Literary Legacies, Folklore Foundations Karen E. Beardslee, 2001 In this provocative study of eight novels Karen E Beardslee asserts that American writers often engage with folk traditions as a necessary part of their characters' journeys to wholeness Focusing not only on African American Native American and Hispanic American cultures but also on women's culture Beardslee traces the connections between folk legacies and the search for selfhood in both nineteenth and twentieth century works Within each chapter a novel by a contemporary author and one from an earlier period are brought together Whitney Otto's How to Make an American Quilt and Harriet Beecher Stowe's The Minister's Wooing, David Bradley's The Chaneyville Incident and Charles Chesnutt's The Conjure Woman, Leslie Marmon Silko's Ceremony and Zitkala-Sa's American Indian Stories and Roberta Fernandez's Intaglio and Maria Cristina Mena's The Birth of the God of War. These pairings are not based on matters of intertextuality or influence but are chosen according to the folk groups to which the novels' characters belong. This strategy enables Beardslee to trace the particular legacies that inform the work of the twentieth-century authors. As Beardslee notes, contemporary texts and the critical commentary on them have focused until fairly recently on the search for self in male, usually white characters. Such works have also positioned that search outside the character's family or community and have usually emphasized its futility. With the growing shift toward multiculturalism in fiction, however, folk traditions have come to play an increasingly crucial role in characters' journeys to self-awareness as well as in the success of those journeys. Thoroughly researched and cogently argued, this book makes a significant contribution to the study of both folklore and literature as it explores the relationship between knowing one's cultural heritage and achieving a sense of self that is whole instead of fragmented, connected instead of drifting. The Author: Karen E. Beardslee teaches in the Department of Language and Literature at Burlington County College in Pemberton, New Jersey. Her articles have appeared in MELUS, The Encyclopedia of Folklore and Literature, and the Zora Neale Hurston Forum.

Louisiana Creole Literature Catharine Savage Brosman, 2013-10-17 Louisiana Creole Literature is a broad-ranging critical reading of belles lettres in both French and English, connected to and generally produced by the distinctive Louisiana Creole peoples, chiefly in the southeastern part of the state. The book covers primarily the nineteenth and twentieth centuries, the flourishing period during which the term Creole had broad and contested cultural reference in Louisiana. The study consists in part of literary history and biography. When available and appropriate, each discussion, arranged chronologically, provides pertinent personal information on authors as well as publishing facts. Readers will find also summaries and evaluation of key texts, some virtually unknown, others of difficult access. Brosman illuminates the biographies and works of Kate Chopin, Lafcadio Hearn, George Washington Cable, Grace King, and Adolphe Duhart, among others. In addition, she challenges views that appear to be skewed regarding canon formation. The book places emphasis on poetry and fiction, reaching from early nineteenth-century writing through the twentieth century to selected works by poets still writing in the early twenty-first century. A few plays are treated also, especially by Victor Séjour. Louisiana Creole Literature examines at length the writings of important Francophone figures, and certain Anglophone novelists likewise receive extended treatment. Since much of nineteenth-century Louisiana literature was transnational, the book considers Creole-based works which appeared in Paris as well as those published locally.

Transnationalism and American Serial Fiction Patricia Okker, 2012-06-12 Transnationalism and American Serial Fiction explores the vibrant tradition of serial fiction published in U.S. minority periodicals. Beloved by readers, these serial novels helped sustain the periodicals and communities in which they circulated. With essays on serial fiction published from the 1820s through the 1960s written in ten different languages English French Spanish German Swedish Italian Polish Norwegian Yiddish and Chinese this collection reflects the rich multilingual history of American literature and periodicals One of this book's central claims is that this serial fiction was produced and read within an intensely transnational context the periodicals often circulated widely the narratives themselves favored transnational plots and themes and the contents surrounding the fiction encouraged readers to identify with a community dispersed throughout the United States and often the world Thus Okker focuses on the circulation of ideas periodicals literary conventions and people across various borders focusing particularly on the ways that this fiction reflects the larger transnational realities of these minority communities
