British and American News Maps in the Early Cold War Period, 1945-1955 Jeffrey P. Stone, 2019-06-06 During the early years of the Cold War England and the United States both found themselves reassessing their relationship with their former ally the Soviet Union and the status of their own special relationship was far from certain As Jeffrey P Stone argues maps from British and American news journals from this period became a valuable tool for relating the new realities of the Cold War to millions of readers These maps were vehicles for political ideology revealing both obvious and subtle differences in how each country viewed global geopolitics at the onset of the Cold War Richly illustrated with news maps cartographic advertisements and cartoons from the era this book reveals the idiomatic political cultural and material differences contributing to these divergent cartographic visions of the Cold War world

Developments in the Theory and Practice of Cybercartography D.R. Fraser Taylor, 2013-12-17 Developments in the Theory and Practice of

Cybercartography awarded an Honorable Mention in Earth Science at the Association of American Publishers 2015 PROSE Awards examines some of the recent developments in the theory and practice of cybercartography and the substantial changes which have taken place since the first edition published in 2005 It continues to examine the major elements of cybercartography and emphasizes the importance of interaction between theory and practice in developing a paradigm which moves beyond the concept of Geographic Information Systems GIS and Geographical Information Science Cybercartography is a new paradigm for maps and mapping in the information era Defined as the organization presentation analysis and communication of spatially referenced information on a wide variety of topics of interest to society cybercartography is presented in an interactive dynamic multisensory format with the use of multimedia and multimodal interfaces The seven major elements of cybercartography outlined in the first edition have been supplemented by six key ideas and the definition of cybercartography has been extended and expanded The new practice of mapping traditional knowledge in partnership with indigenous people has led to new theoretical understanding as well as innovative cybercartographic atlases Featuring more than 90% new and revised content this volume is a result of a multidisciplinary team effort and has benefited from the input of partners from government industry and aboriginal non governmental organizations Honorable Mention in the the 2015 PROSE Awards in Earth Science from the Association of American Publishers Highlights the relationship between cybercartography and critical geography Incorporates several new cybercartographic atlases produced in cooperation with Inuit and First Nations groups Showcases legal ethical consent and policy implications of mapping local and traditional knowledge Features an interactive companion web site containing links to related sites additional color images and illustrations plus important information to capture the dynamic and interactive elements of cybercartography <http://booksite.elsevier.com/9780444627131>

An Empire of Small Places Robert Paulett, 2012-09-01 Britain's colonial empire in southeastern North America relied on the cultivation and maintenance of economic and political ties with the numerous powerful Indian confederacies of the region Those ties in turn relied on British traders adapting to Indian ideas of landscape and power In An Empire of Small Places Robert Paulett examines this interaction over the course of the eighteenth century drawing attention to the ways that conceptions of space competed overlapped and changed He encourages us to understand the early American South as a landscape made by interactions among American Indians European Americans and enslaved African American laborers Focusing especially on the Anglo Creek Chickasaw route that ran from the coast through Augusta to present day Mississippi and Tennessee Paulett finds that the deerskin trade produced a sense of spatial and human relationships that did not easily fit into Britain's imperial ideas and thus forced the British to consciously articulate what made for a proper realm He develops this argument in chapters about five specific kinds of places the imagined spaces of British maps and the lived spaces of the Savannah River the town of Augusta traders paths and trading houses In each case the trade's practical demands privileged Indian African and nonelite European attitudes toward place After the Revolution

the new United States created a different model for the Southeast that sought to establish a new system of Indian white relationships oriented around individual neighborhoods

Early American Cartographies Martin Brückner, 2012-12-01 Maps were at the heart of cultural life in the Americas from before colonization to the formation of modern nation states The fourteen essays in Early American Cartographies examine indigenous and European peoples creation and use of maps to better represent and understand the world they inhabited Drawing from both current historical interpretations and new interdisciplinary perspectives this collection provides diverse approaches to understanding the multilayered exchanges that went into creating cartographic knowledge in and about the Americas In the introduction editor Martin Bruckner provides a critical assessment of the concept of cartography and of the historiography of maps The individual essays then range widely over space and place from the imperial reach of Iberian and British cartography to indigenous conceptualizations including dirty ephemeral maps and star charts to demonstrate that pre nineteenth century American cartography was at once a multiform and multicultural affair This volume not only highlights the collaborative genesis of cartographic knowledge about the early Americas the essays also bring to light original archives and innovative methodologies for investigating spatial relations among peoples in the western hemisphere Taken together the authors reveal the roles of early American cartographies in shaping popular notions of national space informing visual perception animating literary imagination and structuring the political history of Anglo and Ibero America The contributors are Martin Bruckner University of Delaware Michael J Drexler Bucknell University Matthew H Edney University of Southern Maine Jess Edwards Manchester Metropolitan University Junia Ferreira Furtado Universidade Federal de Minas Gerais Brazil William Gustav Gartner University of Wisconsin Madison Gavin Hollis Hunter College of the City University of New York Scott Lehman independent scholar Ken MacMillan University of Calgary Barbara E Mundy Fordham University Andrew Newman Stony Brook University Ricardo Padron University of Virginia Judith Ridner Mississippi State University

Spatial Cognition II Christian Freksa, Wilfried Brauer, Christopher Habel, Karl F. Wender, 2003-06-26 This book constitutes the second volume documenting the results achieved within a priority program on spatial cognition by the German Science Foundation DFG The 28 revised full papers presented were carefully reviewed and reflect the increased interdisciplinary cooperation in the area The book is divided into sections on maps and diagrams motion and spatial reference spatial relations and spatial inference navigation in real and virtual spaces and spatial memory

Explorations and Entanglements Hartmut Berghoff, Frank Biess, Ulrike Strasser, 2018-11-16 Traditionally Germany has been considered a minor player in Pacific history its presence there was more limited than that of other European nations and whereas its European rivals established themselves as imperial forces beginning in the early modern era Germany did not seriously pursue colonialism until the nineteenth century Yet thanks to recent advances in the field emphasizing transoceanic networks and cultural encounters it is now possible to develop a more nuanced understanding of the history of Germans in the Pacific The studies gathered here offer fascinating research into

German missionary commercial scientific and imperial activity against the backdrop of the Pacific's overlapping cultural circuits and complex oceanic transits

Overcoming Ptolemy Geoffrey C. Gunn, 2018-10-15 Studies on global metageography are enjoying a revival and in no way is this better referenced than against the geo world system bequeathed by Claudius Ptolemy almost two thousand years ago This is all the more important when we consider the longevity of the Ptolemaic construct through and beyond the European age of discovery allowing as well for its eventual revision or refinement Innovations in navigational science cartographic representations and textual description are all called upon to illustrate this theme With its focus upon the macro region termed India Extra Gangem literally the space between India and China the book unfolds a fourfold agenda First it explains the Ptolemaic world system back to classical points of reference as well as to its reception in late medieval Europe from Arabic sources Second it tracks the erosion of the Ptolemaic template especially in the light of new empirical data entering Europe from early travel accounts as well as the first voyages of discovery Third through selected examples as with India Southeast Asia and China it seeks to expose textual and cartographic adjustments to the classical models flowing from the scientific revolution Fourth through an examination of Jesuit astronomical observations conducted at various points in Asia it demonstrates how Eurasia was actually measured and sized with respect to its true longitudinal coordinates such had deluded Columbus and even succeeding generations In short this work problematizes the creation of geographical knowledge raises awareness as to the making of region in Asia over long historical time the Ptolemaic world in motion and as a more latent agenda sounds an alert as to the perils of overdetermination in the setting of modern boundaries whether upon land or sea

Geographers Hayden Lorimer, 2014-09-25 Volume 33 of Geographers Biobibliographical Studies adds significantly to the corpus of scholarship on geography's multiple histories and biographies with six essays on individuals who have made major contributions to the development of geography in the twentieth century This volume focuses on European geographers including essays on individuals from Britain France and Hungary These are individuals who have made important and distinctive contributions to a diverse range of fields including cartography physical geography oceanography and urban theory As with previous volumes these biographical essays demonstrate the importance of geographers' lives in terms of the lived experience of geography in practise

Mapping Different Geographies Karel Kriz, William Cartwright, Lorenz Hurni, 2010-09-15 This book is the outcome of the work of contributors who participated in the workshop Mapping Different Geographies MDG in February 2010 held in Puchberg am Schneeberg Austria This meeting brought together cartographers artists and geoscientists who research and practice in applications that focus on enhancing or to one communication or develop and evaluate methodologies that provide innovative methods for sharing information The main intention of the workshop was to investigate how different geographies are being mapped and the possibilities for developing new theories and techniques for information design and transfer based on place or location So as to communicate these concepts it was important to appreciate the many contrasting meanings of mapping that were held by workshop participants. Also the many and varied viewpoints of what different geographies are were elaborated upon and discussed. Therefore as the focus on space and time was embedded within everyone's fields of investigation this was addressed during the workshop. This resulted in very engaging discourse which in some cases exposed the restrictions that certain approaches need to consider. For participants this proved to be most useful as this allowed them to appreciate the limits and restrictions of their own approach to understanding and representing different geographies. As well the workshop also was most helpful as a vehicle for demonstrating the common ground of interest held by the very diverse areas of endeavour that the workshop participants work within.

Perception Francine L. Dolins, Robert W. Mitchell, 2010-03-25 An analysis of human and non human animals spatial cognitive perceptual and behavioural processes through mapping internal and external spatial knowledge.

Cartographic Cinema Tom Conley, Cartography and cinema are what might be called locational machinery. Maps and movies tell their viewers where they are situated, what they are doing and to a strong degree who they are. In this groundbreaking work eminent scholar Tom Conley establishes the ideological power of maps in classic contemporary and avant garde cinema to shape the imaginary and mediated relations we hold with the world. Cartographic Cinema examines the affinities of maps and movies through comparative theory and close analysis of films from the silent era to the French New Wave to Hollywood blockbusters. In doing so Conley reveals that most of the movies we see contain maps of various kinds and almost invariably constitute a projective apparatus similar to cartography. In addition he demonstrates that spatial signs in film foster a critical relation with the prevailing narrative and mimetic registers of cinema. Conley convincingly argues that the very act of watching films and cinema itself is actually a form of cartography. Unlike its function in an atlas a map in a movie often causes the spectator to entertain broader questions not only about cinema but also of the nature of space and being.

The Spacious Word Ricardo Padrón, 2021-09-26 The Spacious Word explores the history of Iberian expansion into the Americas as seen through maps and cartographic literature and considers the relationship between early Spanish ideas of the world and the origins of European colonialism. Spanish mapmakers and writers as Padrón shows clung to a much older idea of space that was based on the itineraries of travel narratives and medieval navigational techniques. Padrón contends too that maps and geographic writings heavily influenced the Spanish imperial imagination. During the early modern period the idea of America was still something being invented in the minds of Europeans. Maps of the New World, letters from explorers of indigenous civilizations and poems dramatizing the conquest of distant lands then helped Spain to redefine itself both geographically and imaginatively as an Atlantic and even global empire. In turn such literature had a profound influence on Spanish ideas of nationhood most significantly its own. Elegantly conceived and meticulously researched The Spacious Word will be of enormous interest to historians of Spain, early modern literature and cartography.

Mapping European Empire Russell Foster, 2015-06-26 Empire and maps are mutually reliant phenomena and traceable to the dawn of civilisation. Furthermore maps retain a supremely authoritative status as unquestioned reflections of reality In today s image saturated world their influence is more powerful now than at any other time in history This book argues that in the 21st century we are seeing an imperial renaissance in the European Union EU a political organisation which defies categorisation but whose power and influence grows by the year It examines the past present and future of the EU to demonstrate that empire is not a category of state but rather a collective imagination which reshapes history and appropriates an artificial past to validate the policies of the present and the ambitions of the future In doing so this book illuminates the imperial discourse that permeates the mass maps of the modern EU This text will be of key interest to students and scholars of political science EU Studies Human Geography European political history cartography and visual methodologies and international relations
