Royal Marine Commando:

Wearing the Green Beret Jake Olafsen, 2012-01-17 With the authenticity of Jarhead and Bravo Two Zero and the straight up narrative of Contact Charlie this military memoir describes what really goes on in the training of an elite soldier and his tours in Afghanistan In 2004 Jake Olafsen signed up for the Royal Marines Commandos He left everything behind at home in Canada on the basis of a spur of the moment decision The Royal Marines have the toughest and longest basic training of any infantry unit in the world For Olafsen this meant eight months of wet and cold in England and Wales It was hell but he came out with the four Commando qualities that the corps look for courage determination unselfishness cheerfulness in the face of adversity Olafsen went on to serve for four years as a Commando in the Royal Marines an elite military unit based in the United Kingdom He went to Afghanistan twice in 2006 he went to confront the Taliban in Helmand Province for six months and in 2007 he was sent to do it all over again His story is filled with good experiences like the sense of accomplishment patriotism and camaraderie and the opportunity to travel the world But all good things come at a price The sacrifices he made for the Corps are significant he has killed the enemy and he has buried his friends And in telling his story Olafsen hopes that he can make sense of it all This is an honest gutsy story about the mud and the blood the triumphs and the tragedies From the Hardcover edition How 2 Become a Royal Marines Commando Richard McMunn, 2010-03 The Royal Marines pride themselves on their professionalism teamwork and the desire to succeed This insider's guide has been created in conjunction with current serving Royal Marines recruitment staff and is designed to show you how to successfully pass the Commando selection process 47 Royal Marine Commando Marc de Bolster, 2014-09 47 Royal Marine Commando An Inside Story 1943 1946 tells the story of 47 Royal Marine Commando during the Second World War based on personal accounts written by veterans who served in this formidable unit It is a story of young men who were to play a key role in freeing Europe from Nazi tyranny From the D Day landings in Normandy to fierce battles in Holland some were taken prisoner by the enemy and sent to camps until freed at the end of the war in 1945 Included are eyewitness accounts of the Normandy landings involvement of the RAF Royal Navy and American forces 10 Inter Allied Commando and the effect on local populations who got word of the actions in which this Commando took a major part Formed from 10th Battalion Royal Marines and reinforced by volunteers from several parts of the British armed forces they distinguished themselves by sheer determination and professionalism Over 900 men served in or were attached to this Commando keeping their overall strength up to 420 Many gave their lives never to return home so others might live to tell their story We Died With Our Boots Clean Kenneth McAlpine, 2010-12-26 At the age of seventeen Kenneth McAlpine ran away from the Repton school to join Churchill's new elite special force the Royal Marine Commandos As the youngest member of the youngest commando force after three months he found himself fighting on the beaches of Normandy In We Died With Our Boots Clean McAlpine tells his own unique story of World War II and his highly eventful military career From an unusual encounter with

Montgomery and Patton a concerted attempt to kill a sergeant major and his best friend's arrest for swearing at the Queen of Holland McAlpine paints a fascinating picture of commando life and the harsh training that prepared soldiers for frontline combat in an elite unit Full of absorbing anecdotes such as his time in a military prison and a rescue operation at a concentration camp this book is an essential part of a World War II enthusiast's library Decoding a Royal Marine

Commando Mark Burchell, 2018-10-25 With a heritage dating back to the mid seventeenth century the Royal Marines have accrued a rich history of rituals artefacts and material culture that is consciously deployed in order to define and shape the institution both historically and going forward into an uncertain future Drawing upon this heritage Mark Burchell offers a unique method of understanding how the Royal Marines draw upon this material culture in order to help transform ordinary labour power to political agency comprising acts of controlled and sustained violence He demonstrates how a barrage of objects and items including uniforms weapons landscapes architecture personal kit drills rituals and iconography are deployed in order successfully to integrate the recruits into the Royal Marines culture It is argued that this material culture is a vital tool with which to imprint the military's own image on new recruits as they embark on a process of de-individualisation Having been granted unprecedented access to the Commando Training Centre at Lympstone as an anthropologist Burchell observed an intake of recruits throughout their demanding and exhausting year long training programme The resulting book presents to the academic community for the first time a theorised in depth account of a relatively unexplored social community and how its material culture creates and reifies new military identities This path breaking interdisciplinary analysis provides fresh understanding of the multiple processes of military enculturation through a meticulous revision of the relationships that exist between disciplinary and punishment practices violence and masculinity narratives and personhood and will explore how these issues are understood by recruits through their practical application of body to physical labour and by the cues of their surrounding material culture By Sea and Land Robin

Neillands, 2004-03-01 This is the story of a fighting force In the words of the marines themselves Robin Neillands formerly of 45 Commando RM describes what it is really like to wear the legendary green beret in peace and in war This vivid account charts the story of the Royal Marine Commandos from their bloody baptism on the beaches of Dieppe to the final yomp into Stanley at the end of the Falklands War in 1982 Decoding a Royal Marine Commando Mark A. occupation in Germany During the whole of this period it was in almost continuous contact with the enemy It is surprising then that the story of 48 RM Commando has not been made available to a wider audience Apart from a small booklet written by one of its veterans and published in 1946 it has never been the subject of a complete history of its own Based on eyewitness accounts official unit war diaries and published and unpublished sources and supported by a selection of maps line drawings and archive photographs this is a gripping and authoritative history of an elite formation Becoming The 0.1% Gareth Timmins, 2021-08-26 Historical recruitment campaigns to become a Royal Marines Commando drew on a harrowing but intriguing narrative 99.9% Need Not Apply In 2005 only one in a thousand applications for the Royal Marines were successful in reaching the end of training earning the Coveted Green Beret a world renowned symbol of excellence Becoming the 0.1% is the first ever diary account of this training regime charting the odds stacked journey of Gareth Timmins a 20 year old recruit at the time and providing a psychological framework for understanding how he was able to cultivate the mental strength and resilience needed to push through to success Each week of training is accompanied by lessons on his shortcomings and growth to peak performance It uses real life and often terrifying experiences to describe to the reader the edge you need to cultivate a 0.1% mindset and succeed in life and work by learning how to Visualise achievements Combat fatigue and burnout Stay motivated by not losing sight of the end goal Eradicate complacency and achieve mastery Redefine expectation and regulate disappointment Live without convenience Thrive under pressure Break down self imposed limitations Be held accountable to others Marine Commando Raymond Mitchell, 1988
