

Narrative Self

This dimension it's considered as the resulting function of narrative processes.

To listen your own narrative Self is activated through the ability to tune-in to and recognize the other person.

The other person, in turn, becomes not only an activator of the process of reflexivity on the narrative Self, but also the organizer of the representations constructed in the interaction

Narrative And The Self:

Narrative and the Self Anthony Paul Kerby, 1991-11-22 Examining the constitutive role of language and narration in key areas of human experience Narrative and the Self articulates a view of the self as the implied subject of narrative utterances Anthony Paul Kerby draws on the diverse insights of recent work in philosophy literary theory and psychology to synthesize a coherent and provocative view of narrative identity and selfhood Invoking the writings of Benveniste Ricoeur Merleau Ponty Lacan Taylor and other theorists he argues that language and narration play a central role in key aspects of human experience such as emotion values recollection and sense of history Fundamental to Kerby's exposition is a defense of the quasi narrative nature of our everyday experience Kerby delineates a convincing narrative model of the self and offers a valuable overview of contemporary philosophical issues surrounding the place and role of narrative in human experience

Narrative, Self and Social Practice Uffe Juul Jensen, 2009 Identity and Story Dan P. McAdams, Ruthellen Josselson, Amia Lieblich, 2006 The editors bring together an interdisciplinary and international group of creative researchers and theorists to examine the way the stories we tell create our identities The contributors to this volume explore how beginning in adolescence and young adulthood narrative identities become the stories we live by The Story I Tell

Myself Peter Ash, 2018-04-23 You know who you are right Of course you do you're you But what if who you think you are is actually holding you back closing off exciting opportunities that are right in front of you and preventing you from achieving your best potential This book explores the concept of self narrative or the stories that we tell ourselves about who we are and our place in the world In this book I explore how understanding our own self narratives and challenging them can enable you to change how you think about yourself and open up those opportunities that you could be missing Using examples from my own journey I provide a process that you can follow to increase your own self awareness understand what your self narrative says and how it impacts your daily life and gives a template on how to make changes to your narrative We are powerful storytellers telling ourselves our most impactful story of all By understanding and changing your story you can make real positive change in your life Use your own story to learn grow and achieve what you want Autobiographical Memory and the Construction of A Narrative Self Robyn Fivush, Catherine A. Haden, 2003-05-14 Divided into three parts this volume discusses the development of autobiographical memory and self understanding cross cultural variation in narrative environments and self construal and the construction of gender and identity concepts in developmental and situational contexts Identity and Story : Creating Self in Narrative , 2006 The Transformative Self Jack J. Bauer, 2021 The Transformative Self explains how people create a self identity in their life stories to cultivate personal growth and the good life Combining scientific research in psychology with work in philosophy literature history and more this book shows how personal and cultural narratives shape the development of happiness love and wisdom Narrative Structures and the Language of the Self Matthew Clark, 2010 Narrative Structures and the Language of the Self by Matthew Clark offers a new way of thinking about the interrelation of character and plot Clark investigates the characters brought together in a narrative considering them not as random collections but as structured sets that correspond to various manifestations of the self The shape and structure of these sets can be thought of as narrative geometry and various geometries imply various theories of the self Part One Philosophical Fables of the Self examines narratives such as The Talented Mr Ripley A Farewell to Arms A Separate Peace and The Master of Ballantrae in order to show successively more complex versions of the self as modeled by Descartes Hegel Freud and Mead Part Two The Case of the Subject uses Case Grammar to extend the discussion to additional roles of the self in narratives such as The Waves The Great Gatsby Fifth Business and Howards End as examples of the self as experiencer the self as observer the instrumental self and the locative self The book ends with an extended analysis of the subject in Hartley's The Go Between Throughout the discussion is concerned with practical analysis of specific narratives and with the development of an understanding of the self that moves beyond the simple dichotomy of the self and the other the subject and the object

The Narrative Self in Early Christianity Janet E. Spittler, 2019-10-04 Essays that explore early Christian texts and the broader world in which they were written This volume of twelve essays celebrates the contributions of classicist Judith Perkins to the study of early Christianity Drawing on Perkins's insights related to apocryphal texts representations of pain and suffering and the creation of meaning contributors explore the function of Christian narratives that depict pain and suffering the motivations of the early Christians who composed these stories and their continuing value to contemporary people Contributors also examine how narratives work to create meaning in a religious context These contributions address these issues from a variety of angles through a wide range of texts Features Introductions to and treatments of several largely unknown early Christian texts Essays by ten women and two men influenced or mentored by Judith Perkins Essays on the Deuterocanon the New Testament and early Christian relics Self, Value, and Narrative Anthony Rudd, 2012-10-25 Anthony Rudd presents a striking new account of the self as an ethical evaluative being He draws on Kierkegaard's thought to present a case for an ancient and currently neglected view that the tensions which are constitutive of selfhood can only be reconciled through the understanding of the self as guided by an objective Good Autobiographical Memory and the Construction of a Narrative Self Robyn Fivush, Catherine A. The Proud Self Lorenzo Greco,2025-05-30 This book presents a novel interpretation of Hume as a proponent of sentimental virtue ethics This interpretation sheds light on the nature of Hume s ethics as well as its relevance for contemporary debates in moral philosophy The book starts by developing an understanding of the self in Hume based on the passion of pride Contrary to the common view that Hume denies the unity of the self by diluting it into a bundle or collection of different perceptions the author argues that by focusing on pride it is possible to identify in Hume a firm notion of the self as having a sentimental nature that can be explained in narrative terms Pivoting on this narrative self he shows how it accounts for the Humean notion of the virtuous person by holding together in a harmonious whole several central issues in Hume s moral philosophy including sympathy the point of view from which we make moral judgements the practical nature of ethics and the role that reflection plays in it and the definition of perfect character Finally the author maintains that Humean virtue ethics so understood has the individual at its core representing a secular and pluralist alternative to neo Aristotelian versions discussed today The Proud Self will appeal to scholars and graduate students working on Hume 18th century philosophy virtue ethics and moral psychology

Snuff Neil Jackson,Shaun Kimber,Johnny Walker,Thomas Joseph Watson,2016-01-28 The phenomenon of so called snuff movies films that allegedly document real acts of murder specifically designed to entertain and sexually arouse the spectator represents a fascinating socio cultural paradox At once unproven yet accepted by many as emblematic of the very worst extremes of pornography and horror moral detractors have argued that the mere idea of snuff constitutes the logical and terminal extension of generic forms that are dependent primarily upon the excitement stimulation and ultimately corruption of the senses Snuff Real Death and Screen Media brings together scholars from film and media studies to assess the longevity of one of screen media s most enduring cultural myths Thorough provocative and well argued the contributions to this volume address areas ranging from exploitation movies the video industry trends in contemporary horror cinema pornography and Web 2 0

the Self Mark Rowlands, 2016-10-14 The idea that our memories in some sense make us who we are is a common one and not at all implausible After all what could make us who we are if not the things we have experienced thought felt and desired on these idiosyncratic pathways through space and time that we call lives And how can we retain these experiences thoughts feelings and desires if not through memory On the other hand most of what we have experienced has been forgotten And there is now a considerable body of evidence that suggests that even when we think we remember our memories are likely to be distorted sometimes beyond recognition Imagine writing your autobiography only to find that that most of it has been redacted and much of the rest substantially rewritten What would hold this book together What would make it the unified and coherent account of a life The answer Mark Rowlands argues lies partially hidden in a largely unrecognized form of memory Rilkean memory A Rilkean memory is produced when the content of a memory is lost but the act of remembering endures in a new mutated form a mood a feeling or a behavioral disposition Rilkean memories play a significant role in holding the self together in the face of the poverty and inaccuracy of the contents of memory But Rilkean memories are important not just because of what they are but also because of what they were before they became such memories Acts of remembering sculpt the contents of memories out of the slabs of remembered episodes Our acts of remembering ensure that we are in the content of each of our memories present in the way a sculptor is present in his creation even when this content is lamentably sparse and endemically inaccurate

Self-Knowledge and the Self David A Jopling, 2002-09-11 In this clear and reasoned discussion of self knowledge and the self the author asks whether it is really possible to know ourselves as we really are He illuminates issues about the nature of self identity which are of fundamental importance in moral psychology epistemology and literary criticism Jopling focuses on the accounts of Stuart Hampshire Jean Paul Sartre and Richard Rorty and dialogical philosophical psychology and illustrates his argument with examples from literature drama and psychology

Self and Identity Trenton Merricks, 2022 Trenton Merricks shows that we cannot get clear about personal identity unless we bring together the ethics and the metaphysics He argues that while identity is not what matters in survival it delivers what matters in survival which is the appropriateness of first personal anticipation of and self interested concern for a future person
