The Typological Imaginary Kathleen Biddick, 2013-10-09 In this book Kathleen Biddick investigates the fate of the enduring timelines fabricated by early Christians to distinguish themselves from their Jewish neighbors Ranging widely across the history of text technology and book art she relates three interwoven stories the Christians translation of circumcision into a graphic problem of writing on the heart the temporal construction of Christian notions of history based on the binary supersession of an Old Testament past by the present of a new dispensation and the traumatic repetition of the graphic cutting off of Christians from Jews in academic history and anthropology Moving beyond well studied theological polemics Biddick works from the relatively unfamiliar vantage point of the graphic technologies used in medieval and early modern texts and print sources from maps to trial transcripts to universal histories Addressing current concerns about the posthuman condition by linking them to a deeper genealogy of disembodiment at the technological heart of imaginary fantasies she argues that such supersessionary practices extend to contemporary psychoanalytic and postcolonial texts even as they propose alternative ways of thinking about memory and temporality Crucial to Biddick's study is the ethical challenge of unbinding the typological imaginary not in order to disavow theological difference but rather to open up the encounter between Christian and Jew to less deadening teleological readings Making a significant contribution to the large debate over the transition from scriptural to scientific culture in Europe The Typological Imaginary also succeeds in shedding light on the centrality of Jews to medieval and Enlightenment history     Introduction to Remote Sensing James B. Campbell, Randolph H. Wynne, 2011-06-21

Paradigmatic Shifts in Geographical Thought Lalita Rana,2020-01-01 In advancing disciplines like Geography the methodological debate is a sign of health In Geography there has been extreme diversity of viewpoints on both philosophy and methodology with constant extension and also a shift in focus The methodology of geography came under debate for the first time during the middle of twentieth century when the paper published by F K Schaefer an American scholar brought both the qualitative and quantitative revolution in geographic development Shortly after this publication were discussed the paradigmatic shifts in a discipline by Thomas S Kuhn another American scholar through his seminal work in which he painted a picture of the development of science quite unlike that had gone before In order to elucidate this process of development of science Kuhn prepared a model termed as the Paradigm of Science Distinct parallels may be sought between the historical evolution of scientific discipline as explained by Thomas Kuhn and the historical evolution of the discipline of geography Seeking inspiration from the works of both of the great scholars mentioned above the present book examines the evolution of geographical thought from the perspective of Thomas Kuhn Two publications of mine 2008 2014 are on this line only However the methodological literature to understand the philosophical background making possible this disciplinary growth is too small The purpose here is to explore and screen the growth and development of Geography under sequential methodological changes over time in the light of various paradigmatic shifts with the acknowledgement of crises and revolutionary phases of development in the discipline Accordingly the work identifies eight paradigmatic shifts intercepted by eight phases of crises in the discipline
