Space Greg Klerkx, 2005-01-11 The daring revolutionary NASA that sent Neil Armstrong to the moon has lost its meteoric vision says journalist and space enthusiast Greg Klerkx NASA he contends has devolved from a pioneer of space exploration into a factionalized bureaucracy focused primarily on its own survival And as a result humans haven't ventured beyond Earth orbit for three decades Klerkx argues that after its wildly successful Apollo program NASA clung fiercely to the spotlight by creating a government sheltered monopoly with a few Big Aerospace companies Although committed in theory to supporting commercial spaceflight in practice it smothered vital private sector innovation In striking descriptions of space milestones spanning the golden 1960s Space Age and the 2003 Columbia tragedy Klerkx exposes the real NASA and envisions exciting public private cooperation that could send humans back to the moon and beyond Property Rights in Outer Space

Matthew Johnson, 2024-05-28 This book explores the role of private mining rights in the utopian imaginary of space colonisation It presents a transdisciplinary account of the new and evolving legislative frameworks that have been established in anticipation of commercial exploitation of the mineral resources of the off world frontier Written in an engaging style the book investigates a novel case study in the history of capitalism and the commons the emergence of a nascent space mining industry undergirded by a contentious legislative framework In 2015 the US passed laws that would recognise the claims of US corporations to own and sell space resources This unilateral act of pre-emptive law making would appear to contravene the terms of the UN Outer Space Treaty 1967 which declared that the exploration and use of outer space should be for the benefit of all mankind and not subject to national appropriation Using this central dynamic between privately held mining rights and outer space as a global commons Matthew Johnson constructs an historical sociology of space mining from the deep historical roots of common and private property to the contemporary networks of neoliberalism that have engaged with the commercialisation of space activity The anticipatory expansion of private property claims beyond the Earth both resonates with and problematises the terrain of political history such as the tensions between states and markets public law and private power the commons and exclusive property The emerging cosmopolitics of off world private property mirrors and is often explicitly embedded within neoliberal geopolitics prompting urgent questions about how we can reaffirm principles of democracy and common heritage in the international laws of Earth and space This book is compelling reading for anyone interested in the social study of space law economics technology politics and property rights NASA

Defining NASA W. D. Kay,2012-02-01 Most observers would point to the 1969 Apollo moon landing as the single greatest accomplishment of NASA yet prominent scientists engineers and public officials were questioning the purpose of the U S space program even at the height of its national popularity Defining NASA looks at the turbulent history of the space agency and the political controversies behind its funding W D Kay examines the agency s activities and behavior by taking into account not only the political climate but also the changes in how public officials conceptualize space policy He explores what policymakers envisioned when they created the agency in 1958 why support for the Apollo program was so strong in the 1960s only to fade away in such a relatively short period of time what caused NASA and the space program to languish throughout most of the 1970s only to reemerge in the 1980s and finally what role the agency plays today Beyond the Atmosphere: Early Years of Space Science Homer Edward Newell,1980
