Making Faces Alka Hingorani, 2012-09-30 Taberam Soni Labh Singh Amar Singh and other artists live and work in the hill villages of the lower Himalayas in Himachal Pradesh India There they fashion face images of deities mohras out of thin sheets of precious metal Commissioned by upper caste patrons the objects are cultural embodiments of divine and earthly kinship As the artists make the images they also cross caste boundaries in a part of India where such differences still determine rules of contact and correspondence proximity and association Once a mohra has been completed and consecrated its maker is not permitted to touch it or enter the temple in which it is housed yet during its creation the artist is sovereign treated deferentially as he shares living quarters with the high caste patrons Making Faces tells the story of these god makers the gods they make and the communities that participate in the creative process and its accompanying rituals For the author the process of learning about Himachal its art and artists the people who make their home there involved pursuing itinerant artists across difficult mountainous terrain with few if any means of communication between the thinly populated high altitude villages The harsh geography of the region permits scant travel and the itinerant artisan forms a critical link to the world outside villages that commission mohras are often populated by a small number of families Alka Hingorani evokes this world in rich visual and descriptive detail as she explores the ways in which both object and artisan are received and their identities transformed during a period of artistic endeavor Making Faces is an original and evocative account superbly illustrated of the various phases in the lifecycle of a mohra at different times a religious icon an art object and a repository of material wealth in an otherwise subsistence economy It will be welcomed by scholars and students of anthropology material culture religion art history and South Asian studies

The Selector of Souls Shauna Singh Baldwin, 2012-09-25 The Selector of Souls begins with a scene that is terrifying harrowing and yet strangely tender we're in the mid ranges of the Himalayas as a young woman gives birth to her third child with the help of her mother Damini The birth brings no joy just a horrible accounting and the act that follows the huge sacrifice made by Damini out of love of her daughter haunts the novel In Shauna Singh Baldwin s enthralling novel two fascinating strong willed women must deal with the relentless logic forced upon them by survival Damini a Hindu midwife and Anu who flees an abusive marriage for the sanctuary of the Catholic church When Sister Anu comes to Damini s home village to open a clinic their paths cross and each are certain they are doing what s best for women What do health justice education and equality mean for women when India is marching toward prosperity growth and becoming a nuclear power If the baby girls and women around them are to survive Damini and Anu must find creative ways to break with tradition and help this community change from within Traditional Trade & Trading Centres in Himachal Pradesh Poonam Minhas,1998
