Mapping and Naming the Moon Ewen A. Whitaker, 2003-12-11 Almost 30 years after the Apollo missions Tranquillity Base Hadley Rille or Taurus Littrow are names still resonant with the enormous achievements represented by the lunar landings But how did these places get their names Who named Copernicus Crater Where did all those names on lunar maps come from and what stimulated their selection Ewen Whitaker traces the origins and evolution of the present day systems for naming lunar features such as craters mountains valleys and dark spots The connections between the prehistoric and historic names and today's gazetteer are clearly described Beautiful lunar maps spanning four centuries of progress wonderfully illustrate the unfolding of our ability to map the Moon Rare early photographs add to the sense of history Comprehensive appendices and the bibliography make this delightful book a work of lasting reference and scholarship

Moons: A Very Short Introduction David A. Rotheny, 2015-11-26 Proving to be both varied and fascinating moons are far more common than planets in our Solar System Our own Moon has had a profound influence on Earth not only through tidal effects but even on the behaviour of some marine animals Many remarkable things have been discovered about the moons of the giant outer planets from Voyager Galileo Cassini and other spacecraft Scientists have glimpsed volcanic activity on Io found oceans of water on Titan and captured photos of icy geysers bursting from Enceladus It looks likely that microbial life beyond the Earth may be discovered on a moon rather than a planet In this Very Short Introduction David Rotheny introduces the reader to the moons of our Solar System beginning with the early discoveries of Galileo and others describing their variety of mostly mythological names and the early use of Jupiter's moons to establish position at sea and to estimate the speed of light Rotheny discusses the structure formation and influence of our Moon and those of the other planets and ends with the recent discovery of moons orbiting asteroids whilst looking forward to the possibility of finding moons of exoplanets in planetary systems far beyond our own

Who's Who In The Moon Brian Jones, 2024-12-30 Who's Who in the Moon is aimed not only at the beginner or near beginner but also at the backyard astronomer who is perhaps experienced in other areas of observation but who has decided to spend more time considering the Moon as an alternative target. The book provides a visual introduction to our closest celestial neighbor opening with an introductory section which details both with the history of lunar mapping and naming of lunar formations as well as providing useful information on observing the lunar surface and what observers can realistically expect to see when they look at the Moon with the naked eye, binoculars or a small medium telescope. The introductory section is followed by a lengthy series of images including not only wide field panoramic views but also a large number of more detailed images showing close up views of different areas of the Moon and featuring individual craters, mountains, valleys and much more. Many of the individual features shown on these images are identified by name and are accompanied by biographical sketches relating to the men and women after whom they are named. This is a non-technical up close and personal visual look at the Earth's only natural satellite and many of the individual features scattered across its surface. Rather than offering itself as a full and exhaustive guide to the lunar surface, A Guide to the Moon is more of a vade mecum which enables and hopefully encourages the reader to become more acquainted with the lunar landscape on a personal level with a view to learning more about the astronomers and other scientists whose names are immortalised by having lunar features named after them. Who's Who in the Moon was inspired by and is a tribute to a Memoir published by the British Astronomical Association (BAA) in 1938 entitled Who's Who in the Moon written by Mary Evershed, the first Director of the BAA Historical Section. The biographical notes in A Guide to the Moon include examples of those penned by Mary Evershed in her original publication.

modern times then the name given by you may not cause him to become a comic character in the future At the same time some people also believe that if we name our child after a famous person then he will become famous like that person So let us tell you that a person becomes greater by his actions and moves forward only because of his efforts That is why always keep the name afterthought In many places you can guess the religion of the child by name By the way in present modern times people do not give much preference to religion etc while naming All they need for their child is just a catchy and easy name
