The Marabi Dance, 1973

Post-Apartheid Dance Sharon Friedman, 2013-01-16 The intention of this work is to present perspectives on post apartheid dance in South Africa by South African authors Beginning with an historical context for dance in SA the book moves on to reflect the multiplicity of bodies voices and stories suggested by the title Given the diversity of conflicting realities experienced by artists in this country contentious issues have deliberately been juxtaposed in an attempt to draw attention to the complexity of dancing on the ashes of apartheid Although the focus is dance since 1994 all chapters are rooted in an historical analysis and offer a view of the field This book is ground breaking as it is the first of its kind to speak of contemporary dance in South Africa and the first singular body of work to have emerged in any book form that attempts to provide a cohesive account of the range of voices within dance in post apartheid South Africa The book is scholarly in nature and has wide applications for colleges and universities without alienating dance lovers or minds curious about dance in Africa Mindful of its wide audience the writing deliberately adopts an uncomplicated reader friendly tone given the diversity of audiences including dance students dance scholars critics and general dance lovers that it will attract

Making the Changes Michael Titlestad, 2021-11-15 Throughout its history South African Jazz has been formed from complex transactions with other black Atlantic cultures identities and political possibilities Making the Changes considers jazz discourse from the legendary Ian Valters of the Sophiatown writers through the King Kong reportage and white writing to the agonised poetics of exile

Planned Violence Elleke Boehmer, Dominic Davies, 2018-11-29 This book brings the insights of social geographers and cultural historians into a critical dialogue with literary narratives of urban culture and theories of literary cultural production In so doing it explores new ways of conceptualizing the relationship between urban planning its often violent effects and literature Comparing the spatial pasts and presents of the post imperial and post colonial cities of London Delhi and Johannesburg but also including case studies of other cities such as Chicago Belfast Jerusalem and Mumbai Planned Violence investigates how that iconic site of modernity the colonial city was imagined by its planners and how this urban imagination and the cultural and social interventions that arose in response to it made violence a part of the everyday social life of its subjects Throughout however the collection also explores the extent to which literary and cultural productions might actively resist infrastructures of planned violence and imagine alternative ways of inhabiting post colonial city spaces      Race, Class and Christianity in South Africa Ibrahim Abraham,2021-07-31 This book explores the relationship between race and class among middle class Christians in South Africa The book provides a theoretically sophisticated and empirically rich study of middle class Christians in contemporary South Africa as they seek to live good lives and build a good society Focused on the city of Cape Town drawing upon ethnographic research in conservative and progressive multiracial Protestant churches furnished with critical analysis of South African literature and popular culture this timely study explores expressions of ambition and anxiety that are both spiritual and material Building upon debates over middle class identity and morality from sociology anthropology and cultural studies this book analyses congregational attempts at social unity through worship music and creative youth ministry discussions on white privilege and shame and the impact of middle class black activism in South African churches and society This book will be of interest to researchers of South African culture and society religion anthropology and sociology      History from South Africa Joshua Brown,1991 More starkly than any other contemporary social conflict the crisis in South Africa highlights the complexities and conflicts in race gender class and nation These original articles most of which were written by South African authors are from a special issue of the Radical History Review published in Spring 1990 that mapped the development of interpretations of the South African past that depart radically from the official history The articles range from the politics of black movements in the nineteenth and twentieth centuries to studies of film television and theater as reflections of modern social conflict History from South Africa is presented in two main sections discussions of the historiography of South Africa from the viewpoint of those rewriting it with a radical outlook and investigations into popular history and popular culture the production and reception of history in the public realm In addition two photo essays dramatize this history visually maps and a chronology complete the presentation The book provides a fresh look at major issues in South African social and labor history and popular culture and focuses on the role of historians in creating and interacting with a popular movement of resistance and social change      Women in South African History Nomboniso Gasa,2007 Accompanying CD ROM contains the complete text of the printed volume

European-language Writing in Sub-Saharan Africa Albert S. Gérard,1986-01-01 The first major comparative study of African writing in western languages European language Writing in Sub Saharan Africa edited by Albert S G rard falls into four wide ranging sections an overview of early contacts and colonial developments Under Western Eyes chapters on Black Consciousness manifest in the debates over Panafricanism and Negritude a group of essays on mental decolonization expressed in Black Power texts at the time of independence struggles and finally Comparative Vistas sketching directions that future comparative study might explore An introductory essay stresses the millennia of writing in Africa side by side with a richly eloquent and artistic set of vernacular oral traditions written and oral traditions have become interwoven in adaptations of imported forms and linguistic innovations that challenge traditional high literary norms G rard uses the mathematical concept of fuzzy sets to explain why the focus on Black Africa has led him to set aside for future analysis the literatures produced in North Africa which fall under the influence of Muslim civilization as well as the diasporic literatures of the New World Over sixty scholars from twenty two countries contribute specialized studies of creative writing by leading authors in the nineteenth and twentieth centuries such as Achebe Mphahlele Ngugi Senghor Soyinka and Tutuola Critical analyses are organized primarily around regions reflecting different colonial languages imposed through schools and other social institutions Some authors trace the adaptation of western genres others identify syncretism with folktales or myths The volumes are attentive to the heterogeneity of national literatures addressed to polyethnic and multilingual populations and they note the instrumental politics of language in newly independent states A closing chapter Tasks Ahead identifies areas for future scholars to explore

Monarchs, Missionaries and African Intellectuals Bhekizizwe Peterson, 2021-08-01 Much of the work in the field of African studies still relies on rigid distinctions of tradition and modernity collaboration and resistance indigenous and foreign This book moves well beyond these frameworks to probe the complex entanglements of different intellectual traditions in the South African context by examining two case studies The case studies constitute the core around which is woven this intriguing story of the development of black theatre in South Africa in the early years of the century It also highlights the dialogue between African and African American intellectuals and the intellectual formation of the early African elite in relation to colonial authority and how each affected the other in complicated ways The first case study centres on Mariannhill Mission in KwaZulu Natal Here the evangelical and pedagogical drama pioneered by the Rev Bernard Huss is considered alongside the work of one of the mission s most eminent alumni the poet and scholar B W Vilakazi The second moves to Johannesburg and gives a detailed insight into the working of the Bantu Dramatic Society and the drama of H I E Dhlomo in relation to the British Drama League and other white liberal cultural activities

Emerging Traditions Vicki Briault Manus, 2012-07-10 The monograph explores the linguistic impact of the colonial and postcolonial situations in South Africa on language policy on literary production and especially on the stylistics of fiction by indigenous South Africans writing in English A secondary concern is to investigate the present place of English in the multilingual spectrum of South African languages and to see how this worldly English relates to Global English in the South African context The introduction presents a socio linguistic overview of South Africa from pre historic times until the present including language planning policies during and after the colonial era and a cursory review of how the difficulties encountered in implementing the Language Plan provided for by the new South African constitution impinge on the development of black South African English Six chapters track the course of English in South Africa since the arrival of the British in 1795 considered from the point of view of the indigenous African population The study focuses on ways in which indigenous authors indigenize their writing innovating and subverting stylistic conventions including those of African orature in order to bend language and genre towards their own culture and objectives Each chapter corresponds to a briefly outlined historical period that is largely reflected in linguistic and literary developments A small number of significant works for each period are discussed one of which is selected for a case study at the end of each chapter where it is subjected to detailed stylistic analysis and appraised for the degree of indigenization or other linguistic or socio historic influences on style The methodology adopted is a linguistic approach to stylistics focusing on indigenization of English inspired by the work of Chantal Zabus in her book The African Palimpsest Indigenization of Language in the West African Europhone Novel 2007 1991 The conclusion reappraises the original hypothesis that the specific characteristi
