Making a Massacre Tom Reilly, 2024-06-28 If history were music then the genre of this book would be punk For nearly 400 years it has been widely accepted that Oliver Cromwell committed civilian atrocities at Drogheda and Wexford in 1649 thus adversely infecting Anglo Irish relations for that entire period As well as other events in Irish history Cromwell in Ireland has often been weaponised in the North of Ireland Still today emotions about this topic run very deep Imagine for a moment that Cromwell is completely innocent of these charges of genocide the overwhelming verdict of history thus far Imagine also a scenario in which this anomaly in the teaching of Irish history were discovered by a non historian an amateur who failed second level history This is that story This is an accurate and sideways account of one man's lone battle to overturn this miscarriage of historical justice two middle fingers to mainstream academia Most significantly this is the story of the pushback the author has encountered from academics in general who have closed ranks in their reluctance to embrace incontrovertible facts This is the uncomfortable truth that challenges Ireland's role of the ultimate victim of the seventeenth century's conflicts and how this historical period has been and still is profoundly abused to suit the Saorst Éireann narrative

Hollywood's Censor Thomas Doherty, 2009-03-31 From 1934 to 1954 Joseph I Breen a media savvy Victorian Irishman reigned over the Production Code Administration the Hollywood office tasked with censoring the American screen Though little known outside the ranks of the studio system this former journalist and public relations agent was one of the most powerful men in the motion picture industry As enforcer of the puritanical Production Code Breen dictated final cut over more movies than anyone in the history of American cinema His editorial decisions profoundly influenced the images and values projected by Hollywood during the Great Depression World War II and the Cold War Cultural historian Thomas Doherty tells the absorbing story of Breen's ascent to power and the widespread effects of his reign Breen vetted story lines blue penciled dialogue and excised footage a process that came to be known as Breening to fit the demands of his strict moral framework Empowered by industry insiders and millions of like minded Catholics who supported his missionary zeal Breen strove to protect innocent souls from the temptations beckoning from the motion picture screen There were few elements of cinematic production beyond Breen's reach he oversaw the editing of A list feature films low budget B movies short subjects previews of coming attractions and even cartoons Populated by a colorful cast of characters including Catholic priests Jewish moguls visionary auteurs hardnosed journalists and bluenose agitators Doherty's insightful behind the scenes portrait brings a tumultuous era and an individual both feared and admired to vivid life

Cinema and Language Loss Tijana Mamula, 2013 Cinema and Language Loss provides the first sustained exploration of the relationship between linguistic displacement and visuality in the filmic realm examining in depth both its formal expressions and theoretical implications Combining insights from psychoanalysis philosophy and film theory the author argues that the move from one linguistic environment to another profoundly destabilizes the subject's relation to both language and reality resulting in the search for a substitute for language in vision itself a reversal as it were of speaking into seeing The dynamics of this shift are particularly evident in the works of many displaced filmmakers which often manifest a conflicted interaction between language and vision and through this question the signifying potential and the perceptual ambiguities of cinema itself In tracing the encounter between cinema and language loss across a wide range of films from Billy Wilder's Sunset Boulevard to Chantal Akerman's News from Home to Michael Haneke's Caché Mamula reevaluates the role of displacement in postwar Western film and makes an original contribution to film theory and philosophy based on a reconsideration of the place of language in our experience and understanding of cinema

The Scandal of Adaptation Thomas Leitch, 2023-04-21 The essays in this volume seek to expose the scandals of adaptation Some of them focus on specific adaptations that have been considered scandalous because they portray characters acting in ways that give scandal because they are thought to betray the values enshrined in the texts they adapt because their composition or reception raises scandalous possibilities those adapted texts had repressed or because they challenge their audiences in ways those texts had never thought to do Others consider more general questions arising from the proposition that all adaptation is a scandalous practice that confronts audiences with provocative questions about bowdlerizing ethics censorship contagion screenwriting and history The collection offers a challenge to the continued marginalization of adaptations and adaptation studies and an invitation to change their position by embracing rather than downplaying their ability to scandalize the institutions they affront

Gunning, 2019-07-25 In this volume Tom Gunning examines the films of Fritz Lang not only as a stylistically coherent body of work but as an attempt to portray the modern world through cinema The world of modernity in which systems replace individuals is conveyed by Lang's mastery of cinematic set design composition and editing. Lang presents not only a decades-long vision of cinematic narrative which can be compared to that of Alfred Hitchcock or Jean Renoir but a view of modernity that relates strongly to the ideas of Adorno, Brecht, Benjamin and Kracauer. From the sweeping allegorical films of the 20s to the chilly and abstract thrillers of the 50s, Lang's films Gunning claims are among the most precious records of the twentieth century. The Films of Fritz Lang immeasurably enriches our understanding of a great artist and in so doing reimagines what a film artist is: an author who fades away even in being recognised and interpreted, an enigmatic figure at the junction of aesthetics, history, biography and theory.

Running Scared Peter Lehman, 2007 Investigates the patriarchal culture that keeps the male body and especially male genitals out of sight. This book examines representations of the male body and male sexuality in a variety of settings and through many different lenses. It is useful for scholars of film studies, cultural studies and gender studies and general readers.

Driven to Darkness Vincent Brook, 2009-09-18 From its earliest days the American film industry has attracted European artists. With the rise of Hitler, filmmakers of conscience in Germany and other countries, particularly those of Jewish origin, found it difficult to survive and fled for their work and their lives to the United States. Some had trouble adapting to Hollywood but many were celebrated for their cinematic contributions, especially to the dark shadows of film noir. Driven to Darkness explores the influence of Jewish émigré directors and the development of this genre. While filmmakers such as Fritz Lang, Billy Wilder, Otto Preminger and Edward G. Ulmer have been acknowledged as crucial to the noir canon, the impact of their Jewishness on their work has remained largely unexamined until now. Through lively and original analyses of key films, Vincent Brook penetrates the darkness, shedding new light on this popular film form and the artists who helped create it.

Out of the Shadows Gene D. Phillips, 2012 Out of the Shadows explores the most celebrated examples of film noir such as Laura, The Maltese Falcon and Sunset Boulevard but also offers new insight into underrated films that deserve reconsideration including Spellbound, A Double Life.

Blackout Sheri Chinen Biesen, 2005-11-11 Sheri Chinen Biesen challenges conventional thinking on the origins of film noir and finds the genre's roots in the political, social and historical conditions of Hollywood during the Second World War.

The Hidden Cinema Dr James C. Robertson, James Robertson, 2005-08-02 How does film censorship work in Britain? Robertson examines the history of the British Board of Film Censors and shows that censorship has had a greater influence on film history than is often assumed.

Noir, Now and Then Ronald Schwartz, 2001-06-30 This examination of the cinematic style of film noir originals and their neo-noir remakes compares thirty-five films beginning with Billy Wilder's classic Double Indemnity and concluding with Jim McBride's Breathless. In-depth analysis of the films explains the qualities and characteristics of film noir while providing critical readings of both the originals and the remakes. The most significant films since 1944 are reviewed and reveal the ever-changing values in American society. As this study reveals, the noir style significantly impacted American film and neo-noir remakes attest to its continued popularity in cinematic art. This work will appeal to film scholars and to fans of film noir.

Fatalism in American Film Noir Robert B. Pippin, 2012-02-22 The crime melodramas of the 1940s known now as film noir shared many formal and thematic elements from unusual camera angles and lighting to moral ambiguity and femmes fatales In this book Robert Pippin argues that many of these films also raise distinctly philosophical questions Where most Hollywood films of that era featured reflective individuals living with purpose taking action and effecting desired consequences the typical noir protagonist deliberates and plans only to be confronted by the irrelevance of such deliberation and by results that contrast sharply often tragically with his or her intentions or true commitments Pippin shows how this terrible disconnect sheds light on one of the central issues in modern philosophy the nature of human agency How do we distinguish what people do from what merely happens to them Looking at several film noirs including close readings of three classics of the genre Fritz Lang's Scarlet Street Orson Welles's The Lady from Shanghai and Jacques Tourneur's Out of the Past Pippin reveals the ways in which these works explore the declining credibility of individuals as causal centers of agency and how we live with the acknowledgment of such limitations
