Epiphanius of Cyprus Andrew S. Jacobs, 2021-11-02 Epiphanius Bishop of Constantia on Cyprus from 367 to 403 CE was incredibly influential in the last decades of the fourth century Whereas his major surviving text the Panarion an encyclopedia of heresies is studied for lost sources Epiphanius himself is often dismissed as an anti-intellectual eccentric a marginal figure of late antiquity In this book Andrew S. Jacobs moves Epiphanius from the margin back toward the center and proposes we view major cultural themes of late antiquity in a new light altogether Through an examination of the key cultural concepts of celebrity conversion discipline scripture and salvation Jacobs shifts our understanding of late antiquity from a transformational period open to new ideas and peoples toward a Christian Empire that posited a troubling but ever-present otherness at the center of its cultural production

John Potvin,2017-07-05 Material and Visual Cultures Beyond Male Bonding 1870 1914 presents the first cross disciplinary analysis of the visual and material representations and spaces of male same sex culture in turn of the century Britain which positions intimacy as its central object Through both historical and theoretical lenses this groundbreaking study considers photographs interior design decorative art architecture and illustrations from the popular press to reveal the interwoven narratives of intimacy aesthetics and identity The author sustains close readings to expose the challenges the representations of men together posed not only for the men of the time but also for the contemporary viewer and scholar Enlightening Romanticism, Romancing the Enlightenment Miriam L. Wallace,2016-05-06 As eighteenth century scholarship expands its range and disciplinary boundaries such as Enlightenment and Romanticism are challenged novels published during the rich period from 1750 to 1832 have become a contested site of critical overlap In this volume scholars who typically write under the rubric of either the long eighteenth century or Romanticism examine novels often claimed by both scholarly periods This shared enterprise opens new and rich discussions of novels and novelistic concerns by creating dialogue across scholarly boundaries Dominant narratives critical approaches and methodological assumptions differ in important ways but these differences reveal a productive tension Among the issues engaged are the eighteenth century novel s development of emotional interiority including theories of melancholia the troubling heritage of the epistolary novel for the 1790s radical novel tensions between rationality and romantic affect issues of aesthetics and politics and constructions of gender genre and race Rather than positing a simple opposition between an eighteenth century Enlightenment of rationality propriety and progress and a Romantic Period of inspiration heroic individualism and sublime emotionality these essays trace the putatively Romantic in the early 1700s as well as the long legacy of Enlightenment values and ideas well into the nineteenth century The volume concludes with responses from Patricia Meyer Spacks and Stephen C Behrendt who situate the essays and elaborate on the stakes Against Technology Steven E. Jones,2013-01-11 This book addresses the question of what it might mean today to be a Luddite that is to take a stand against technology Steven Jones here explains the history of the Luddites British textile workers who from around 1811 proclaimed themselves followers of Ned Ludd and smashed machinery they saw as threatening their trade Against Technology is not a history of the Luddites but a history of an idea how the activities of a group of British workers in Yorkshire and Nottinghamshire came to stand for a global anti technology philosophy and how an anonymous collective movement came to be identified with an individualistic personal conviction Angry textile workers in the early nineteenth century became romantic symbols of a desire for a simple life certainly not the original goal of the actions for which they became famous Against Technology is in other words a book about representations about the image and the myth of the Luddites and how that myth was transformed over time into modern neo Luddism has since the early 1980s been one of the foremost international scholars within his chosen field of cultural history. Over this period he has possibly more convincingly than any other international academic shown in his research how much sport and associated forms of competitive performance have not only reflected and reproduced but indeed sometimes also reformed and redirected fundamental political, cultural and social structures and ideological transformative forces in modern civilisation. Professor Henrik Meinander, University of Helsinki. Professor Mangan is widely and greatly respected in China as a scholar of international distinction; he has made both direct and indirect contributions to Chinese scholarship, especially regarding Chinese women and their long struggle for emancipation. Finally, and I cannot stress this point too strongly, a most important contribution has been his crystal clear and nuanced writing style, much appreciated by Chinese who wish to write for the international scholastic world. Professor Dong Jinxia, Peking University. No one has had a more influential role in or made a greater contribution to the cultural history of modern sport than Professor J. A. Mangan. With his visionary pioneering monographs and many seminal edited collections and as founding editor of the series Sport in the Global Society with its numerous volumes and most especially as founding editor and editor of The International Journal of the History of Sport for some thirty years, which he took from the original three numbers a year to eighteen numbers a year, his contribution has been unparalleled. Professor Roberta J. Park, University of California, Berkeley.

Metaphors of Confinement Monika Fludernik, 2019-08-13. Metaphors of Confinement: The Prison in Fact, Fiction and Fantasy offers a historical survey of imaginings of the prison as expressed in carceral metaphors in a range of texts about imprisonment from Antiquity to the present, as well as non-penal situations described as confining or restrictive. These imaginings coalesce into a carceral imaginary that determines the way we think about prisons, just as social debates about punishment and criminals feed into the way carceral imaginary develops over time. Examining not only English language prose fiction but also poetry and drama from the Middle Ages to postcolonial, particularly African literature, the book juxtaposes literary and non-literary contexts and contrasts fictional and non-fictional representations of imprisonment and discussions about the prison as institution and experiential reality. It comments on present-day trends of punitivity and foregrounds the ethical dimensions of penal punishment. The main argument concerns the continuity of carceral metaphors through the centuries despite historical developments that included major shifts in policy, such as the invention of the penitentiary. The study looks at selected carceral metaphors often from two complementary perspectives, such as the home as prison or the prison as home or the factory as prison and the prison as factory. The case studies present particularly relevant genres and texts that employ these metaphors often from a historical perspective that analyses development through different periods.
