Maos Crusade Alfred L. Chan, Associate Professor of Political Science Alfred L Chan, 2001 During 1957 and 1958 Mao was seized by a vision that the Chinese economy could develop rapidly in leaps and bounds by relying on intuition and mass spontaneity As a consequence he single handedly launched a colossal mobilization campaign called the Great Leap Forward which featured many radical policy innovations including the people s communes This book is the first in depth and original study of policy formulation and implementation during the Leap to link the roles of Mao the central leaders the ministries and the province of Guangdong Rejecting the theory that the Leap was an outcome of bureaucratic politics and competition the study establishes beyond doubt the supreme and dominant position of Mao in initiating and commanding the Leap Alfred L Chan goes further than propounding a Mao dominant model by documenting the strategic and tactical moves made by Mao in order to neutralize all opposition and to carry the day He also discusses in detail the policy roles and input of other top leaders on whom the improvising Mao relied to feed his imagination and to flesh out his policies In the chapters on the implementation of the Leap Dr Chan explores how the ministries of Metallurgy and Agriculture were transformed from bureaucratic agencies into agents of mobilization and how impossible targets forced them to keep up appearances by focussing on the rituals of mass mobilization Similarly other chapters on Guangdong show the simultaneously fervent ritualistic and desperate attempts to implement every hunch and intuition emanating from the centre Exhaustive research using new material made available in the post Mao era as well as archives from the 1950s and 1960s has yielded novel and original insights into the leader Mao central decision making and policy implementation in the communist hierarchy
