Marcel Proust And The Text As Macrometaphor:

Marcel Proust and the Text as Macrometaphor Lois Marie Jaeck,1990 Marcel Proust and the Text as Macrometaphor Lois Marie Jaeck,1990 Proust, the Body and Literary Form Michael R. Finn,1999-03-25 This 1999 study examines the connections between Proust's fin de siècle nervousness and his apprehensions regarding literary form Michael Finn shows that Proust's anxieties both about bodily weakness and about novel writing were fed by a set of intriguing psychological and medical texts and were mirrored in the nerve-based afflictions of earlier writers including Flaubert Baudelaire Nerval and the Goncourt brothers Finn argues that once Proust cast off his concerns about being a nervous weakling he was freed to poke fun both at the supposed purity of the novel form Hysteria as a figure and as a theme becomes a key to the Proustian narrative and a certain kind of wordless bodily copying of gesture and event is revealed to be at the heart of a writing technique which undermines many of the conventions of fiction Proust's Imaginary Museum Gabrielle Townsend,2008 This study of Marcel Proust's creative imagination examines an aspect of the novel that has hitherto been largely overlooked the author's dependence on secondary visual sources Gabrielle Townsend argues that reproductions play a key role in the work's complex multi-layered structure The Syllables of Time Teresa Whittington,2017-07-05 This study reveals reading to be one of the main activities to occupy the inhabitants of the world of Marcel Proust's novel A la recherche du temps perdu Characters do not just read books but have access to the journals and newspapers of a rapidly expanding print industry They receive letters and postcards from family and friends The posters of a nascent advertising industry tempt them to spend an evening at the theatre or a holiday by the sea and new forms of communication such as telegraphy enter their lives and require new strategies of deciphering All human activity is glossed by means of a series of metaphors of reading extending the reader's domain beyond the written text Through a series of illuminating analyses Teresa Whittington shows how this web of references builds into a specifically Proustian account of both the outer social context of reading and the inner psychological world of the reader Proust offers a contribution to the history of reading in the France of his own lifetime and suggests that reading is the very condition of the writing of his fiction

Childhood as Memory, Myth and Metaphor Catherine Crimp,2017-12-02 A fascination with childhood unites the artist Louise Bourgeois 1911-2010 and the writers Samuel Beckett 1906-1989 and Marcel Proust 1871-1922 But while many commentators have traced their childhood images back to memories of lived experiences there is more to their mythologies of childhood that waits to be explored They invite us to move away from familiar ideas whether psychological or biographical about what a child can represent and even what a child is The haunting child figures of Bourgeois Beckett and Proust echo each other as they show how imagining origins for a life for a work of art involves paradoxes that test the limits of our forms of expression Art meets literature profusion meets concision French meets English and images of childhood reveal new insights in this encounter between three great figures of twentieth and twenty-first century culture Catherine Crimp holds a

PhD from the University of Cambridge and is currently Lectrice d anglais at theEcole Normale Superieure de Lyon

Figuring Grief Karen E. Smythe,1992-11-09 The title Figuring Grief refers to the narrative process whereby mourning is depicted In her textual analysis Smythe explores various connections between representation and consolation Drawing on genre and narratological theory she outlines the development of the fiction elegy as a sub genre and suggests that the modernist writings of Woolf and Joyce are paradigmatic examples of the form She then uses these paradigms as suggestive reading models for the interpretation of works by Gallant Munro and other contemporary fiction elegists Figuring Grief offers new readings of specific works and suggests that new ways of reading are both demanded and rewarded by a poetics of elegy

Metaphor II Jean-Pierre Noppen,Edith Hols,1990-01-01 Metaphor though not now the scholarly mania it once was remains a topic of great interest in many disciplines albeit with interesting shifts in emphasis Warren Shibbes Metaphor An Annotated Bibliography and History Bloomington Ind 1971 recorded the initial interest Then Metaphor A Bibliography of Post 1970 Publications published by John Benjamins continued the record through the mania years up to 1985 when writings proliferated as metaphor was seen to be a fundamental category in human thought and language Five years later there is a need for a report on the newest thinking and tendencies in the field This need is fulfilled by Metaphor II which offers a comprehensive view of information which would otherwise remain scattered throughout a numbing plethora of resources including many sometimes hard to find publications from Eastern Europe Metaphor II systematically collects references of books articles and papers published between 1985 and May 1990 and includes for completeness corrections and additions to the earlier bibliographies Abstracts are given for many of the titles while four indices disciplines semantic fields metaphor theory and names multiply the number of access points to the information The Unconscious in Proust's A la

Recherche Du Temps Perdu Robin MacKenzie,2000 In an interview given in 1913 Proust described the as yet uncompleted A la recherche du temps perdu as a series of Romans de l Inconscient This study explores the theme of the unconscious in Proust s great novel situating it against a backdrop of nineteenth century models of the mind and tracing its connections with major metaphoric and thematic networks in the novel Dreams and spoken language in particular emerge as crucial sites of unconscious mental activity providing a wealth of material on which one can base a comparative study of Proustian and Freudian models of the mind Remembered Self Jefferson A. Singer,Peter Salovey,2010-06-15 A theory for psychologists on the role of memory in personality psychology In The Remembered Self Jefferson A Singer and Peter Salovey persuasively argue that memories are an important window into one s life story revealing characteristic moods motives and thinking patterns Through experimental evidence clinical case material and examples from literature the authors offer a fresh perspective on the role of memory in personality and clinical psychology Unlike the conventional psychoanalytic approach to memory which concentrates on what is forgotten Singer and Salovey treat memory in a new and different way with an emphasis on what is remembered Theirs is a bold new theory of memory and self that is both comprehensive and accessible

Remembering and the Sound of Words Adam Piette, 1996 Remembering the Sound of Words is a major new study of four of modern literature's most important writers and the first serious attempt to account for complex sound effects in prose. Adam Piette establishes fascinating new links between such sound effects and the representation of memory in literary texts. He sets out a workable taxonomy of sound repetitions in prose and formulates through a theory of alternating devices the ways in which the reader's attention is drawn to the acoustic surface of the text. Through close analysis of Mallarmé's prose poetry, Proust's musical syntax, Joyce's memory rhymes from the Portrait of the Artist through Ulysses to Finnegans Wake, and Beckett's prose and drama, Piette demonstrates that sound effects act as intricate reminders of memory traces in the text. Despite wide divergence in these four writers' representations of memory, the book shows that the use of this memory rhyme technique is common to them all and is employed in particular to express the textual migration of past key words, self-centred comic tyranny, and the fitful unification of body and memory within the narrative voice. Mimesis is redefined in terms of textual rhymes, facsimiles of the complex resemblances, fusions, and re-enactments of the mind's verbal memory. Chaos Theory, Complexity, Cinema, and the Evolution of the French Novel Emily Zants, 1996 This study argues that the evolution of the French novel has been towards cinema based on chaos and complexity theories. In its attempt to break away from the frozen forms of hierarchical thought inherent to the Monarchy and the Bourgeoisie to engender a new order of thought, novels have developed techniques and structures such as fragmentation, doublings, flashbacks, or metaphorical representations that are cinematic because they engender a sense of spatial and temporal simultaneity, whereas the traditional novel is condemned to the linearity of words. This evolution is significant because the new techniques suspend the reader's habitual frame of reference and engage him/her in a consideration of new relationships. Paragraph, 2002 La Sonate E(s)t Une Femme Dee Anne Rodeen, 1997 Friend and Foe Frederick John Harris, 2002-01-21 In Friend and Foe Frederick Harris examines the life and works of French authors Marcel Proust and André Gide. Proust and Gide clearly defined French literature in the first part of the twentieth century. This book contains the whole of correspondence between Proust and Gide, some letters translated in English for the first time. By looking at Proust and Gide simultaneously, looking at Proust and the whole coterie of writers and critics that gathered around Gide at the Nouvelle Revue Française, Harris provides a new context in which to assess both Proust and Gide. It forces consideration in a more incisive way of the key issues in both their careers: the Dreyfus Affair, World War I, homosexuality, and their art. Canadian Book Review Annual, 1990 Bulletin de la Société des amis de Marcel Proust et des amis de Combray, 1991 Reconstructing Beckett Peter John Murphy, 1990 Canadiana, 1990 International Poetry Review, 2004
