Rise Of A Refugee God Hong Kongs Wong Tai Sin:

The Rise of a Refugee God Graeme Lang, Lars Ragvald, 1993-01-01 In this case study Lang describes how plagues war revolutions and industrialization affected the worship of the Chinese god Wong Tai Sin and why after his cult was extinguished within China in the 1960s Wong Tai Sin became hugely successful in Hong Kong Originally a healing god he has now become a generalist and is consulted by anxious urbanites about love careers and emigration Hong Kong

Michael Ingham, 2007-06-18 Hong Kong has always been something of an anomaly and an outpost of empire whether British or Chinese Once described as a barren island the former fishing community has been transformed by its own economic miracle into one of Asia's World Cities taking in its stride the territory's 1997 return to Chinese sovereignty Beneath the surface of Hong Kong's clichéd self image as Pearl of the Orient and Shopping Paradise Michael Ingham reveals a city rich in history myth and cultural diversity Early Chinese Religion, Part Two: The Period of Division (220-589 AD) (2 vols.) John Lagerwey, Pengzhi Lü, 2009-11-23 After the Warring States treated in Part One of this set there is no more fecund era in Chinese religious and cultural history than the period of division 220-589 AD During it Buddhism conquered China Daoism grew into a mature religion with independent institutions and together with Confucianism these three teachings having each won its share of state recognition and support formed a united front against shamanism While all four religions are covered Buddhism and Daoism receive special attention in a series of parallel chapters on their pantheons rituals sacred geography community organization canon formation impact on literature and recent archaeological discoveries This multi disciplinary approach without ignoring philosophical and theological issues brings into sharp focus the social and historical matrices of Chinese religion Early Chinese Religion John Lagerwey, Pengzhi Lü, 2009-10-30 After the Warring States treated in Part One of this set there is no more fecund era in Chinese religious and cultural history than the period of division 220-589 AD During it Buddhism conquered China Daoism grew into a mature religion with independent institutions and together with Confucianism these three teachings having each won its share of state recognition and support formed a united front against shamanism While all four religions are covered Buddhism and Daoism receive special attention in a series of parallel chapters on their pantheons rituals sacred geography community organization canon formation impact on literature and recent archaeological discoveries This multi disciplinary approach without ignoring philosophical and theological issues brings into sharp focus the social and historical matrices of Chinese religion Confucianism and Spiritual Traditions in Modern China and Beyond Fenggang Yang, Joseph Tamney, 2011-11-11 Confucianism is reviving in China and spreading in America This multidisciplinary volume includes philosophical and theological articulations of Confucianism and other spiritual traditions for the modern and globalizing world and empirical studies of and analytical reflections on Confucianism and other traditions in Chinese societies by historians sociologists and anthropologists Building Temples in China Selina Ching Chan, Graeme Lang, 2014-11-27 Much has been written on how temples are constructed or reconstructed for reviving local religious and communal life or for recycling tradition after the market reforms in China. The dynamics between the state and society that lie behind the revival of temples and religious practices initiated by the locals have been well analysed. However, there is a gap in the literature when it comes to understanding religious revivals that were instead led by local governments. This book examines the revival of worship of the Chinese Deity Huang Daxian and the building of many new temples to the god in mainland China over the last 20 years. It analyses the role of local governments in initiating temple construction projects in China and how development-oriented temple building activities in Mainland China reveal the forces of transnational ties, capital markets and identities as temples were built with the hope of developing tourism, boosting the local economy and enhancing Chinese identities for Hong Kong worshippers and Taiwanese in response to the reunification of Hong Kong to China. Including chapters on local religious memory, awakening pilgrimage as a form of tourism, women temple managers, entrepreneurialism and the religious economy and based on extensive fieldwork, Chan and Lang have produced a truly interdisciplinary follow-up to The Rise of a Refugee God which will appeal to students and scholars of Chinese religion, Chinese culture, Asian anthropology, cultural heritage and Daoism alike.

Economic Development, Integration, and Morality in Asia and the Americas Donald C. Wood, 2009-04-09 Explores economic development, integration and morality in economic transactions in Asia and the Americas. This title includes chapters that look at underground gambling behavior in China in light of that country's economic boom and retail store expansion and local socioeconomic effects in rural Mexico.

The Religious Question in Modern China Vincent Goossaert, David A. Palmer, 2011-03-15 Recent events from strife in Tibet and the rapid growth of Christianity in China to the spectacular expansion of Chinese Buddhist organizations around the globe vividly demonstrate that one cannot understand the modern Chinese world without attending closely to the question of religion. The Religious Question in Modern China highlights parallels and contrasts between historical events, political regimes and cultural movements to explore how religion has challenged and responded to secular Chinese modernity from 1898 to the present. Vincent Goossaert and David A. Palmer piece together the puzzle of religion in China not by looking separately at different religions in different contexts but by writing a unified story of how religion has shaped and in turn been shaped by modern Chinese society. From Chinese medicine and the martial arts to communal temple cults and revivalist redemptive societies, the authors demonstrate that from the nineteenth century onward, as the Chinese state shifted the religious landscape, consistently resurfaced in a bewildering variety of old and new forms. The Religious Question in Modern China integrates historical, anthropological and sociological perspectives in a comprehensive overview of China's religious history that is certain to become an indispensable reference for specialists and students alike.

The Transformation of Yiguan Dao in Taiwan Yunfeng Lu, 2008-02-25 The most influential sect in the Chinese mainland in the 1940s, Yiguan Dao was largely destroyed in mainland China in 1953. Yiguan Dao not only survived, however, but developed into the largest sect in Taiwan despite its suppression by the Kuomintang state. In 1987, through relentless efforts, the sect finally gained legal status in Taiwan Today Yiguan Dao not only thrives in Chinese societies but has also become a world wide religion which has spread to more than sixty countries This book based on fieldwork conducted in 2002 in Taiwan is the first English language scholarly study exclusively focusing on Yiguan Dao Lu includes a history of Yiguan Dao in mainland China but focuses on the sect s evolution in Taiwan in the past few decades Specifically he probes the operation of Yiguan Dao under suppression in the past twenty years and examines the relationship between Yiguan Dao and its rivals in Taiwan s religious market The Transformation of Yiguan Dao in Taiwan develops the religious economy model by extending it to Chinese societies

Asian Food Katarzyna J. Cwierka, Boudewijn C. A. Walraven, 2013-01-11 By documenting analysing and interpreting the transformations in the local diets of Asian peoples within the last hundred years this volume pinpoints the consequences of the tension between homogenisation and cultural heterogenisation which is so characteristic for today s global interaction
