School of Oriental and African Studies, 1956 Illustrated Guide to the Collection [of The] Percival David Foundation of Chinese Art lady Sheila Yorke Hardy David (Lady.), Percival David Foundation of Chinese Art, University of London, School of Oriental and African Studies, 1968 Percival David Foundation of Chinese Art Percival David Foundation of Chinese Art, Margaret Medley, 1975 Percival David Foundation of Chinese Art Lady David, 1952* The Anthropology of Art Howard Morphy, Morgan Perkins, 2009-02-04 This anthology provides a single volume overview of the essential theoretical debates in the anthropology of art Drawing together significant work in the field from the second half of the twentieth century it enables readers to appreciate the art of different cultures at different times Advances a cross cultural concept of art that moves beyond traditional distinctions between Western and non Western art Provides the basis for the appreciation of art of different cultures and times Enhances readers appreciation of the aesthetics of art and of the important role it plays in human society Collectors, Collections and Museums Stacey Pierson, 2007 This book presents the first comprehensive study of the collecting consumption and display of Chinese porcelain in Britain from the 16th to the 20th century as well as the impact of this activity on British culture Beginning with the early porcelains acquired as objects of exotica and vessels for the consumption of tea and coffee followed by porcelains for display in the country house interior the first part of this book reveals the role of porcelain in Britain s developing economic relations with China and the impact of this material on both daily life and interior design The subsequent diplomatic and political conflicts of the 18th and 19th centuries provide a framework for an examination of British consumption of Chinese porcelain as both spoils of war and iconic representations of China material which helped to shape and influence British perceptions of China The final section demonstrates how these perceptions of China and its porcelain began to change significantly in the 20th century with porcelains acquired as works of art and displayed publicly in museums Collectors in Britain began to specialise in this area and actively invented a field of Chinese ceramics that was promulgated by learned societies and culminated in the founding of a museum of Chinese ceramics in London by one of the foremost British collectors Sir Percival David who donated his world class collection to the University of London in 1950 Illustrated Catalogue of [ceramics] ... in the

Percival David Foundation of Chinese Art Percival David Foundation of Chinese Art, 1958 The Arts of China 900-1620
 William Watson, 2000-01-01 This beautiful book is the second in a major three volume series that will survey China's immense wealth of art architecture and artefacts from prehistoric times to the twentieth century It covers the most prolific and broad ranging period of Chinese art history from the Song Dynasty with its spectacular landscape paintings to the Ming Dynasty with its lovely pottery William Watson considers architecture painting sculpture and the decorative arts in equal balance He follows styles and motifs as they are developed in each medium from one province to another and discusses materials and techniques as well as the iconography and function of every art form He also explores relationships between one medium and another tracing for example the influence of Buddhist iconography on sculptural traditions and on the architecture of temples and towers and showing how ceramic ornament affected the development of ornament in other media Formations of Colonial Modernity in East Asia Tani E. Barlow, 1997 The essays in Formations of Colonial Modernity in East Asia challenge the idea that notions of modernity and colonialism are mere imports from the West and show how colonial modernity has evolved from and into unique forms throughout Asia Although the modernity of non European colonies is as indisputable as the colonial core of European modernity until recently East Asian scholarship has tried to view Asian colonialism through the paradigm of colonial India for instance failing to recognize anti imperialist nationalist impulses within differing Asian countries and regions Demonstrating an impatience with social science models of knowledge the contributors show that binary categories focused on during the Cold War are no longer central to the project of history writing By bringing together articles previously published in the journal positions east asia cultures critique editor Tani Barlow has demonstrated how scholars construct identity and history providing cultural critics with new ways to think about these concepts in the context of Asia and beyond Chapters address topics such as the making of imperial subjects in Okinawa politics and the body social in colonial Hong Kong and the discourse of decolonization and popular memory in South Korea This is an invaluable collection for students and scholars of Asian studies postcolonial studies and anthropology Contributors Charles K Armstrong Tani E Barlow Fred Y L Chiu Chungmoo Choi Alan S Christy Craig Clunas James A Fujii James L Hevia Charles Shiro Inouye Lydia H Liu Miriam Silverberg Tomiyama Ichiro Wang Hui Colours and Contrast Clarence Eng, 2014-11-14 In Colours and Contrast Clarence Eng covers the social history of architectural ceramics in China their development both aesthetically as ornament and technically as durable protective components in ancient Chinese architecture from palaces and temples to pagodas and screen walls Arts of Asia, 2009 Chinese Ceramics in the Baur Collection John Ayers, 1999
