LeRon Shults,Steven J. Sandage,2003-05-01 While forgiveness has historically been regarded as a religious concern it has also become a popular topic in contemporary psychology Unfortunately there has been little effort to combine a Christian understanding of forgiveness with psychology The Faces of Forgiveness winner of the Narramore Award from the Christian Association for Psychological Studies steps in to fill this void The authors fuse Christian forgiveness and psychology with the unifying motif of the face thereby building on the considerable psychological research linking emotions related to forgiveness with the human face At a deeper level the face can serve as a metaphor for integrating forgiveness wholeness and salvation The authors argue that forgiveness should take a central role in our understanding of salvation because it is warranted by the Bible and engages our postmodern context Pastors psychologists family counselors and students of psychology and theology will find The Faces of Forgiveness a helpful resource Crisis Intervention in Child Abuse and Neglect Charles E. Making Sense of Self-Esteem Mary Jane Warr, Payback David P. Barash, Judith Eve Lipton, 2011-02-01 From the child taunted by her playmates to the office worker who feels stifled in his daily routine people frequently take out their pain and anger on others even those who had nothing to do with the original stress The bullied child may kick her puppy the stifled worker yells at his children Payback can be directed anywhere sometimes at inanimate things animals or other people In Payback the husband and wife team of evolutionary biologist David Barash and psychiatrist Judith Lipton offer an illuminating look at this phenomenon showing how it has evolved why it occurs and what we can do about it Retaliation and revenge are well known to most people We all know what it is like to want to get even get justice or take revenge What is new in this book is an extended discussion of redirected aggression which occurs not only in people but other species as well The authors reveal that it is not just a matter of yelling at your spouse because your boss yells at you Indeed the phenomenon of redirected aggression so called to differentiate it from retaliation and revenge the other main forms of payback haunts our criminal courts our streets our battlefields our homes and our hearts It lurks behind some of the nastiest and seemingly inexplicable things that otherwise decent people do from road rage to yelling at a crying baby And it exists across boundaries of every kind culture time geography and even species Indeed it is not just a human phenomenon Passing pain to others can be seen in birds and horses fish and primates in virtually all vertebrates It turns out that there is robust neurobiological hardware and software promoting redirected aggression as well as evolutionary underpinnings Payback may be natural the authors conclude but we are capable of rising above it without sacrificing self esteem and social status They show how the various human responses to pain and suffering can be managed mindfully carefully and humanely Scapegoats for a
