North-East India: Nagaland Suresh K. Sharma, 2021 Against State, against History Jangkhomang Guite, 2018-11-20 Life on the margins of the state is not a dark static and silent world It is in fact a radiant world involving multiple processes of reenactment of life lifeways and individual community relations This book is a radical reevaluation of the dominant civilizational narratives on the tribes that normally demonize them as a nuisance to the civilized Northeast India The book delves into the migration history and the conditions in Northeast India in which sections of the valley population escaped to the hills against the state. It explores how in this physical dispersion to the highland terrain they choose an independent village polity defended by trained warriors, fortified at the top of hills connected by repulsive pathways following the jhum economy and adopting pliable social, cultural, ethnic and gender formations. This condition of the society is understood as one of statelessness or unstate, the process involving disowning the state and becoming an egalitarian society where freedom of individuals is located at the core of their cultural collective. Modern Practices in North East India Lipokmar Dzüvichü, Manjeet Baruah, 2017-11-13

This book brings together essays on North East India from across disciplines to explore new understandings of the colonial and contemporary realities of the region. Departing from the usual focus on identity and politics, it offers fresh representations from history, social anthropology, culture, literature, politics, performance and gender. Through the lens of modern practices, the essays in this volume engage with diverse issues including state-making practices, knowledge production and its politics, history writing, colonialism, role of capital institutions, changing locations of orality and modernity, production and reception of texts, performances and literatures, social change and memory, violence and gender relations along with their wider historical, geographical and ideational mappings. In the process, they illustrate how the specificities of the region can become useful sites to interrogate global phenomena and processes, for instance, in what ways ideas and practices of modernity played an important role in framing the region and its people. Further, the volume underlines the complex ways in which the past came to be imagined, produced and contested in the region. With its blend of interdisciplinary approach, analytical models and perspectives, this book will be useful to scholars, researchers and general readers interested in North East India and those working on history, frontiers and borderlands, gender, cultural studies and literature.

Military Anthropology Montgomery McFate, 2018-05-01. In almost every military intervention in its history, the US has made cultural mistakes that hindered attainment of its policy goals. From the strategic bombing of Vietnam to the accidental burning of the Koran in Afghanistan, it has blundered around with little consideration of local cultural beliefs and for the long-term effects on the host nation's society. Cultural anthropology, the so-called handmaiden of colonialism, has historically served as an intellectual bridge between Western powers and local nationals. What light can it shed on the intersection of the US military and foreign societies today? This book tells the story of anthropologists who worked directly for the military, such as Ursula Graham Bower, the only woman to hold a British combat command during WWII. Each faced challenges, including the negative outcomes of exporting Western political models and errors of perception. Ranging from the British colonial era in Africa to the recent wars in Iraq and Afghanistan, Military Anthropology illustrates the conceptual, cultural and practical barriers encountered by military organisations operating in societies vastly different from their own. The Naga Queen Vicky Thomas, 2011-11-30. In 1937, Ursula Bower visited Nagaland at the invitation of a friend and on a dispensary tour encountered the Naga people. She was so taken with their striking dignity, tribal pride and unique culture that she arranged to live among them to write an anthropological study But she became more than an observer living alone among them Ursula was integrated into their village life becoming their figurehead when in 1944 the Japanese invaded the jungles of Nagaland from Burma The Nagas turned to her for leadership and with the support of General Slim her Naga guides were armed and trained to patrol and repel the Japanese incursions The Nagas courage and loyalty were duly recognised and after the conflict Ursula with Naga support went on to run a jungle training school for the RAF Later with her husband Tim Betts as Political Officer she worked among the volatile tribes of the remote Apa Tani Valley bordering Tibet Following the Independence of India in 1947 Ursula returned to her highland roots but to her death in 1988 her experiences among the Naga people shaped and directed her life The Lhota Nagas James Philip Mills, John Henry Hutton, 1922 The Sema
