Personal Control In Action Cognitive And Motivational Mechanisms:

Personal Control in Action Mirosław Kofta, Gifford Weary, Grzegorz Sedek, 1998-06-30 This new study presents exciting international research developments on personal control and self regulation Each chapter examines the subject at a different level of analysis to foster a complete understanding Brief synopses of each chapter are provided as introductions to the three major sections of the book These sections cover the person as an agent of control affective and cognitive mechanisms of executive agency and reactions to threatened control Agency, Motivation, and the Life Course Lisa J.

Crockett, 2002-01-01 In what ways do individuals influence the course of their lives How do people construct a unique life path within the opportunities and constraints afforded by their world This volume examines how agency in the life course can be conceptualized and investigates the specific ways in which personal characteristics and contextual variables play a role in shaping individual lives The contributors offer differing perspectives on agency how its expression changes over a lifetime and how it is constrained channeled or altered by cultural and social institutions Each chapter focuses on one aspect of individual agency that can have a cumulative influence on an individual's life Following an overview of the subject by Lisa J Crockett Jochen Brandtstädter and Klaus Rothermund provide a life span model of agency focused on intentional self development and goal accommodation Ellen Skinner and Kathleen Edge discuss the development of coping a potential underpinning of agency In a concluding essay Michael J Shanahan and Glen H Elder Jr examine agency within a life course framework showing that the impact of individual agency on people's lives depends on the opportunities and constraints present during a particular historical era Handbook of Clinical Interviewing With Adults Michel Hersen, Jay C.

Thomas, 2007-08-08 Clinical interviewing with adults is both an art and a science This handbook will appeal to a wide range of clinical researchers therapists interns and graduate students new to the complexities of the clinical interview and diagnostic process The comprehensive range of topics and coverage that includes case illustrations with dialogue and differential diagnosis and comorbidity will be highly attractive features to researchers professional therapists and graduate students The Hersen and Thomas team is highly qualified to succeed in this ambitious set of three projects Carolyn Brodbeck Chapman University The Handbook of Clinical Interviewing with Adults is one of three interrelated handbooks on the topic of interviewing for specific populations It presents a combination of theory and practice plus concern with diagnostic entities for readers who work or one day will work with adults in clinical settings The volume begins with general issues structured versus unstructured interview strategies mental status examinations selection of treatment targets and referrals writing up the intake interview etc moves to a section on major disorders most relevant to adult clients depression bipolar disorder agoraphobia posttraumatic stress disorder eating disorders alcohol and drug abuse sexual dysfunction etc and concludes with a chapter on special populations and issues neurologically impaired patients older adults behavioral health consultation etc Perspectives on Behavioral Self-Regulation Robert S. Wyer, Jr., 2012-12-06 The feedback model of self regulation developed by the authors of the lead article in this volume has been one of the most successful theoretical formulations of regulatory processes to date. The range of phenomena to which this framework potentially applies is evident from its ability to incorporate implications of other conceptualizations as diverse as catastrophe theory and dynamic systems theory. The diversity of issues and approaches dealt with by Carver and Scheier is matched by the companion articles which are written from perspectives ranging across developmental psychology, cognitive science, clinical psychology and organizational decision making as well as mainstream social cognition.

Understanding and Governing Sustainable Tourism Mobility Scott A. Cohen, James E.S. Higham, Gossling Stefan, Paul Peeters, 2014-03-26. Despite a growing contribution to climate change, tourist and traveller behaviour is currently not acknowledged as an important sector within the development of climate policy. Whilst tourists may be increasingly aware of potential impacts on climate change, there is evidence that most are unwilling to modify their actual behaviours. Influencing individual behaviour in tourism and informing effective governance is therefore an essential part of climate change mitigation. This significant volume is the first to explore the psychological and social factors that may contribute to and inhibit sustainable change in the context of tourist and traveller behaviour. It draws on a range of disciplines to offer a critical review of the psychological understandings and behavioural aspects of climate change and tourism mobilities in addition to governance and policies based upon psychological, behavioural and social mechanisms. It therefore provides a more informed understanding of how technology, infrastructure and cost distribution can be developed in order to reach stronger mitigation goals whilst ensuring that resistance from consumers for socio-psychological reasons are minimized. Written by leading academics from a range of disciplinary backgrounds and regions, this ground-breaking volume is essential reading for all those interested in the effective governance of tourism's contribution to climate change now and in the future.

Criminal Belief Systems Glenn D. Walters, 2002-09-30. Walters integrates information from traditional criminological models and findings from developmental psychology to form a system of five belief systems: self view, world view, past view, present view and future view, designed to explain crime initiation and maintenance. While reviewing belief systems that support crime, Walters also offers a model of change through which belief systems incongruent with crime can be constructed. He begins with a review of six traditional criminological models, each of which is considered to possess sufficient breadth and substance to advance our understanding of crime. Information gathered from these major theoretical systems is integrated with research from developmental psychology to create a system of crime-congruent belief systems. The belief systems, along with recent research on attributions, outcome expectancies, efficacy expectancies, values, goals and thinking styles, are then used to construct a general theory of crime and explain four specific categories of crime: violent crime, sexual assault, white collar crime and drug trafficking. Walters concludes with a model of assisted change whereby belief systems incongruent with crime are initiated and maintained with the intent of helping people abandon crime-congruent lifestyles. This change model revolves around four core elements: responsibility, confidence, meaning, community.

each of which is emphasized in a clinician's interactions with clients seeking to abandon crime congruent lifestyles As Walters maintains belief systems are instrumental in both the development and cessation of crime congruent lifestyles Of particular interest to scholars students researchers and practitioners involved with criminology criminal justice and clinical and correctional psychology Mood and Human Performance Andrew Michael Lane, 2007 Situations that are perceived to be personally important typically evoke intense mood states and emotions individuals will try to control mood states and emotions and mood and emotions influence our thoughts and behaviours Providing the sound knowledge base is a driving factor behind a great deal of the ensuing research and forms the content of many of the chapters of this book The book covers many aspects of mood in performance settings Chapters focus on the nature of mood the validity of mood measures and applied research Theoretical issues on the nature of mood and a conceptual model of mood performance relationships in sport is reviewed Chapters include research on relationships between mood and performance motivation coping strategies personality eating attitudes humour and emotional intelligence Mood responses to intense exercise extreme environments aqua massage and interventions to enhance mood are also covered Each chapter provides recommendations for future research

EdPsych Modules Cheryl Cisero Durwin, Marla Reese-Weber, 2020-01-07 EdPsych Modules uses an innovative modular approach and case studies based on real life classroom situations to address the challenge of effectively connecting theory and research to practice Succinct stand alone modules are organized into themed units and offer instructors the flexibility to tailor the book's contents to the needs of their course The units begin with a set of case studies written for early childhood elementary middle and secondary classrooms providing students with direct insight into the dynamics influencing the future students they plan to teach All 25 modules highlight diversity emphasizing how psychological factors adapt and change based on external influences such as sex gender race language disability status and socioeconomic background The Fourth Edition includes over three hundred new references across all 25 modules and expanded coverage of diversity in new diversity related research This title is accompanied by a complete teaching and learning package

Strategy, Money and Technology in the 2008 Presidential Election Costas Panagopoulos, 2014-06-11 The 2008 presidential election perhaps more so than the typical quadrennial race will undoubtedly spawn an abundance of scholarly inquiry The confluence of historic and peculiar features associated with the 2008 contest distinguishes it from modern campaign cycles in significant ways that provide researchers a rare opportunity to reflect on a plethora of topics These studies are certain to provide detailed knowledge about the 2008 election in particular and more generally to inform our understanding of contemporary electoral politics The selections in this volume probe specific facets of the 2008 contest to provide in depth analyses of key developments with respect to strategy money and technology in the election cycle The contributors are keen analysts of American elections and campaigns The insights they provide grapple with key questions about the 2008 election and help to demystify aspects of the historic race This book was published as a special issue of the Journal of Political Marketing

Medical Illuminations Howard Wainer, 2014 Thirteen contemporary medical topics are used to illustrate how modern tools of statistical thinking and statistical graphics can illuminate them The book aims to solve some vexing problems that seem perplexing and make the problems and their solutions clear for the general reader in order to gain a greater understanding of our complex world

Forgas, 2012-11-12 This book offers a comprehensive review and integration of the most recent research and theories on the role of affect in social cognition and features original contributions from leading researchers in the field The applications of this work to areas such as clinical organizational forensic health marketing and advertising psychology receive special emphasis throughout The book is suitable as a core text in advanced courses on the role of affect in social cognition and behavior or as a reference for those interested in the subject

The Psychology of Conspiracy Michal Bilewicz, Aleksandra Cichocka, Wiktor Soral, 2015-05-15 Why did the third World Trade Center building WTC7 collapse on September 11th even though it was not struck by any aircraft Why did Princess Diana's drunk driver look sober as he climbed into the car minutes before their deadly accident Could a slender birch tree really have caused the plane crash which killed the President of Poland in 2010 Conspiracy thinking the search for explanations of significant global events in clandestine plots suppressed knowledge and the secret actions of elite groups provides simple and logical answers to the social doubts and uncertainties that occur at times of major national and international crises Contemporary social psychology seeks to explain the human motivation to create share and receive conspiracy theories and to shed light on the consequences of these theories for people's social and political functioning This important collection written by leading researchers in the field is the first to apply quantitative empirical findings to the subject of conspiracy theorizing The first section of the book explores conspiracy theories in the context of group perception and intergroup relations paying particular attention to anti-Semitic conspiracy stereotypes It then goes on to examine the relationship between an individual's political ideology and the degree to which they engage in conspiracy thinking The concluding part of the book considers the explanatory power of conspiracy focusing on the link between social paranoia and digital media and highlighting the social political and environmental consequences of conspiracy theories The Psychology of Conspiracy will be of great interest to academics and researchers in social and political psychology and a valuable resource to those in the fields of social policy anthropology political science and cultural studies

Breakdown of Will George Ainslie, 2001-03-19 Ainslie argues that our responses to the threat of our own inconsistency determine the basic fabric of human culture He suggests that individuals are more like populations of bargaining agents than like the hierarchical command structures envisaged by cognitive psychologists The forces that create and constrain these populations help us understand so much that is puzzling in human action and interaction from addictions and other self-defeating behaviors to the experience of willfulness from pathological over control and self-deception to subtler forms of behavior such as altruism sadism gambling and the social construction of belief This book integrates approaches from experimental psychology philosophy of mind microeconomics and decision science to present one of the most profound and expert accounts of human irrationality available It will be of great interest to philosophers and an important resource for professionals and students in psychology economics and political science Postmodern Portfolio Theory James Ming Chen, 2016-07-26 This survey of portfolio theory from its modern origins through more sophisticated postmodern incarnations evaluates portfolio risk according to the first four moments of any statistical distribution mean variance skewness and excess kurtosis In pursuit of financial models that more accurately describe abnormal markets and investor psychology this book bifurcates beta on either side of mean returns It then evaluates this traditional risk measure according to its relative volatility and correlation components After specifying a four moment capital asset pricing model this book devotes special attention to measures of market risk in global banking regulation Despite the deficiencies of modern portfolio theory contemporary finance continues to rest on mean variance optimization and the two moment capital asset pricing model The term postmodern portfolio theory captures many of the advances in financial learning since the original articulation of modern portfolio theory A comprehensive approach to financial risk management must address all aspects of portfolio theory from the beautiful symmetries of modern portfolio theory to the disturbing behavioral insights and the vastly expanded mathematical arsenal of the postmodern critique Mastery of postmodern portfolio theory's quantitative tools and behavioral insights holds the key to the efficient frontier of risk management Learning for sustainability in times of accelerating change Arjen E.J. Wals, Peter Blaze Corcoran, 2023-09-04 We live in turbulent times our world is changing at accelerating speed Information is everywhere but wisdom appears in short supply when trying to address key inter related challenges of our time such as runaway climate change the loss of biodiversity the depletion of natural resources the on going homogenization of culture and rising inequity Living in such times has implications for education and learning This book explores the possibilities of designing and facilitating learning based change and transitions towards sustainability In 31 chapters contributors from across the world discuss re emerging forms of learning that not only assist in breaking down unsustainable routines forms of governance production and consumption but also can help create ones that are more sustainable The book has been divided into three parts re orienting science and society re connecting people and planet and re imagining education and learning This is essential reading for educators educational designers change agents researchers students policymakers and entrepreneurs alike who are concerned about the well being of the planet and convinced of our ability to do better The content and related issues can be discussed on the blog by editor Arjen Wals Transformative learning We are living in times of incertitude complexity and contestation but also of connectivity responsibility and new opportunities This book analyses the consequences of these times for learning in formal non formal and informal education It explores the possibilities offered by the concept of sustainability as a central category of a holistic paradigm which harmonizes human beings with Earth To change people and to change the world are interdependent processes this book contributes to both

Moacir Gadotti Director of Paulo Freire Institute S o Paulo Brazil I hope you share my excitement about the innovations for sustainability that this book catalogues and analyses While the ecological news is grim the human news is not Even in a time of accelerating change people are showing their enormous capacities to learn adapt restore and protect From the Foreword by Juliet Schor author of True Wealth how and why millions of Americans are creating a time rich ecologically light small scale high satisfaction economy This book implies a culture of critical commitment in educational thinking and practice engaged enough to make a real difference to social ecological resilience and sustainability but reflexively critical enough to learn constantly from experience and to keep options open in working for a sustainability transformation From the Afterword by Stephen Sterling Professor of Sustainability Education Centre for Sustainable Futures Plymouth University United Kingdom
