Academic Literacy in the English Classroom Carolyn R. Boiarsky, 2003 What do high school English teachers need to teach to get their students ready for college And how do college instructors help underprepared students succeed once they're there These are two pertinent questions for which Carolyn Boiarsky and the contributors to this volume have some answers Boiarsky put together this book to pre-empt the problems teachers face in class particularly with first generation college students and others from working class and immigrant families First she discusses the content and socialization issues involved in academic literacy and exactly what that phrase means Then she and other educators describe activities and strategies that teachers can use to help students acquire the skills they need to read and write at the college level These strategies involve information transfer and learning to learn the craft and the art of writing academic prose from developing a felt sense of writing to achieving flow promoting active readership encouraging exploration of texts through note taking notecard making and mapping engaging with literature reading as transaction the process of constructing meaning learning the language and rhetorical conventions of the academy with particular attention to vernacular dialect speakers and English language learners What the academy demands is the ability to read often technical jargon laden textbooks to write research papers using appropriate field specific language and conventions and to discuss topics in the form appropriate to that field The strategies offered in this book will help teachers prepare students to accomplish these tasks whether American born native speakers ESL students or children of the working middle or professional class

Dismantling the Master's Clock Rasheedah Phillips,2025-01-28 A radical new treatise on time quantum physics and racial justice from world renowned artist and advocate Rasheedah Phillips of Black Quantum Futurism Dismantling the Master s Clock is a groundbreaking debut work that synthesizes philosophy and the history of science with Black cultural traditions speculative fiction and Phillips s own art practice to argue for a more equitable access to time and the future While some processes like aging birth or car crashes seem to occur in only one direction of time by the apparent logic of the universe human consciousness should experience time both backwards and forwards Though past and present organize our lives like unarguable fact the physicists who study time are much less certain Linear time is an illusion explains Rasheedah Phillips a construct even science contests It is based more on Western history and systems of social order than on nature or the variety of human existence Both indigenous African conceptions of time and quantum physics recognize how the past present and future act upon and modify each other Afrodiasporic identity is itself a time traveling phenomenon in which the past is always present Phillips unfurls time s legacy of racial oppression from maritime navigation for colonial expansion and the timekeeping methods of plantation overseers to the establishment of Greenwich Mean Time and the Western Scramble for Africa time has been a homogenizing project of the last few centuries Phillips unsettles dominant assumptions of space and time highlighting how Black communities have long subverted these through alternative temporal frameworks

Mapmaker Revisited Beatriz Badikian,1999 Where Caciques and Mapmakers Met Jeffrey Alan Erbig Jr.,2020-03-13 During the late eighteenth century Portugal and Spain sent joint mapping expeditions to draw a nearly 10 000 mile border between Brazil and Spanish South America These boundary commissions were the largest ever sent to the Americas and coincided with broader imperial reforms enacted throughout the hemisphere Where Caciques and Mapmakers Met considers what these efforts meant to Indigenous peoples whose lands the border crossed Moving beyond common frameworks that assess mapped borders strictly via colonial law or Native sovereignty it examines the interplay between imperial and Indigenous spatial imaginaries What results is an intricate spatial history of border making in southeastern South America present day Argentina Brazil and Uruguay with global implications Drawing upon manuscripts from over two dozen archives in seven countries Jeffrey Erbig traces on the ground interactions between Ibero American colonists Jesuit and Guaran mission dwellers and autonomous Indigenous peoples as they responded to ever changing notions of territorial possession It reveals that Native agents shaped when and where the border was drawn and fused it to their own territorial claims While mapmakers assertions of Indigenous disappearance or subjugation shaped historiographical imaginations thereafter Erbig reveals that the formation of a border was contingent upon Native engagement and authority
