Literacy, Literature and Identity Rahma Al-Mahrooqi, Paul A. Scanlon, 2012-12-05 Modern humanities scholarship presents a scene of intriguing change A leading figure like Professor Eagleton moves suddenly from theory to a fascination with culture while still wrestling with literature's meaning and function Creative non fiction becomes fashionable while life writings retain a very wide readership Language professionals meanwhile ask themselves if teaching an alien tongue can be done without teaching its associated culture and what this might mean for individual and group identity itself now an area of rising academic concern Crucially the present volume looks at how these currents and concerns coalesce It shows how literature operating through language oral and written both shapes and reveals the identities of individuals and societies With a truly global reach it draws evidence from diverse contexts and environments The struggles of women in North America female portrayal in Middle Eastern proverbs the response to identity challenge in West East and Southern Africa including the extraordinary complexity of black South African experience and the literary assertions of New Zealand's Maoris they are all here in this multi faceted contribution to modern cultural linguistic and literary scholarship
