through the book therefore is an astonishing variety of ordinary contemporary voices eloquently and passionately evincing the country's remarkable spirit. Judy Haines, a Chingford housewife, gamely endures the tribulations of rationing. Mary King, a retired schoolteacher in Birmingham, observes how well fed the Queen looks during a royal visit. Henry St John, a persnickety civil servant in Bristol, is oblivious to anyone's troubles but his own. Together they present a portrait of an indomitable people, and Kynaston skillfully links their stories to bigger events that shaped the country. Their stories also jostle alongside those of more well-known figures like celebrated journalist John Arlott making his first radio broadcast, Glenda Jackson and Doris Lessing newly arrived from Africa and struck by the leveling poverty of post-war Britain. Kynaston deftly weaves into his story a sophisticated narrative of how the 1945 Labour government shaped the political, economic and social landscape for the next three decades.

The Oxford Companion to English Literature Dinah Birch, 2009-09-24

The Oxford Companion to English Literature has long been established as the leading reference resource for students, teachers, scholars and general readers of English literature. It provides unrivalled coverage of all aspects of English literature from writers, their works and the historical and cultural context in which they wrote to critics, literary theory and allusions. For the seventh edition, the Companion has been thoroughly revised and updated to meet the needs and concerns of today's students and general readers. Over 1,000 new entries have been added, ranging from new writers (Chimamanda Ngozi Adichie, Patrick Marber, David Mitchell, Arundhati Roy) to increased coverage of writers and literary movements from around the world. Coverage of American literature has been substantially increased with new entries on writers such as Cormac McCarthy and Amy Tan, and on movements and publications. Contextual and historical coverage has also been expanded with new entries on European history and culture, post-colonial literature as well as writers and literary movements from around the world that have influenced English literature. The Companion has always been a quick and dependable source of reference for students, and the new edition confirms its pre-eminent role as the go-to resource of first choice. All entries have been reviewed and details of new works, biographies and criticism have been brought right up to date. So also has coverage of the themes, approaches and concepts encountered by students today, from terms to articles on literary theory and theorists. There is increased coverage of writers from around the world as well as from Ireland, Scotland and Wales, and of contextual topics including film and television, music and art. Cross-referencing has been thoroughly updated with stronger linking from writers to thematic and conceptual entries. Meanwhile, coverage of popular genres such as children's literature, science fiction, biography, reportage, crime fiction, fantasy or travel literature has been increased substantially with new entries on writers from Philip Pullman to Anne Frank and from Anais Nin to Douglas Adams. The seventh edition of this classic Companion, now under the editorship of Dinah Birch, assisted by a team of 28 distinguished associate editors and over 150 contributors, ensures that it retains its status as the most authoritative, informative and accessible guide to literature available.
