Emma's Postcard Album Faith Mitchell,2022-12-21 BCALA 2023 Outstanding Contribution to Publishing Citation Award winner The turn of the twentieth century was an extraordinarily difficult period for African Americans a time of unchecked lynchings mob attacks and rampant Jim Crow segregation During these bleak years Emma Crawford a young African American woman living in Pennsylvania corresponded by postcard with friends and family members and collected the cards she received from all over the country Her album spanning from 1906 to 1910 and analyzed in Emma s Postcard Album becomes an entry point into a deeply textured understanding of the nuances and complexities of African American lives and the survival strategies that enabled people to make a way from no way As snippets of lived experience eye catching visual images and reflections of historical moments the cards in the collection become sources for understanding not only African American life but also broader American history and culture In Emma s Postcard Album Faith Mitchell innovatively places the contents of this postcard collection into specific historic and biographical contexts and provides a new interpretation of postcards as life writings a much neglected aspect of scholarship Through these techniques a riveting world that is far too little known is revealed and new insights are gained into the perspectives and experience of African Americans Capping off these contributions the text is a visual feast illustrated with arresting images from the Golden Age of postcards as well as newspaper clippings and other archival material and essential Matthew Desmond work that will forever change how we look at life after prison in America through Miller's stunning and deeply painful reckoning with our nation's carceral system Heather Ann Thompson Each year more than half a million Americans are released from prison and join a population of twenty million people who live with a felony record Reuben Miller a chaplain at the Cook County Jail in Chicago and now a sociologist studying mass incarceration spent years alongside prisoners ex-prisoners their friends and their families to understand the lifelong burden that even a single arrest can entail What his work revealed is a simple if overlooked truth life after incarceration is its own form of prison The idea that one can serve their debt and return to life as a full-fledged member of society is one of America's most nefarious myths Recently released individuals are faced with jobs that are off-limits apartments that cannot be occupied and votes that cannot be cast As The Color of Law exposed about our understanding of housing segregation Halfway Home shows that the American justice system was not created to rehabilitate Parole is structured to keep classes of Americans impoverished unstable and disenfranchised long after they've paid their debt to society Informed by Miller's experience as the son and brother of incarcerated men captures the stories of the men women and communities fighting against a system that is designed for them to fail It is a poignant and eye-opening call to arms that reveals how laws rules and regulations extract a tangible cost not only from those working to rebuild their lives but also our democracy As Miller searchingly explores America must acknowledge and value the lives of its formerly imprisoned citizens PEN America 2022 John Kenneth Galbraith Award for Nonfiction Finalist Winner of the 2022 PROSE Award for Excellence in Social Sciences 2022 PROSE Awards Finalist 2022 PROSE Awards Category Winner for Cultural Anthropology and Sociology An NPR Selected 2021 Books We Love As heard on NPR's Fresh Air Introductory Book of the Sciences James Nicol, 1844 The Polar and Tropical Worlds Georg Hartwig, 1876 Tectonics, Climate, and Landscape Evolution Sean D. Willett, 2006-01-01 The Liwu River runs a short course its channel head at the water divide in Taiwan's Central Range is a mere 35 km from its outflow into the Pacific Ocean But in those short 35 km the Liwu has carved one of the world's geographic wonders the spectacular Taroko Gorge with marble and granite walls soaring nearly 1000 m above the river channel Taroko Gorge was a fitting venue for a 2003 Penrose Conference that addressed the coupled processes of tectonics climate and landscape evolution The young mountains extreme weather and dramatic landforms provided an appropriate backdrop to wide-ranging discussions of geomorphic processes climate and meteorology sediment generation and transport the effects of erosion on tectonics and new analytical and modeling tools used to address these processes and problems This volume's papers extend that discussion reaching across fields that have experienced rapid advances in the past decade Publisher's website A View of the River Luna Bergere Leopold, 2005 With the Midwest under water America had a chance to see how effectively it had improved its rivers We've straightened and dredged them revetted and rerouted them made massive efforts to control them yet our actions have been less than successful Too often physical changes made to a river conflict with natural processes resulting in damage rather than alleviating it Applying available knowledge on how rivers form and act could prevent such problems Luna B Leopold seeks to organize such knowledge Widely regarded as the most creative scholar in the field of river morphology Leopold presents a coherent description of the river its shape size organization and action along with a consistent theory that explains much of the observed character of channels The laws of physics that govern rivers allow for variations many of them dictated by random chance Thus a river s adaptation as Leopold describes it tends toward the most probable form the one with the least variance among hydraulic parameters We see how this probabilistic tendency plays out as Leopold views the river as a whole from headwater to mouth in the drainage net in the behavior of meanders and in aspects of sediment transport Grounded in hydraulics geomorphology and surveying as well as in extensive fieldwork on rivers in the eastern and Rocky Mountain states Leopold s view of a river is at once technical and personal providing both a firm foundation for understanding the behavior of rivers including instructions for getting started in backyard hydrology and a wealth of firsthand observations by a thoughtful and experienced scientist It will be of immediate interest and great use as we seek to develop preserve and appreciate our most fluid natural resource "The" Fortnightly Review ,1866 The Fortnightly ,1866 Global Health Disparities Enku Kebede-Francis,2011 Health Sciences Professions
