Namibia The Violent Heritage:

Namibia David Soggot, 1986 Swapo's Struggle for Namibia, 1960-1991 Lauren Dobell, 1998 Cultures of Empire Catherine Hall, 2000 This reader collects together articles by key historians literary critics and anthropologists on the cultures of colonialism in the British Empire in the 19th and 20th centuries It is divided into three sections theoretical emphasizing approaches the colonisers at home and away Namibia Bryan O'Linn, 2003 Germany's Genocide of the Herero Jeremy Sarkin, Jeremy Sarkin-Hughes, 2011 In 1904 the indigenous Herero people of German South West Africa now Namibia rebelled against their German occupiers In the following four years the German army retaliated killing between 60 000 and 100 000 Herero people one of the worst atrocities ever The history of the Herero genocide remains a key issue for many around the world partly because the German policy not to pay reparations for the Namibian genocide contrasts with its long standing Holocaust reparations policy The Herero case bears not only on transitional justice issues throughout Africa but also on legal issues elsewhere in the world where reparations for colonial injustices have been called for The book argues that the Herero genocide was linked to Germany's late entry into the colonial race which led it frenetically and ruthlessly to acquire multiple colonies all over the world within a very short period using any means available Colonial Genocide and Reparations Claims in the 21st Century Jeremy Sarkin, 2008-11-30 More and more the descendants of indigenous victims of genocide land expropriation forced labor and other systematic human rights violations committed by colonial powers are seeking reparations under international law from the modern successor governments and corporations As the number of colonial reparations cases increases courts around the world are being asked to apply international law to determine whether reparations are due for atrocities and crimes that might have been committed long ago but whose lasting effects are alleged to injure the modern descendants of the victims Sarkin analyzes the thorny issues of international law raised in such suits by focusing on groundbreaking cases in which he is involved as legal advisor to the paramount chief of the Herero people of Namibia In 2001 the Herero became the first ethnic group to seek reparations under the legal definition of genocide by bringing multi billion dollar suits against Germany and German companies in a number of U S federal courts under the Alien Torts Claim Act of 1789 The Herero genocide conducted in German South West Africa present day Namibia between 1904 and 1908 is recognized by the UN as the first organized state genocide in world history Although the Herero were subjected to Germany's First Genocide they have unlike the victims of the Holocaust received no reparations from Germany By machine gun massacres starvation poisoning and forced labor in Germany's first concentration camps the German Schutztruppe systematically exterminated as many as 105 000 Herero women and children composing most of the Herero population Sarkin considers whether these historical events constitute legally defined genocide crimes against humanity and other international crimes He evaluates the legal status of indigenous polities in Africa at the time and he explores the enduring impact in Namibia of the Germany's colonial campaign of genocide He extrapolates the Herero case to
