, 2021-11-22 The traumatic experiences of persecution and genocide have changed traditional views of literature The discussion of historical truth versus aesthetic autonomy takes an unexpected turn when confronted with the experiences of the victims of the Holocaust the Gulag Archipelago the Cultural Revolution Apartheid and other crimes against humanity The question is whether and if so to what extent literary imagination may depart from historical truth In general the first reactions to traumatic historical experiences are autobiographical statements written by witnesses of the events However the second and third generations the sons and daughters of the victims as well as of the victimizers tend to free themselves from this generic restriction and claim their own way of remembering the history of their parents and grandparents They explore their own limits of representation and feel free to use a variety of genres they turn to either realist or postmodernist ironic or grotesque modes of writing Experienced Life and Narrated Life Story Gabriele Rosenthal, 2024-04-10 How do people narrate events in their life story and in the history of their family or families when making a self presentation How are narratives and experiences in the present related to experiences and narratives in the past This book answers these questions with a theoretical and empirical study of the interconnections between remembering experiencing and presenting what was experienced at different points of the life course and of the associated collective histories It also discusses rules for conducting interviews that support processes of remembering and for carrying out an analysis that does justice to this for seven decades This is no ordinary historical document but a personal account of devastating trauma During World War II the Nazis trained some three hundred thousand German children to fight for Hitler Hans was just one of those boy soldiers Sent to the elite Feldafing school at nine years old he found himself in the grip of a system that substituted dummy grenades for Frisbees By age seventeen Hans had shot down Allied pilots with antiaircraft artillery In the desperate final stage of Hitler s war he was sent on a suicide mission to Z vada on the Sudetenland front where he witnessed the death of his schoolmates and where Helene begins to retrace her father s footsteps after his death As Helene translates Hans s journal and walks his path of suffering and redemption she uncovers the lost history of an entire generation brainwashed by the Third Reich s school system and funneled into the Hitler Youth A startling new account of this dark era The Feldafing Boys grapples with inherited trauma the burden of guilt and the blurred line between perpetrator and victim It is also a poignant tale of forgiveness as Helene comes to see her late father as not just a soldier but as one boy in a sea of three hundred thousand forced onto the wrong side of history and left to answer for it Previously published in hardcover as Hitler s Boy
