Gail Anderson

Many Voices, Many Opportunities Clement Alexander Price, 1994 What is American culture In Many Voices Many Opportunities Clement Alexander Price Professor of American and Afro American history at Rutgers University provides a fresh historical fair minded view of this hotly argued question Focusing on arts policy one of the primary battlegrounds of the multiculturalism controversy Many Voices Many Opportunities convinces us that the swirling debate about the history of American culture and its present character is quite unlike anything in American life since the early years of the civil rights movement Many Voices Many Opportunities traces the ideas of cultural pluralism back to the nineteenth and early twentieth centuries when such figures as W E B DuBois asserted that American diversity rather than creating a harmonious melting pot actually brought about struggles among ethnic and racial groups for equal recognition in American culture and the arts Dr Price argues for a pluralistic approach to culture and for a definition of national culture that is dynamic rather than rigid He concludes that we need to change our perception of cultural and artistic worth if cultural pluralism is to succeed BOOK JACKET Title Summary field provided by Blackwell North America Inc All Rights Reserved Cultural Policy Toby Miller, George Yudice, 2002-11-19 Hitherto cultural theory and empirical work on culture have outstripped cultural policy. Burayidi, 1997 This book provides a discussion of .1998 multiculturalism from a global perspective It progresses from a discussion of the ideological and philosophical arguments for multiculturalism through its political public policy and socio economic dimensions Multicultural practices from Canada Germany India Israel Nigeria Rwanda the United Kingdom and the United States are discussed The response to multiculturalism differs from one country to the other and is influenced by the political context rules of immigration colonial legacy domestic institutional structures and pressure from interest groups Because multiculturalism is a contentious issue as groups vie for limited resources the debate on multiculturalism will be a heated one Governments can facilitate the process by creating an environment that enables the exchange of ideas without conflict and antagonism The Visual Culture Reader Nicholas Mirzoeff, 2002 The diverse essays collected here constitute an exploration of the emerging interdisciplinary field of visual culture and examine why modern and postmodern culture place such a premium on rendering experience in visual form World War II, Film, and History John Whiteclay Chambers II, David Culbert, 1996-10-10 The immediacy and perceived truth of the visual image as well as film and television s ability to propel viewers back into the past place the genre of the historical film in a special category War films including antiwar films have established the prevailing public image of war in the twentieth century For American audiences the dominant image of trench warfare in World War I has been provided by feature films such as All Quiet on the Western Front and Paths of Glory The image of combat in the Second World War has been shaped by films like Sands of Iwo Jima and The Longest Day And despite claims for the alleged impact of widespread television coverage of the Vietnam War it is actually films such as Apocalypse Now and Platoon which have provided the most powerful images of what is seen as the reality of that much disputed conflict But to what degree does history written with lightning as Woodrow Wilson allegedly said represent the reality of the past To what extent is visual history an oversimplification or even a distortion of the past Exploring the relationship between moving images and the society and culture in which they were produced and received World War II Film and History addresses the power these images have had in determining our perception and memories of war Examining how the public memory of war in the twentieth century has often been created more by a manufactured past than a remembered one a leading group of historians discusses films dating from the early 1930s through the early 1990s created by filmmakers the world over from the United States and Germany to Japan and the former Soviet Union For example Freda Freiberg explains how the interracial melodramatic Japanese feature film China Nights in which a manly and protective Japanese naval officer falls in love with a beautiful young Chinese street waif and molds her into a cultured submissive wife proved enormously popular with wartime Japanese and helped justify the invasion of China in the minds of many Japanese viewers Peter Paret assesses the historical accuracy of Kolberg as a depiction of an unsuccessful siege of that German city by a French Army in 1807 and explores how the film released by Hitler's regime in January 1945 explicitly called for civilian sacrifice and last ditch resistance Stephen Ambrose contrasts what we know about the historical reality of the Allied D Day landings in Normandy on June 6 1944 with the 1962 release of The Longest Day in which the major climactic moment in the film never happened at Normandy Alice Kessler Harris examines The Life and Times of Rosie the Riveter a 1982 film documentary about women defense workers on the American home front in World War II emphasizing the degree to which the documentary s engaging main characters and its message of the need for fair and equal treatment for women resonates with many contemporary viewers And Clement Alexander Price contrasts Men of Bronze William Miles s fine documentary about black American soldiers who fought in France in World War I with Liberators the controversial documentary by Miles and Nina Rosenblum which incorrectly claimed that African American troops liberated Holocaust survivors at Dachau in World War II In today s visually oriented world powerful images even images of images are circulated in an eternal cycle gaining increased acceptance through repetition History becomes an endless loop in which repeated images validate and reconfirm each other Based on archival materials many of which have become only recently available World War II Film and History offers an informative and a disturbing look at the complex relationship between national myths and filmic memory as well as the dangers of visual images being transformed into reality The Democracy Reader Sondra Myers, 2002 This book is an all in one introduction to both the theory and practice of democracy aimed at upper level high school and university students as well as civic minded adults in both old and new democracies Portions of the book are extracted from the Democracy is a Discussion handbooks

Arts and Societal Learning: Transforming Communities Socially, Politically, and Culturally Sandra Hayes, Lyle Yorks, 2007 The literature on adult education reflects a growing recognition of the role that the arts can play in facilitating adult and societal learning This volume further explores that role Much adult learning takes place in settings other than formal classrooms and the contributors to this volume represent diverse educational arenas In putting together this volume we deliberately approached contributors whose work is relevant to the theory and practice of adult education regardless of their professional pedigree Although all the contributors see adult and societal learning as an important aspect of their work not all would define themselves as professional adult educators. There is much to be learned by connecting the formal theories and practices of adult education to the work of these educators and activists. Some of the chapters are more analytical and other chapters are more expressive but each includes a story of the author's personal experience integrating the arts with the theory underlying adult education practice. The final chapter pulls together the themes that emerge from these chapters suggesting how they connect with and contribute to adult education theory. Taken in its entirety the volume demonstrates the power of the arts for bridging boundaries broadening perspective and deepening understanding across disciplines. We hope that readers will find the experiences reported in this issue relevant and stimulating for their own practice. This is the 116th volume of the Jossey Bass quarterly report series. New Directions for Adult and Continuing Education an indispensable series that explores issues of common interest to instructors administrators counselors and policymakers in a broad range of adult and continuing education settings such as colleges and universities extension programs businesses libraries and museums
