Wright, 2003-08-07 The rise of the asylum constitutes one of the most profound and controversial events in the history of medicine. Academics around the world have begun to direct their attention to the origins of the confinement of those deemed insane, exploring patient records in an attempt to understand the rise of the asylum within the wider context of social and economic change of nations undergoing modernisation. Originally published in 2003, this edited volume brings together thirteen original research papers to answer key questions in the history of asylums: What forces led to the emergence of mental hospitals in different national contexts? To what extent did patient populations vary in terms of their psychiatric profile and socio-economic background? What was the role of families, communities and the medical profession in the confinement process? This volume therefore represents a landmark study in the history of psychiatry by examining asylum confinement in a global context. Knowledge Making Barbara Brookes, James Dunk, 2020-11-25 Paper has been the material of bureaucracy and paperwork performs functions of order control and surveillance. Knowledge Making: Historians, Archives and Bureaucracy explores how those functions transform over time, allowing private challenges to the public narratives created by institutions and governments. Paperwork and bureaucratic systems have determined what we know about the past. It seems that now, as the digital is overtaking paper, though mirroring its forms, historians are able to see the significance of the materiality of paper and its role in knowledge making because it is no longer taken for granted. The contributors to this volume discuss the ways in which public and private institutions, asylums, hospitals and armies developed bureaucratic systems which have determined the parameters of our access to the past. The authors present case studies of paperwork in different national contexts which engage with themes of privacy and public accountability, the beginning of record-keeping practices and their ends, both in the sense of their purposes and in what happens to paper after the work has finished, including preservation and curation in repositories of various kinds, through to the place of paper and paperwork in a paperless world. The chapters in this book were originally published in a special issue of Rethinking History: The Journal of Theory and Practice.

Nightmare Factories Troy Rondinone, 2019-09-24 How the insane asylum came to exert such a powerful hold on the American imagination. Madhouse, funny farm, psychiatric hospital, loony bin, nuthouse, mental institution, no matter what you call it, the asylum has a powerful hold on the American imagination. Stark and foreboding, they symbolize mistreatment, fear.

and imprisonment standing as castles of despair and tyranny across the countryside In the asylum of American fiction and film treatments are torture attendants are thugs and psychiatrists are despots In Nightmare Factories Troy Rondinone offers the first history of mental hospitals in American popular culture Beginning with Edgar Allan Poe s 1845 short story The System of Dr Tarr and Prof Fether Rondinone surveys how American novelists poets memoirists reporters and filmmakers have portrayed the asylum and how those representations reflect larger social trends in the United States Asylums he argues darkly reflect cultural anxieties and the shortcomings of democracy as well as the ongoing mistreatment of people suffering from mental illness Nightmare Factories traces the story of the asylum as the masses have witnessed it Rondinone shows how works ranging from Moby Dick and Dracula to One Flew Over the Cuckoo s Nest Halloween and American Horror Story have all conversed with the asylum Drawing from fictional and real accounts movies personal interviews and tours of mental hospitals both active and defunct Rondinone uncovers a story at once familiar and bizarre where reality meets fantasy in the foggy landscape of celluloid and pulp

PsychoPolitics Peter Sedgwick, 2022-08-20 A powerful and impassioned defence of psychiatry urging the Left to confront the harsh realities of mental illness William Davis author of The Happiness Industry A new edition of one of the most significant and credible critiques of the anti psychiatry movement As relevant today as it was when first published in 1982 the book changed the conversation on mental health and illness demanding that we assess its relationship to the wider decay of social institutions Dissecting the work of popular anti psychiatric thinkers Erving Goffman R D Laing Michel Foucault and Thomas Szasz Sedgwick exposed the conservative undercurrents and false hopes represented by the alternative psychiatry of the sixties and seventies challenging the very real impact it had on our collective responsibility to look after the mentally ill With a new introduction that highlights the relevance of Sedgwick s demands for modern mental health movements the practice of psychiatry and for left wing activists this new edition further cements PsychoPolitics cult classic status

On Guilt and Innocence Herbert Morris, 1976 The Media Creates Us in Its Image and Other Essays on Technology and Culture Richard Stivers, 2020-03-31 The Media Creates Us in Its Image and Other Essays on Technology and Culture proposes that modern technology seriously influences every aspect of culture and personality Technology shapes our beliefs and values and even how we think of ourselves It affects religion morality education language communication and sexual identity Every institution every organization is brought under its purview This book attempts to awaken the reader to the destructive side of modern technology that exists side by side with its constructive side What modern technology is destroying however is the very meaning of being human The essay The Media Creates Us in Its Image makes this case most dramatically The book asks the reader the following question Is what you have gained from the use of modern technology more important than what you have lost How do we once again bring technology under our control in the face of its inexorable progress institutions and disciplines Mathematics general themes Romantic Science and central concepts Paradigm and Fact The history of science is construed widely to include the history of medicine and technology as is reflected in the range of disciplines from which the international team of 200 contributors are drawn Electroconvulsive Therapy in America Jonathan Sadowsky, 2016-11-03 Electroconvulsive Therapy is widely demonized or idealized Some detractors consider its very use to be a human rights violation while some promoters depict it as a miracle the penicillin of psychiatry This book traces the American history of one of the most controversial procedures in medicine and seeks to provide an explanation of why ECT has been so controversial juxtaposing evidence from clinical science personal memoir and popular culture Contextualizing the controversies about ECT instead of simply engaging in them makes the history of ECT more richly revealing of wider changes in culture and medicine It shows that the application of electricity to the brain to treat illness is not only a physiological event but also one embedded in culturally patterned beliefs about the human body the meaning of sickness and medical authority God-Fearing and Free Jason W. Stevens, 2011-03-15 Religion has been on the rise in America for decades which strikes many as a shocking new development To the contrary Jason Stevens asserts the rumors of the death of God were premature Americans have always conducted their cultural life through religious symbols never more so than during the Cold War In God Fearing and Free Stevens discloses how the nation on top of the world and torn between grandiose self congratulation and doubt about the future opened the way for a new master narrative The book shows how the American public powered by a national religious revival was purposefully disillusioned regarding the country's mythical innocence and fortified for an epochal struggle with totalitarianism Stevens reveals how the Augustinian doctrine of original sin was refurbished and then mobilized in a variety of cultural discourses that aimed to shore up democratic society against threats preying on the nation's internal weaknesses Suddenly innocence no longer meant a clear conscience Instead it became synonymous with totalitarian ideologies of the fascist right or the communist left whose notions of perfectability were dangerously close to millenarian ideals at the heart of American Protestant tradition As America became riddled with self doubt ruminations on the meaning of power and the future of the globe during the American Century renewed the impetus to religion Covering a wide selection of narrative and cultural forms Stevens shows how writers artists and intellectuals the devout as well as the nonreligious disseminated the terms of this cultural dialogue disputing refining and challenging it effectively making the conservative case against modernity as liberals floundered Making All the Difference Martha Minow, 2016-10-01 Should a court order medical treatment for a severely disabled newborn in the face of the parents refusal to authorize it How does the law apply to a neighborhood that objects to a group home for developmentally disabled people Does equality mean treating everyone the same even if such treatment affects some people adversely Does a state requirement of employee maternity leave serve or violate the commitment to gender equality Martha Minow takes a hard look at the way our legal system functions in dealing with people on the basis of race gender age

ethnicity religion and disability Minow confronts a variety of dilemmas of difference resulting from contradictory legal strategies strategies that attempt to correct inequalities by sometimes recognizing and sometimes ignoring differences Exploring the historical sources of ideas about difference she offers challenging alternative ways of conceiving of traits that legal and social institutions have come to regard as different She argues in effect for a constructed jurisprudence based on the ability to recognize and work with perceptible forms of difference Minow is passionately interested in the people different people whose lives are regularly mis shaped and mis directed by the legal system s ways of handling them Drawing on literary and feminist theories and the insights of anthropology and social history she identifies the unstated assumptions that tend to regenerate discrimination through the very reforms that are supposed to eliminate it Education for handicapped children conflicts between job and family responsibilities bilingual education Native American land claims these are among the concrete problems she discusses from a fresh angle of vision Minow firmly rejects the prevailing conception of the self that she believes underlies legal doctrine a self seen as either separate and autonomous or else disabled and incompetent in some way In contrast she regards the self as being realized through connection capable of shaping an identity only in relationship to other people She shifts the focus for problem solving from the different person to the relationships that construct that difference and she proposes an analysis that can turn difference from a basis of stigma and a rationale for unequal treatment into a point of human connection The meanings of many differences can change when people locate and revise their relationships to difference she asserts The student in a wheelchair becomes less different when the building designed without him in mind is altered to permit his access Her book evaluates contemporary legal theories and reformulates legal rights for women children persons with disabilities and others historically identified as different Here is a powerful voice for change speaking to issues that permeate our daily lives and form a central part of the work of law By illuminating the many ways in which people differ from one another this book shows how lawyers political theorist teachers parents students every one of us can make all the difference

Law and Psychiatry Michael S. Moore, 1984-03-30 This book is about the competing images of man offered us by the disciplines of law and psychiatry Michael Moore describes the legal view of persons as rational and autonomous and defends it from the challenges presented by three psychiatric ideas that badness is illness that the unconscious rules our mental life and that a person is a community of selves more than a unified single self Using the tools of modern philosophy he attempts to show that the moral metaphysical foundations of our law are not eroded by these challenges of psychiatry The book thus seeks through philosophy to go beneath the centuries old debates between lawyers and psychiatrists and to reveal their hidden agreement about the nature of man Some attention is paid to practical legal and psychiatric issues of contemporary concern such as the proper definition of mental illness for psychiatric purposes and the proper definition of legal insanity for legal purposes This book was first announced for publication in hard covers in the Press s January to July seasonal list

Hasidic Studies Ada Rapoport-Albert, 2018-01-16

Ada Rapoport Albert has been a key partner in the profound transformation of the history of hasidism that has taken shape over the past few decades. The essays in this volume show the erudition and creativity of her contribution. Written over a period of forty years, they have been updated with regard to significant detail and to take account of important works of scholarship written after they were originally published.

Snake Pits, Talking Cures & Magic Bullets Deborah Kent, 2003-01-01. Looks at how the mentally ill have been treated throughout history, focusing on advances made in the 19th and 20th centuries regarding mental hospitals, medications, and social acceptance.
