scientific relativism and hypothetical realism greater emphasis is anticipated for idiographic rather than nomothetic designs for observational rather than experimental designs for process rather than static analyses and for more sophisticated techniques for summarizing findings across studies The major theme underlying this volume is that conceptual analytic and substantive diversity are essential for consumer behavior research to advance Collectively the chapters we present in this volume are a diverse set of perspectives for the study of consumer behavior This volume is organized into three parts 1 philosophical orientations toward consumer behavior research 2 analytic strategies for consumer behavior research and 3 applications of these orientations and strategies to current research areas
