Map Worlds Will C. van den Hoonaard, 2013-09-21 Map Worlds plots a journey of discovery through the world of women map makers from the golden age of cartography in the sixteenth century Low Countries to tactile maps in contemporary Brazil Author Will C van den Hoonaard examines the history of women in the profession sets out the situation of women in technical fields and cartography related organizations and outlines the challenges they face in their careers Map Worlds explores women as colourists in early times describes the major houses of cartographic production and delves into the economic function of intermarriages among cartographic houses and families It relates how in later centuries working from the margins women produced maps to record painful tribal memories or sought to remedy social injustices Much later one woman so changed the way we think about continents that the shift has been likened to the Copernican revolution Other women created order and wonder about the lunar landscape and still others turned the art and science of making maps inside out exposing the hidden unconscious and subliminal text of maps Shared by all these map makers are themes of social justice and making maps work for the betterment of humanity

Comparative Map History and "the History of Cartography" Matthew H. Edney, 2025-07-10 The apparently centuries old field of the history of cartography was invented after 1950 through incomplete historiographies by leading map historians This monograph uses an empirically grounded analysis of the ways in which early maps have been systematically studied since the early 1800s to offer an innovative account of the practices and institutions of comparative map history in support of Western imperialism and nationalism and of how the field was reconfigured as the core of a newly idealized discipline of the history of cartography     The Routledge Handbook of Mapping and Cartography Alexander J. Kent, Peter Vujakovic, 2017-10-04 This new Handbook unites cartographic theory and praxis with the principles of cartographic design and their application It offers a critical appraisal of the current state of the art science and technology of map making in a convenient and well illustrated guide that will appeal to an international and multi disciplinary audience No single volume work in the field is comparable in terms of its accessibility currency and scope The Routledge Handbook of Mapping and Cartography draws on the wealth of new scholarship and practice in this emerging field from the latest conceptual developments in mapping and advances in map making technology to reflections on the role of maps in society It brings together 43 engaging chapters on a diverse range of topics including the history of cartography map use and user issues cartographic design remote sensing volunteered geographic information VGI and map art The title s expert contributions are drawn from an international base of influential academics and leading practitioners with a view to informing theoretical development and best practice This new volume will provide the reader with an exceptionally wide ranging introduction to mapping and cartography and aim to inspire further engagement within this dynamic and exciting field The Routledge Handbook of Mapping and Cartography offers a unique reference point that will be of great interest and practical use to all map makers and students of geographic information science geography cultural studies and a range of related disciplines     Working with Map Projections Fritz Kessler, Sarah Battersby, 2019-05-03 A map projection fundamentally impacts the mapmaking process Working with Map Projections A Guide to Their Selection explains why for any given map there isn t a single best map projection Selecting a projection is a matter of understanding the compromises and consequences of showing a 3 D space in two dimensions The book presents a clear understanding of the processes necessary to make logical decisions on selecting an appropriate map projection for a given data set The authors discuss the logic needed in the selection process describe why certain decisions should be made and explain the consequences of any inappropriate decision made during the selection process This book also explains how the map projection will impact the map s ability to fulfill its purpose uses real world data sets as the basis for the selection of an appropriate map projection and provides illustrations of an appropriately and inappropriately selected map projection for a given data set The authors take a novel approach to discussing map projections by avoiding an extensive inventory of mathematical formulae and using only the mathematics of map projections that matter for many mapping tasks They also present information that is directly applicable to the process of selecting map projections and not tied to a specific software package Written by two leading experts this book is an invaluable resource for anyone studying or working with geospatial data from students to experienced professionals and will help readers successfully weigh the pros and cons of choosing one projection over another to suit a map s intended purpose     Mapping Reality Geoff King, 1996-04-12 An original and wide ranging study of the mappings used to impose meaning on the world Mapping Reality argues that maps create rather than merely represent the ground on which they rest Distinctions between map and territory questioned by some theorists of the postmodern have always been arbitrary From the history of cartography to the mappings of culture sexuality and nation Geoff King draws on an extensive range of materials including mappings imposed in the colonial settlement of America the Cold War Vietnam and the events since the collapse of the Soviet bloc He argues for a deconstruction of the opposition between map and territory to allow dominant mappings to be challenged their contours redrawn and new grids imposed

Mapping And Imagination In The Great Basin Richard V. Francaviglia, 2005-03-07 The Great Basin was the last region of continental North America to be explored and mapped and it remained largely a mystery to Euro Americans until well into the nineteenth century In Mapping and Imagination in the Great Basin geographer historian Richard Francaviglia shows how the Great Basin gradually emerged from its cartographic silence as terra incognita and how this fascinating process both paralleled the development of the sciences of surveying geology hydrology and cartography and reflected the changing geopolitical aspirations of the European colonial powers and the United States Francaviglia's interdisciplinary account of the mapping of the Great Basin combines a chronicle of the exploration of the region with a history of the art and science of cartography and of the political economic and cultural contexts in which maps are created It also offers a compelling wide ranging discussion that combines a description of the daunting physical realities of the Great Basin with a cogent examination of the ways humans from early Native Americans to nineteenth century surveyors to twentieth century highway and air travelers have understood defined and organized this space psychologically and through the medium of maps Mapping and Imagination in the Great Basin continues Francaviglia's insightful richly nuanced meditation on the Great Basin landscape that began in Believing in Place

Rethinking Map Literacy Ming Xie, Steven Reader, H. L. Vacher, 2021-03-29 This book provides two conceptual frameworks for further investigation of map literacy and fills in a gap in map literacy studies addressing the distinction between reference maps and thematic maps and the varying uses of quantitative map literacy QML within and between the two The text offers two conceptual frameworks and uses specific map examples to explore this variability in map reading skills and knowledge with the goal of informing educational pedagogy and practices within geography and related disciplines The book will appeal to cartographers and geographers as a new perspective on a tool of communication they have long employed in their disciplines and will also appeal to those involved in the educational pedagogy of information and data literacy as a way to conceptualize the development of curricula and teaching materials in the increasingly important arena of the interplay between quantitative data and map based graphics The first framework discussed is based on a three set Venn model and addresses the content and relationships of three literacies map literacy quantitative literacy and background information As part of this framework the field of QML is introduced conceptualized and defined as the knowledge concepts skills and facts required to accurately read use interpret and understand the quantitative information embedded in geographic backgrounds The second framework is of a compositional triangle based on 1 the ratio of reference to thematic map purpose and 2 the level of generalization and or distortion within maps In combination these two parameters allow for any type of map to be located within the triangle as a prelude to considering the type and level of quantitative literacy that comes into play during map reading Based on the two frameworks mentioned above the pedagogical tool of word problems is applied to map literacy in an innovative way to explore the variability of map reading skills and knowledge based on specific map examples Resources in Education

This is followed by a discussion of the guiding principles of cartographic design in Chapter 4 how to start thinking about putting a map together in an effective and legible form Chapter 5 covers map projections the process of converting the curved earth's surface into a flat representation appropriate for mapping Chapters 6 and 7 discuss the use of text and color respectively Chapter 8 reviews trends in modern cartography to summarize some of the ways the discipline is changing due to new forms of cartographic media that include 3D representations animated cartography and mobile cartography Chapter 9 provides a literature review of the scholarship in cartography The final component of the book shifts to applied technical concepts important to cartographic production covering data quality concepts and the acquisition of geospatial data sources Chapter 10 and an overview of software applications particularly relevant to modern cartography production GIS and graphics software Chapter 11 Chapter 12 concludes the book with examples of real world cartography projects discussing the planning data collection and design process that lead to the final map products This book aspires to introduce readers to the foundational concepts both theoretical and applied they need to start the actual work of making maps The accompanying website offers hands on exercises to guide readers through the production of a map from conception through to the final version as well as PowerPoint slides that accompany the text

Mapping Galilee in Josephus, Luke, and John John Vonder Bruegge, 2016-05-30 The study of 1st century CE Galilee has become an important subfield within the broader disciplines of Ancient Judaism and Early Christianity In Mapping Galilee John M Vonder Bruegge examines how Galilee is portrayed both in ancient writings and current scholarship as a variously mapped space using insights from critical geography as an evaluative lens Conventional approaches to Galilee treat it as a static backdrop for a deliberate and dynamic historical drama By reasserting geography as a creative process rather than a passive description Vonder Bruegge also reasserts ancient Galilee as an interpreted space a series of conceptualized maps laden with meaning significance and purpose for each individual author
