It offers a critical discussion of how linguistics endeavors to domesticate subdue and integrate both people and languages into existing academic structures and theories and how as a discipline academic linguistics has barely begun to move beyond its colonial patriarchal and conservative foundations. In this book leading figures in their fields reflect on their own and others practices and experiences in three key areas: the agency and power of refugees and migrants; Indigenous people's in hospitable responses to strangers and hospitable language as expressed through art, music and artefacts. As a whole, the book represents a crucial intervention in attempts to fashion a new, more integrative, responsible and respectful linguistics that makes way for the ideas of people who are often the object of study.
