Perception of the Drought Hazard on the Great Plains Thomas Frederick Saarinen, 1969 Perception of the Drought Hazard on the Great Plains and Its Sociological Impacts Donna Louise Woudenberg, 2006 Preception of the Drought Hazard on the Great Plains Thomas Frederick Saarinen, 1969 Drought, Risk Management, and Policy Linda Courtenay Botterill, Geoff Cockfield, 2013-01-28 Australia and the United States face very similar challenges in dealing with drought Both countries cover a range of biophysical conditions both are federations that provide considerable responsibility to state governments for water and land management and both face the challenges in balancing rural industry and urban development especially in Perception of the Drought Hazard by the Dry Land Farmer of South Canterbury Wayne Allan Parkhill, 1970 Perception of the Drought Hazard by the Dry Land Farmer of South Canterbury Wayne A. Parkhill, 1980 The Perception of Risk Paul Slovic, 2016-10-06 The concept of risk is an outgrowth of our society's great concern about coping with the dangers of modern life The Perception of Risk brings together the work of Paul Slovic one of the world's leading analysts of risk risk perception and risk management to examine the gap between expert views of risk and public perceptions Ordered chronologically it allows the reader to see the evolution of our understanding of such perceptions from early studies identifying public misconceptions of risk to recent work that recognizes the importance and legitimacy of equity trust power and other value laden issues underlying public concern Hydro-Meteorological Hazards, Risks, and Disasters Paolo Paron, 2023-08-17 Hydro Meteorological Hazards Risks and Disasters 2e provides an integrated look at the major disasters that have had and continue to have major implications for many of the world's people such as floods and droughts This new edition takes a geoscientific approach to the topic while also covering current thinking about some scientific issues that are socially relevant and can directly affect human lives and assets This new edition showcases both academic and applied research conducted in developed and developing countries allowing readers to see the most updated flood and drought modeling research and their applications in the real world including for humanitarian emergency purposes Hydro Meteorological Hazards Risks and Disasters 2e also contains new insights about how climate change affects hazardous processes For the first time information on the many diverse topics relevant to professionals is aggregated into one volume It is a valuable reference to researchers graduates scientists physical geographers urban planners landscape architects and other people who work on the built environments of the world Cutting edge discussion of natural hazard topics that affect the lives and livelihoods of millions of people worldwide Includes numerous full color tables GIS maps diagrams illustrations and photographs of hazardous process in action Provides case studies of prominent hydro meteorological hazards and disasters Environmental Policy, Assessment and Communication David Canter, Martin Krampen, David Stea, 2024-11-07 Originally published in 1988 reissued now with a new series introduction Environmental Policy Assessment and Communication was the second in a trilogy of books to open the series Ethnoscapes Current Challenges in the Environmental Social Sciences These three titles brought together specially commissioned contributions that cover much of the range of topics that the series as a whole would cover Although the following volumes would not have the same format the opening trilogy gave an overview of what was to come while also providing a broad base for the future authors to build upon This volume has a practical orientation Its contributions deal directly with research on those environmental matters on which government agencies and other organisations formulate policies or develop design strategies This therefore covers the assessment and evaluation of designs and design proposals as well as background research to policy issues Hazard-Wise Chris Dolan,1996-02 Provides the teachers with a ready to use classroom resource which covers many aspects of major national hazards and disasters Through a series of exercises students are stimulated to investigate the causes and effects of hazards and the way in which people can respond effectively to them Well known Australian case studies are used to illustrate the impact of natural disasters Each section also contains activities designed to arouse greater interest in the topic such as crossword puzzles research activities and role play exercises National Science Board,1973 Perception of Environment Thomas Frederick Saarinen,1969 Paper examines studies of environmental perception of personal space room geography larger architectural space roads and pathways neighbourhoods cities larger conceptual regions countries and the world environments are conceptually distinguished as geographical operational perceptual and behavioural and significant factors at various levels all discussed Planning For Drought Donald Wilhite,William Easterling,Deborah A. Wood,Eugene Rasmusson,2019-06-04 Droughts and their management are a serious challenge to water resource professionals While droughts predominate in arid regions their frequency and severity in more temperate regions with more abundant rainfall have been on the rise Drought Management and Planning for Water Resources provides an essential collection of planning and management t Natural and Human-Induced Hazards and Disasters in Africa Simelane, Thokozani,2019-02-25 Natural and human induced environmental hazards are becoming increasingly prominent The frequency of recorded natural disasters rose markedly during the last century from about 100 per in the years up to 1940 to nearly 2800 during the 1990s Africa is the only continent whose share of reported disasters has increased over the past decade Several factors contribute to Africa s high vulnerability to disasters These include the high rate of population growth food insecurity high levels of poverty inappropriate use of natural resources and failures of policy and institutional frameworks Despite the huge negative impact of natural and human induced hazards on Africa s development little is done to prevent them Disaster prevention contributes to lasting improvement in safety and sustainable livelihoods and is essential as part of integrated disaster management strategies The provision of effective scientific input to policy formulation on various issues related to hazards and disasters is an ambitious undertaking It requires the collaborative effort of the African scientific community to develop comprehensive long term strategies and human capacity building initiatives that will enable science to benefit society This will further require a Building strong research and training institutions in Africa at national and regional levels b Facilitating the exchange of scientific information and sharing of ideas across borders c Strengthening the link between scientific research and policy making d Promoting outreach activities to build resilience to disaster risk and e Tapping the knowledge base of rural and urban communities In this volume the ICSU ROA has brought together selected African scientific researchers to share their views on policy direction for facing challenges linked to natural and human induced hazards The book is intended for policy advisers environmental scientists government officials and members of the general public with a special interest in environmental issues
