Rowing The Eternal Sea The Story Of A Minamata Fisherman:

Rowing the Eternal Sea Keibo Oiwa, 2001-10-16 In the early 1950s fisherfolk and other villagers around Minamata Bay on the western coast of Kyushu Japan began to suffer from mysterious and often fatal symptoms of what came to be known as Minamata disease It was not until 1968 that the government acknowledged its cause organic mercury poisoning from effluent released by Chisso Corporation a chemical manufacturer and the largest employer in the Japanese city for which the disease was named For decades the company denied responsibility and was joined by the Japanese government in its attempt to cover up the problem despite lawsuits and political protests In this compelling oral history Ogata Masato fisherman and Minamata disease sufferer tells of the devastation of methyl mercury poisoning Spanning fifty years his story describes the impact of industrial pollution on his own life on his extended family and on the fishing culture of the Shiranui Sea A one time leader of Minamata disease patients seeking certification and compensation Masato breaks away to follow his personal path to redemption Masato s story begins with the vibrant village of his childhood and culminates with the possibility of return if not to one s birthplace then to a spiritual community to a consciousness that we owe our existence to the web of interrelationships that constitute life When we turn full circle explains Masato we find ourselves again at the water s edge a place where all life gathers This is the launching point for Tokoyo boat of the Eternal World a world defined at once by the past present and future a state of mind in which we are responsible not only for our own actions but for those of our society and our species Masato s story larger than any one man or one incident raises questions we must all consider as beneficiaries of modern industry and technology

The Stakes of Exposure Namiko Kunitomo, 2017-02-21 How would artistic practice contribute to political change in post World War II Japan How could artists negotiate the imbalanced global dynamics of the art world and also maintain a sense of aesthetic and political authenticity While the contemporary art world has recently come to embrace some of Japan's most daring postwar artists the interplay of art and politics remains poorly understood in the Americas and Europe The Stakes of Exposure fills this gap and explores art visual culture and politics in postwar Japan from the 1950s to the 1970s paying special attention to how anxiety and confusion surrounding Japan's new democracy manifested in representations of gender and nationhood in modern art Through such pivotal postwar episodes as the Minamata Disaster the Lucky Dragon Incident the budding antinuclear movement and the ANPO protests of the 1960s The Stakes of Exposure examines a wide range of issues addressed by the period's prominent artists including Tanaka Atsuko and Shiraga Kazuo key members of the Gutai Art Association Katsura Yuki and Nakamura Hiroshi Through a close study of their paintings illustrations and assemblage and performance art Namiko Kunimoto reveals that despite dissimilar aesthetic approaches and divergent political interests Japanese postwar artists were invested in the entangled issues of gender and nationhood that were redefining Japan and its role in the world Offering many full color illustrations of previously unpublished art and photographs as well as period manga The Stakes of Exposure shows how contention over Japan's new democracy was expressed disavowed and reimagined through representations of the gendered body

Innovative CSR Céline Louché, Samuel Idowu, Walter Filho, 2017-09-08 By and large corporations of the 21st century have come to realise that their obligations to societies in terms of corporate social responsibility are fourfold economic ethical altruistic and strategic Meeting these four responsibilities is crucial to their survival in their various markets and industries it also requires them to rewrite their previously less socially responsible business models in order to do so All indications continue to suggest that it is those organisations that are perceived to be socially responsible by stakeholders in modern markets that survive and prosper Corporations have equally realised that by being innovative in all things including their CSR activities and initiatives they will add value to the so called bottom line to the positive contributions they make to society and to how they are perceived by their key stakeholders However many criticisms have been made of CSR in its current form often related to the lack of value that it generates within the enterprise and the fact that it offers only a partial and short term response to the full challenges of sustainable development The time has come to shift the CSR focus away from risk management towards a more progressive and entrepreneurial approach that seeks to create value and identify sustainable opportunities for strategic innovation This book aims to explore inspire and support creative innovative and strategic CSR Innovation in this book means new products services and technologies and in addition new organisational and institutional systems structures and new business models that empower the organisation to advance strategically in an ever more competitive business world Both research and practice show that CSR has mainly been approached in terms of value protection and risk management where the main objective has been to protect companies existing assets or avoid scandals Therefore in many cases where CSR remains at the forefront of business activity it does not lead to fundamental changes and is not yet integrated as a strategic component where it could create value generate new ideas and open new opportunities How do corporate entities shift their attention from risk management to value creation This is the key question that this book attempts to answer both theoretically and empirically as well as through real case studies and experiences With contributions from a cr me de la cr me of scholars from 12 countries Innovative CSR gathers together a cornucopia of innovative practices that will be essential reading for academics and practitioners alike

Ecological Modernisation and Japan Brendan F.D. Barrett, 2005-04-28 In the 1990s Japan gradually began to turn green and started to experiment with more participatory forms of environmental governance Ecological Modernisation and Japan explores this transformation and looks at Japan as a case for ecological modernisation while contextualising the discussion within its unique history and recent discussions about globalisation and sustainability. It makes a significant contribution to the ecological modernisation debate by unpacking the Japanese environmental experience. Japanese Diasporas Nobuko Adachi, 2006-10-03. Japanese Diasporas examines the relationship of overseas Japanese and their descendents Nikkei with their home and host nations focusing on the political, social and economic struggles of Nikkei. Frequently abandoned by their homeland and experiencing alienation in their host nations, the diaspora have attempted to carve out lives between two worlds. Examining Nikkei communities and Japanese migration to Manchuria, China, Canada, the Philippines, Singapore and Latin America, the book compares Nikkei experiences with those of Japanese transnational migrants living abroad. The authors connect theoretical issues of ethnic identity with the Japanese and Nikkei cases, analyzing the hidden dynamics of the social construction of race, ethnicity and homeland, and suggesting some of the ways in which diasporas are transforming global society today. Presenting new perspectives on socio-political and cultural issues of transnational migrants and diaspora communities in an economically intertwined world, this book will be of great interest to scholars of diaspora studies and Japanese studies.
