Mapmakers Colours New Poets Of Northern Ireland:

Map-makers' Colours Todd Swift, Martin Mooney, 1988-01-01 Poets from the North of Ireland Frank Ormsby, 1990
Revised updated edition of a successful anthology first published in 1979 It presents the full spectrum of twentieth century Northern Irish poetry from the contemplative John Hewitt to the personal highly crafted work of Heaney Here also is Michael Longley John Montague Paul Muldoon Medbh McGuckian and many others Also includes work from the new generation of poets that has emerged since the original anthology was published Two Irelands Rebecca Pelan, 2005-06-27 The very different histories of the North and South are reflected in their literature While women in the Republic of Ireland have tended to write about social issues sexism crime unemployment and domestic violence women in Northern Ireland focused on their society's historical tension and primarily nationalist and unionist politics However Pelan maintains that feminist ideology has provided contemporary Irish women with an alternate political stance that incorporates gender and nationality ethnicity and allows them to move beyond the usual binaries of politics history and language Irish and English In an analysis enriched by a sophisticated but accessible engagement with contemporary feminist and gender theory Pelan concludes that Irish women's writing whether at the community or mainstream level North or South consistently articulates political issues of direct relevance to the lives of Irish women today As a result such work retains close links with the initial impetus of the second wave of feminism as a political movement and questions the legitimacy of long standing social religious and political conventions From within the framework provided by this second wave argues Pelan Irish women can critique certain masculine ideologies nationalist unionist imperialist and capitalist without forfeiting their own sense of gender and national or ethnic identity The book's significance lies in its placement of women's writing in the center of contemporary political discourse in Ireland and in ensuring that the writing from this period much of it long out of print continues to exist as sociological as well as literary records It will be of interest to a general and scholarly audience especially those in the fields of contemporary Irish writing feminism and literary history The New Younger Irish Poets Gerald Dawe, 1991 In the Chair John Brown, 2002 All of the poets interviewed in this collection are from Northern Ireland all were born after 1920 and each has published at least one volume of poetry Arranged chronologically by each poet's date of birth this collection deals with an impressive body of work The poets include Seamus Heaney Paul Muldoon Michael Longley John Montague Derek Mahon Ciaran Carson as well as less known voices including Gerald Dawe Roy McFadden and Conor O Callaghan The interviews explore the poet's work and development the social historical context and the impact of assimilated influences If they explore a poetry often rooted in the North they also suggest the individuality and diversity of this poetry of work whose imaginative range is not circumscribed by either literal borders or critically convenient categories The other poets included are James Simmons Tom Paulin Frank Ormsby Medbh McGuckian Robert Greacen Cathal P Searcaigh Colette Bryce Moyra Donaldson Jean Bleakney Martin Mooney Padraic Fiacc and Cherry Smyth Changing Ireland Christine St.

Peter, 2000-03-17 During the past twenty five years Ireland has seen an explosion of women's fiction hundreds of published works that reimagine the inherited literary traditions and the social contexts of women's lives Changing Ireland examines women's use of historical fiction exile literature Northern war narratives speculative fiction and classic realism and looks at the local Irish forms of international women's genres like the romance novel and feminist fiction Ring with a Black Stone Janet Shepperson, 1989 Trio Poetry: C.L. Dallat, John Kelly, Seán McWilliams, 1980 Poetry Wales, 1989-06 Canadiana, 1988-09 Poetry in Britain and Ireland Since 1970 Jonathan Barker, 1995 Whitaker's Books in Print, 1990 Stepping Stones Mark Carruthers, Stephen Douds, 2001 The troubles of 1971 to 2001 saw Northern Ireland catapulted into the headlines across the world yet during the dark years of violence there was an impressive but much less reported flourishing of creative energy In this work a panel of writers comment on the artistic accomplishment of this extraordinary period Inspired by Causeway Michael Longley's powerful collection of essays published in 1971 this volume records the highs and lows of the years 1971 to 2000 of northern theatre poetry fiction visual arts and music as well as discussing the work of internationally famous local figures like Nobel poet Seamus Heaney and Oscar winning actors Liam Neeson and Stephen Rea It celebrates the best in achievement but also points out what was less successful and suggests how the various arts disciplines might develop in the years immediately ahead The Irish Card Brendan Cleary, 1993 The Irish Card deals out poems from the double life of an exiled Irish poet going off his head in the smart arse Memos to Sensitive Eddie and other performance pieces going back inside in The Irish Card a new sequence of deeply personal poems on rootlessness inner exile and estrangement Governing the Tongue in Northern Ireland Shane Alcobia-Murphy, 2008-12-11 How free is the Northern Irish writer to produce even a short poem when every word will be scrutinised for its political subtext Is the visual artist compelled to react to the latest atrocity Must the creative artist be aware of his or her own inculcated prejudices and political affiliations and must these be revealed overtly in the artwork Because of these and other related questions the recent work by Northern Irish writers and visual artists has been characterised by an inward looking self consciousness It is an art that relays its personal responses in guarded often coded ways Characterised by obliquity and self reflexivity the art does not simply re present events and the artist's emotive response towards them rather it calls attention to the manner of its presentation It is an art about art and its role and place in society Governing the Tongue examines how the creation of art in a time of violence brings about an anxiety in the Northern Irish artist regarding his or her artistic role and how it calls into question the ability to represent events The series of essays is interdisciplinary in its approach exploring the place of art its role and location in the work of key Northern Irish writers Ciaran Carson Seamus Deane Brian Friel Seamus Heaney Michael Longley Medbh McGuckian Eoin McNamee Glenn Patterson and visual artists Willie Doherty Rita Donagh Paul Seawright Victor Sloan The Fiddlehead Kent Thompson, 1990 Books Ireland, 1990 Whitaker's Book List, 1988 Biting the Wax Peter McDonald, 1989 Biting the Wax is a quiet but convincing book a strong first collection Its diction is plain and its tone objective yet nothing in Peter McDonald s world is predictable everything is possible and probable The very composure of the poems their surface calm their ostentatious style sharpens the ominous and menacing atmosphere which pervades so many of them Sunday in an English village on the day of Enniskillen wartime outrages the thoughts of Count Dracula his imaginative speculative narrative compass is wide The angle of vision is often beguilingly oblique although riveting eye to eye contact is established in the longest poem Silent Night Peter McDonald is skilful enough to render life in all its irony and absurdity without needing to raise his voice strain for effect or resort to gimmickry He trusts the language and in the course of this absorbing debut It generously replays that trust Dennis O Driscoll

100 Poets Against the War Todd Swift, 2003 Anthology of over 100 poets of the 20th and 21st centuries writing on war most of the poems first appeared in the ebook of the same name during the first three months of 2003
