Burton,2012-05-01 The immortal words Not tonight Josephine are probably apocryphal but in 1796 Napoleon had more pressing concerns than his amorous wife he had been handed command of the Republican forces in Italy His men were clothed in rags unpaid and hungry Napoleon set to work with a passion bending his senior commanders to his will despite their seniority in both age and rank raising morale and promising the troops what they craved the opportunity for victory and loot Many historians regard Napoleon s first campaign to be his finest using all his genius to outmanoeuvre his numerous opponents by dividing them hard marching and even harder fighting to destroy Austrian power in Northern Italy In his wake his forces garnered so many victories it is hard to disagree Mondovi Lodi Lonato Montenotte Arcole and finally Rivoli After an abortive expedition to Egypt during which time the ruling powers in France had squandered their gains from previous engagement Napoleon was appointed as head of state in the garb of First Consul Using all of his powers of organization he formulated a brilliant campaign plan to expel the ascendant Austrians from Italy he swept through the Alps in the middle of winter behind the enemy forces After a bloody engagement at Marengo which hung in the balance until the arrival of French reinforcements the Austrians were forced out of Italy and would sue for peace soon thereafter Another excellent volume in the Special Campaigns series produced around the turn of the 20th century by serving or recently retired British and Indian Army officers Brig Gen Burton wrote a number of books on Napoleon s campaigns for the series and was an acknowledged expert on the era applying his expert eye to the lightning moves of the Emperor contrasted by the lumbering vacillations of his opponents Author Brig General Reginald G Burton Indian Army 1864 1923 Napoleon's Campaigns in Italy R.
