The Challenge of Sustainability Hugh Atkinson, Ros Wade, 2014-12-03 This timely and accessible book explores the links between politics learning and sustainability Its central focus is the future of people and the planet itself The challenges that we face in combatting climate change and building a more sustainable world are complex and the book argues that if we are to successfully meet these challenges we need a fundamental change in the way we do politics and economics embedding a lifelong commitment to sustainability in all learning We have no option but to make things work for the better After all planet earth is the only home we have The book will be important reading for academics and students in a variety of related subjects including politics public policy education sustainable development geography media international relations and development studies It will also be a valuable resource for NGOs and policy makers Nairobi Becoming Joost

Fontein, Tessa Diphoorn, Peter Lockwood, Constance Smith, 2024-02-09 Echoing the edgy disjunctive ever emergent city of Nairobi that it explores Nairobi Becoming Security Uncertainty Contingency strives to be several things in the making It is a historically and anthropologically minded examination of a shifting cityscape an experimental collaborative exercise in curated juxtaposition and assemblage and an interdisciplinary subjunctive urban ethnography It brings together curated interventions by twenty seven artists scholars and writers to trace Nairobi s becoming Methodologically experimental and multimodal it seeks to balance an appreciation of Nairobi s fragmented character while also recognizing its contingent coherency Nairobi Becoming curates an eclectic collection of different voices and interventions to evoke something of the city s manifold guises and historicities an urban mosaic of partial experiences as well as dawning possibilities for future becomings Assembling scholarship literature creative non fiction and visual art the contributions are arranged around particular themes while resisting the urge to develop a singular coherent voice Security in its various guises is the linking thread the point of articulation that connects apparently disparate elements of Nairobi life from sex work to roadbuilding goat markets to funerals Security is here an analytical operator a concept that refracts the seemingly diverse modalities of life in Nairobi and with the related domains of uncertainty and contingency brings the city s dynamics of fragmentation and coherence to the surface in surprising ways If confronting Nairobi s will to coherence amidst the strains of fragmentation is the empirical and analytical challenge of Nairobi Becoming then it is through collaboration and juxtaposition curation and contrast and the messiness of assemblage that this book chimes with the fraught multiplicities of a city in the making As such this book is also an exploration of the inevitable tension that exists between curatorial intent and the possibility of allowing each contribution to stand for itself Turnaround Challenge Michael Blowfield, Leo Johnson, 2013-09-13 Do we have the rights to optimism Can capitalism deliver a next great wave of growth The future wrote William Gibson is already here It just isn t evenly distributed yet Lucid and polemical Turnaround Challenge is a dig into that future and its meaning for business It dissects the nexus of social economic environmental and governance crises confronting us and a series of colliding megatrends with the potential to reshape opportunities for growth Three cities of the future are emerging The first is Petropolis the alluringly familiar but decreasingly resilient city locked into the century old technologies of fossil fuel driven mass production This is the city of rising inequality credit fuelled consumption offshored jobs climate volatility and unsustainable household and national debt The second city is Cyburbia This is mass production on the steroids of IT the latest manifestation of science fictions city without pain but one inhabited by voice activated popcorn dispensers of athletics shoes with in built Twitter feeds of sensor packed and censoring glass towers that risk reducing their citizens to digital factors of production in the supply chain of big data The third is the Distributed City where technology is deployed with the intent to connect us not virtually but physically from Nairobi s network of innovation spaces to Hamburg s Participatory Budgeting experiments from Barcelona s network for micro manufacturing to Austin s distributed smart grid These are the cities of society s future and they have very different implications for business success and our ability to navigate the social economic and environmental megatrends that confront us Blowfield and Johnson present the DNA of the winners of the future high growth and disruptive businesses emerging from the bottom up and with the capacity to tackle society s biggest challenges head on

Urbanization Challenges in Sub-Saharan Africa Christine Auclair,2005 Africa Challenge,2003 Indians in Kenya Sana Aiyar,2015-04-06 Working as merchants skilled tradesmen clerks lawyers and journalists Indians formed the economic and administrative middle class in colonial Kenya In general they were wealthier than Africans but were denied the political and economic privileges that Europeans enjoyed Moreover despite their relative prosperity Indians were precariously positioned in Kenya Africans usually viewed them as outsiders and Europeans largely considered them subservient Indians demanded recognition on their own terms Indians in Kenya chronicles the competing often contradictory strategies by which the South Asian diaspora sought a political voice in Kenya from the beginning of colonial rule in the late 1890s to independence in the 1960s Indians intellectual economic and political connections with South Asia shaped their understanding of their lives in Kenya Sana Aiyar investigates how the many strands of Indians diasporic identity influenced Kenya s political leadership from claiming partnership with Europeans in their mission to colonize and civilize East Africa to successful collaborations with Africans to battle for racial equality including during the Mau Mau Rebellion She also explores how the hierarchical structures of colonial governance the material inequalities between Indians and Africans and the racialized political discourses that flourished in both colonial and postcolonial Kenya limited the success of alliances across racial and class lines Aiyar demonstrates that only by examining the ties that bound Indians to worlds on both sides of the Indian Ocean can we understand how Kenya came to terms with its South Asian minority

Global Sustainability, Cultural Perspectives and Challenges for Transdisciplinary Integrated

Research Benno Werlen, 2015-05-28 This book offers new perspectives of transdisciplinary research in methodological as well as theoretical respects. It provides insights in the two-fold bio-physical and the socio-cultural global embeddedness of local living conditions on the basis of selected empirical studies from Latin America, Asia, Africa, Australia and Europe. The theoretical foundations of ecological research and sustainability policies were developed at the end of the nineteenth century. They are largely based on investigations of living spaces and the evolution and differentiation of varied life forms. This perspective is embedded in the practical and theoretical European problem situations of the past and lacks social and cultural differentiation. The transformation of spatial and natural relations as a result of the globalization process is so radical that new theories are needed to solve 21st century ecological problems. Moreover, in view of the lack of an ontologically sound and promising strategy for transdisciplinary problem solving as well as an acceptable consideration of the power of cultural schemas relating to natural living spaces, interpretations, there is a strong need to focus on sustainable social practices, habits and routines rather than on predominantly living spaces or ecotopes. This book elaborates on the transdisciplinary approach by reflecting on the theoretical heritage and a global perspective of sustainability by focusing on the primary role of a social approach in sustainability research and by putting emphasis on the cultural dimension of sustainability. It postulates that global sustainability is grounded in a global understanding of our everyday activities.
