Living Gender after Communism Janet Elise Johnson, Jean C. Robinson, 2006-12-12 How has the collapse of communism across Europe and Eurasia changed gender In addition to acknowledging the huge costs that fell heavily on women Living Gender after Communism suggests that moving away from communism in Europe and Eurasia has provided an opportunity for gender to multiply from varieties of neo traditionalism to feminisms from overt negotiation of femininity to denials of gender This development in turn has enabled some women in the region to construct their own gendered identities for their own political economic or social purposes Beginning with an understanding of gender as both a society wide institution that regulates people s lives and a cultural toolkit which individuals and groups may use to subvert or transvalue the sex gender system the contributors to this volume provide detailed case studies from Belarus Bosnia the Czech Republic Poland Romania Russia and Ukraine This collaboration between young scholars most from postcommunist states and experts in the fields of gender studies and postcommunism combines intimate knowledge of the area with sophisticated gender analysis to examine just how much gender realities have shifted in the region Contributors are Anna Brzozowska Karen Dawisha Nanette Funk Ewa Grigar Azra Hromadzic Janet Elise Johnson Anne Marie Kramer Tania Rands Lyon Jean C Robinson Iulia Shevchenko Svitlana Taraban and Shannon Woodcock

Women's Access to Political Power in Post-Communist Europe Richard E. Matland, Kathleen A. Montgomery, 2003-05-01 This book considers women s access to formal positions of powers in the newly formed democracies of post communist Europe While acknowledging the relevance of recent history this book takes an important step away from the communist legacy and explicitly argues for a framework based on causal variables identified in the existing literatures from industrialized democracies on women and politics and legislative recruitment After a brief introduction the second chapter sets forth a general theoretical framework which posits that the level of female legislative representation in a given country is a function of the relative supply of and demand for female candidates After a chapter considering a broad overview of public opinion on women and politics in Eastern Europe thirteen country chapters spanning the spectrum of Eastern European democracies address and test hypotheses about the key variables affecting the supply and demand sides of the equation in individual countries Relevant aspects of the communist cultural and developmental legacy are addressed but authors give particular attention to political factors such as electoral rules and the characteristics of the emerging party systems that vary within the Eastern European countries The new democracies of Eastern Europe provide a novel context in which to test and extend our theories about the consequences of political institutions for the quality of democracy Since institutional arrangements are more malleable than developmental or cultural characteristics those variables also offer the greatest promise to scholars and practitioners wondering what can be done to improve women s access to formal arenas of political power How can we build democracies that are stable lasting and representative A careful analysis of the post communist context can help us to address issues concerning institutional design and development that has relevance well beyond the Eastern European context      New Women's Writing in Russia, Central and Eastern Europe Rosalind Marsh, 2020-12-07 Since the late 1980s there has been an explosion of women's writing in Russia Central and Eastern Europe greater than in any other cultural period This book which contains contributions by scholars and writers from many different countries aims to address the gap in literature and debate that exists in relation to this subject We investigate why women's writing has become so prominent in post socialist countries and enquire whether writers regard their gender as a burden or on the contrary as empowering We explore the relationship in contemporary women's writing between gender class and nationality as well as issues of ethnicity and post colonialism

Cook, 2013-07-02 In the early 1990s the countries of the former Soviet Bloc faced an urgent need to reform the systems by which they delivered broad basic social welfare to their citizens Inherited systems were inefficient and financially unsustainable Linda J Cook here explores the politics and policy of social welfare from 1990 to 2004 in the Russian Federation Poland Hungary Belarus and Kazakhstan Most of these countries she shows tried to institute reforms based on a liberal paradigm of reduced entitlements and subsidies means testing and privatization But these proposals provoked opposition from pro welfare interests and the politics of negotiating change varied substantially from one political arena to another In Russia for example liberalizing reform was blocked for a decade Only as Vladimir Putin rose to power did the country change its inherited welfare system Cook finds that the impact of economic pressures on welfare was strongly mediated by domestic political factors including the level of democratization and balance of pro and anti reform political forces Postcommunist welfare politics throughout Russia and Eastern Europe she shows are marked by the large role played by bureaucratic welfare stakeholders who were left over from the communist period and in weak states by the development of informal processes in social sectors
