The Marvel of Maps Francesca Fiorani,2005-01-01 Among the most beautiful and compelling works of Renaissance art painted maps adorned the halls and galleries of princely palaces This book is the first to discuss in detail the three dimensional display of these painted map cycles and their full meaning in Renaissance culture Art historian Francesca Fiorani focuses on two of the most significant and marvelous surviving Italian map murals the Guardaroba Nuova of the Palazzo Vecchio Florence commissioned by Duke Cosimo de Medici and the Gallery of Maps in the Vatican commissioned by Pope Gregory XIII Both cycles were not only pioneering cartographic enterprises but also powerful political and religious images Presenting an original interpretation of the interaction between art science politics and religion in Renaissance culture the book also offers fresh insights into the Medici and papal courts The Mapmakers' Quest David Buisseret, 2003-05-22 In 1400 Europe was behind large parts of the world in its understanding of the use of maps For instance the people of China and of Japan were considerably more advanced in this respect And yet by 1600 the Europeans had come to use maps for a huge variety of tasks and were far ahead of the rest of the world in their appreciation of the power and use of cartography The Mapmakers Quest seeks to understand this development not only to tease out the strands of thought and practice which led to the use of maps but also to assess the ways in which such use affected European societies and economies Taking as a starting point the question of why there were so few maps in Europe in 1400 and so many by 1650 the book explores the reasons for this and its implications for European history It examines inter al how mapping and military technology advanced in tandem how modern states territories were mapped and borders drawn up the role of maps in shaping the urban environment and cartography's links to the new sciences Explorers & Mapmakers of Canada Gr. 7-8 , Textual Rivals David Branscome, 2013-11-06 Textual Rivals studies some of the most debated issues in Herodotean scholarship One such is Herodotus self presentation the conspicuousness of his authorial persona is one of the most remarkable features of his Histories So frequently does he interject first person comments into the narrative that Herodotus at times almost becomes a character within his own text Important issues are tied to Herodotus self presentation First is the narrator's relationship to truth to what extent does he expect readers to trust his narrative While judgments regarding Herodotus overall veracity have often been damning scholars have begun to concentrate on how Herodotus presents his truthfulness Second is the precise genre Herodotus means to create with his work Excluding the anachronistic term historian exactly what would Herodotus have called himself as author Third is the presence of self referential characters whose actions often mirror Herodotus as narrator researcher in the Histories David Branscome's investigative text points to the rival inquirers in Herodotus Histories as a key to unraveling these interpretive problems The rival inquirers are self referential characters Herodotus uses to further his authorial self presentation Through the contrast Herodotus draws between his own exacting standards as an inquirer and the often questionable standards of those rivals Herodotus underlines just how truthful readers should find his own work Textual Rivals speaks to those interested in Greek history and historiography narratology and ethnography Those in the growing ranks of Herodotus fans will find much to invite and intrigue The New Nature of Maps J. B. Harley, 2002-10-03 In these essays the author draws on ideas in art history literature philosophy and the study of visual culture to subvert the traditional positivist model of cartography and replace it with one grounded in an iconological and semiotic theory of the nature of maps
