Naked Ape Or Homo Sapiens:

Naked Ape Or Homo Sapiens? John Lewis, Bernard Towers, 1969 The Classical Marxist Critiques of Religion: Marx, Engels, Lenin, Kautsky D.B. McKown, 2012-12-06 In view of the enormous number of works on Marxism in general and in light of the many books and articles touching on the relationship of Marxism to religion in particular it may fairly be asked why yet another such work should be produced My reply is that in eliciting answers to the kinds of questions posed by the methodology I have used it was necessary to go to the primary sources almost exclusively This is not to bemoan a sad fate but to affirm that there are notable deficiencies in the secondary sources relevant to my topic By way of general indictment I contend that the major difficulty with existing studies of the Marxist critique of religion is that their authors whether expositors or critics have failed both to specify their own presuppositions concerning religion and to approach the subject with an adequate comprehension of its many dimensions Since in most cases the reader is equally unprepared anthropologically sociologically psychologically and historically for clear and informed thought in this vast and nebulous area the result has been widespread confusion As if this were not enough numerous writers with little more than polemical interests have compounded the confusion by failing to distinguish between religion in general and their own brands of faith in particular Others have not discriminated between the concepts of metaphysics and the supernatural items of religious belief
