Language of the Land Leslie Ray, 2007

This is the first book in English to examine the contemporary Mapuche: their culture, their struggle for autonomy within the modern day nation state, their religion, language and distinct identity. Leslie Ray looks back over the history of relations between the Mapuche and the Argentine and Chilean states and examines issues of ethnicity, biodiversity and bio piracy in Mapuche lands today, their struggle for rights over natural resources and the impact of tourism and neoliberalism. The Mapuche of what is today southern Chile and Argentina were the first and only indigenous peoples on the continent to have their sovereignty legally recognized by the Spanish empire and their reputation for ferocity and bravery was legendary among the Spanish invaders. Their sense of communal identity and personal courage has forged among the Mapuche a strong instinct for self preservation over the centuries. Today their struggle continues, neither Chile nor Argentina specifically recognize the rights of indigenous peoples. In recent years disputes over land rights, particularly in Chile, have provoked fierce protests from the Mapuche. In both countries policies of assimilation have had a disastrous effect on the Mapuche language and cultural integrity. Even so, in recent years the Mapuche have managed a remarkable cultural and political resurgence, in part through a tenacious defense of their ancestral lands and natural resources against marauding multinationals which has catapulted them to regional and international attention. Leslie Ray has been a freelance translator since the mid 1980s. He has translated a number of books from Italian and Spanish in the fields of architecture, design and art history. A regular visitor to Argentina since the late eighties, he has worked actively with Mapuche organizations there since the late 1990s. In addition to his work on the Mapuche, he has also published articles on Argentine social, indigenous and language related issues for publications as diverse as History Today and The Linguist.

Decolonizing Patagonia: Mapuche Peoples and State Formation in Argentina Lucas Savino examines Indigenous efforts for self determination, territorial autonomy and decolonization in Northern Patagonia, Argentina. Through an analysis of the ways in which Mapuche activists organize in particular localities in the province of Neuquén, this book contributes to broader theoretical understandings of collective identity formation and Indigenous activism under multicultural, neoliberal regimes of citizenship. Building on interdisciplinary contributions on state formation, citizenship and collective identity formation, Savino demonstrates that territorial struggles and the importance of the local political level are crucial for understanding how collective identities are configured independent republics in Chile and the R o de la Plata in the decades after independence Exile was central to state and nation formation playing a role in the emergence of territorial borders and Romantic notions of national difference while creating a transnational political culture that spanned the new independent nations Analyzing the mobility of a large cohort of largely elite political migr s from Chile and the R o de la Plata across much of South America before 1862 Edward Blumenthal reinterprets the political thought of well known figures in a transnational context of exile As Blumenthal shows exile was part of a reflexive process in which elites imagined the nation from abroad while gaining experience building the same state and civil society institutions they considered integral to their republican nation building projects
