Art of Teaching Peter Woods, 2013-09-27 This book is a follow up to Inside Schools. It reviews the position of ethnography in educational research in the light of current issues and of the author's own research over the past ten years. Starting from an analysis of teaching as science and as art, Peter Woods goes on to review the general interactionist framework in which his own work is situated and how this relates to postmodernist trends in qualitative research. The approach is illustrated through reference to the author's own personal history and research career and his recent research on creative teaching, critical events and his teachers' reactions to school inspections. How to represent such research is a central feature and includes a consideration of the tools used in that task and how they relate to the ethnographer's self. Whatever forms of representation are selected, however, the audience's own concerns will guide them in their interpretation of the work. Prominent themes include the person of the ethnographer in research, the art of teaching and new ways of representing it, while not forgetting the science of teaching and of research, research for educational use and the uses of educational research, collaborative work between researchers and teachers. The issues covered include such matters as research purposes, research design, research careers, access, data collection, data analysis, truth criteria, the relationship between theory and research methods, writing up and dissemination.

Biographical Research Ana Caetano, Magda Nico, 2022-03-30 Studying people's lives requires acknowledging the multiple entanglements between individual singularity and processes of social patterning. This book testifies how challenging and creative the study of these connections can be. It gathers international contributions that show in imaginative ways how a person's life or specific domains of existence can be observed, tackled and analysed across time. This volume reveals the potential of biographical research in the production of social theory in the development of methodological innovation in giving voice and protagonism to people and in the understanding of the social unfolding of their lives. It is a testimony of a vibrant and youthful field with a long tradition in social sciences and with numerous connections with other study areas, namely the life course approach. The different chapters illustrate how the challenges posed by this type of research, focused on the individual level of analysis, are particular and what creative responses are required to continue analysing the link between biography and society. The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of the journal Contemporary Social Science.

Qualitative Methods in Economics Mirjana Radović-Marković, Beatrice Avolio, Alecchi, 2016-10-04 Despite numerous books on research methodology, many have failed to present a complete hands-on practical book to lead college classes or individuals through the research process.
