The volumes are narrative in form giving balanced attention to social and cultural history in the broadest sense as well as to institutional development and political change. Each provides a systematic account of a very large subject but they are also both imaginative and interpretative. The Series is intended to be accessible to the widest possible readership and the accessibility of its volumes is matched by the style of presentation and production.

History of Cartography Leo Bagrow, 2017-07-12. This illustrated work is intended to acquaint readers with the early maps produced in both Europe and the rest of the world and to tell us something of their development, their makers and printers, their varieties and characteristics. The authors' chief concern is with the appearance of maps; they exclude any examination of their content or of scientific methods of mapmaking. This book ends in the second half of the eighteenth century when craftsmanship was superseded by specialized science and the machine. As a history of the evolution of the early map, it is a stunning work of art and science. This expanded second edition of Bagrow and Skelton's History of Cartography marks the reappearance of this seminal work after a hiatus of nearly a half century. As a reprint project undertaken many years after the book last appeared, finding suitable materials to work from proved to be no easy task. Because of the wealth of monochrome and color plates, the book could only be properly reproduced using the original materials. Ultimately, the authors were able to obtain materials from the original printer, Scotchprints, or contact films made directly from original plates, thus allowing the work to preserve the beauty and clarity of the illustrations. Old maps collated with other materials help us to elucidate the course of human history. It was not until the eighteenth century, however, that maps were gradually stripped of their artistic decoration and transformed into plain specialist sources of information based upon measurement. Maps are objects of historical, artistic and cultural significance and thus collecting them seems to need no justification simply enjoyment.

Thinking Russia's History Environmentally Catherine Evtuhov, Julia Lajus, David Moon, 2023-07-14. Historians of Russia were relative latecomers to the field of environmental history. Yet in the past decade the exploration of Russian environmental history has burgeoned Thinking Russia's History Environmentally showcases collaboration amongst an international set of scholars who focus on the contribution that the study of Russian environments makes to the global environmental field Through discerning analysis of natural resources the environment as a factor in historical processes such as industrialization and more recent human animal interactions this volume challenges stereotypes of Russian history and in so doing highlights the unexpected importance of Russian environments across a time frame well beyond the ecological catastrophes of the Soviet period A History of Russia. Europe and Imperialism: History in Maps, A History of the Twentieth Century in 100 Maps Tim Bryars, Tom Harper, 2014-12-10 The twentieth century was a golden age of mapmaking an era of cartographic boom Maps proliferated and permeated almost every aspect of daily life not only chronicling geography and history but also charting and conveying myriad political and social agendas Here Tim Bryars and Tom Harper select one hundred maps from the millions printed drawn or otherwise constructed during the twentieth century and recount through them a narrative of the century's key events and developments As Bryars and Harper reveal maps make ideal narrators and the maps in this book tell the story of the 1900s which saw two world wars the Great Depression the Swinging Sixties the Cold War feminism leisure and the Internet Several of the maps have already gained recognition for their historical significance for example Harry Beck's iconic London Underground map but the majority of maps on these pages have rarely if ever been seen in print since they first appeared There are maps that were printed on handkerchiefs and on the endpapers of books maps that were used in advertising or propaganda maps that were strictly official and those that were entirely commercial maps that were printed by the thousand and highly specialist maps issued in editions of just a few dozen maps that were envisaged as permanent keepsakes of major events and maps that were relevant for a matter of hours or days As much a pleasure to view as it is to read A History of the Twentieth Century in 100 Maps celebrates the visual variety of twentieth century maps and the hilarious shocking or poignant narratives of the individuals and institutions caught up in their production and use

Current History, 1927 The History of Cartography, Volume 4 Matthew H. Edney, Mary Sponberg Pedley, 2020-05-15 Since its launch in 1987 the History of Cartography series has garnered critical acclaim and sparked a new generation of interdisciplinary scholarship Cartography in the European Enlightenment the highly anticipated fourth volume offers a comprehensive overview of the cartographic practices of Europeans Russians and the Ottomans both at home and in overseas territories from 1650 to 1800 The social and intellectual changes that swept Enlightenment Europe also transformed many of its mapmaking practices A new emphasis on geometric principles gave rise to improved tools for measuring and mapping the world even as large scale cartographic projects became possible under the aegis of powerful states Yet older mapping practices persisted Enlightenment cartography encompassed a wide variety of processes for making circulating and using maps of different types The volume's more than four hundred encyclopedic articles explore the era's mapping covering topics both detailed such as geodetic surveying thematic mapping and map collecting and broad such as women and cartography cartography and the economy and the art and design of maps Copious bibliographical references and nearly one thousand full color illustrations complement the detailed entries Mapping Europe's Borderlands

Steven Seegel, 2012-05-14 The simplest purpose of a map is a rational one to educate to solve a problem to point someone in the right direction Maps shape and communicate information for the sake of improved orientation But maps exist for states as well as individuals and they need to be interpreted as expressions of power and knowledge as Steven Seegel makes clear in his impressive and important new book Mapping Europe's Borderlands takes the familiar problems of state and nation building in eastern Europe and presents them through an entirely new prism that of cartography and cartographers Drawing from sources in eleven languages including military historical pedagogical and ethnographic maps as well as geographic texts and related cartographic literature Seegel explores the role of maps and mapmakers in the East Central European borderlands from the Enlightenment to the Treaty of Versailles For example Seegel explains how Russia used cartography in the aftermath of the Napoleonic Wars and later formed its geography society as a cover for gathering intelligence He also explains the importance of maps to the formation of identities and institutions in Poland Ukraine and Lithuania as well as in Russia Seegel concludes with a consideration of the impact of cartographers regional and socioeconomic backgrounds educations families career options and available language choices Current History and Forum, 1925 Outlines of History; illustrated by numerous geographical and historical notes and maps ... School edition Marcius WILLSON, 1863

Outlines of History Marcius Willson, 1854 A History of the World in Twelve Maps Jerry Brotton, 2012-09-06 Jerry Brotton is the presenter of the acclaimed BBC4 series Maps Power Plunder and Possession Here he tells the story of our world through maps Throughout history maps have been fundamental in shaping our view of the world and our place in it But far from being purely scientific objects world maps are unavoidably ideological and subjective intimately bound up with the systems of power and authority of particular times and places Mapmakers do not simply represent the world they construct it out of the ideas of their age In this scintillating book Jerry Brotton examines the significance of 12 maps from the mystical representations of ancient history to the satellite derived imagery of today He vividly recreates the environments and circumstances in which each of the maps was made showing how each conveys a highly individual view of the world whether the Jerusalem centred Christian perspective of the 14th century Hereford Mappa Mundi or the Peters projection of the 1970s which aimed to give due weight to the third world Although the way we map our surroundings is once more changing dramatically Brotton argues that maps today are no more definitive or objective than they have ever been but that they continue to make arguments and propositions about the world and to recreate shape and mediate our view of it Readers of this book will never look at a map in quite the same way again
